Youths Captured, Confess Slaying New York Trooper

Stanley Chero And William Schemmitzer Are Arrested In Oklahoma

INTENSIVE HUNT BY POLICE ENDS

Chero Admits Firing Fatal Shot—Admit Many Robberies—Stole Machine

(International News Service)
McALESTER, Okla., Mar. 27.—Stanley Chero, and William Schemmitzer, 21, confessed killers of John E. Frey, New York State trooper, were kept under close guard here today pending the expected arrival of Troy, N. Y., authorities.

Chero was seriously wounded in an attempted escape from the police station yesterday and was taken to Albert Pike Hospital, which is owned by an Indian Consistory. Examination disclosed that he is suffering from a bullet wound in the back and a broken leg caused by another revolver bullet.

Chero Confesses Slaying

At the hospital Chero corroborated the previous confession of Schemmitzer in which he admitted killing the New York State Trooper on a road near Troy.

In the joint confession the two youths said they had worked together in mines near Pittsburgh, Pa., and then after a short steam-boating career began stealing from stores.

Troopers Frey and Edward Updyke arrested the pair and Chero pulled a revolver which he had concealed and killed Frey and then

PA NEW OBSERVES

A well known local musician called Pa New by telephone this morning and said that she heard the band and orchestra of the New Castle senior high school perform Thursday night and wished to say that it was the most splendid student musical performance she had ever had the pleasure of hearing.

The adoration with which the new citizens of Lawrence county gazed upon the silk American flags presented them Thursday night in the Ben Franklin school might be well copied by the American born citizens. One could just see the worship in their eyes as they adopted this emblem for their own, and the carefulest with which they were folded when stored away in their pockets would well serve as an example of patriotism.

Do you think you could go to Poland, and in less than eight months time give Lincoln's Gettysburg address perfectly in Polish? Well, with the case reversed, that is what Mathilde Pison did last evening at the recognition service. She has been in the United States less than eight months and in very good English, she gave the famous words of Lincoln.

The Margaret Henry Home children, with Mrs. Madge Place in charge, attended the recognition service in the Ben Franklin school Thursday evening. The mother of three of the little girls at the home took part in the program.

Pupils of the New Castle public schools will start a week's vacation with the close of the session today. School will resume a week from

Wealthy Chicago Woman Is Robbed

Two Bandits Impersonate Officers—Woman Loses Coat, Rings And Car

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Mar. 27.—Police today were searching for two bandits who impersonated police officers to enter the automobile of Mrs. Beth W. McCormack, wealthy North Side resident, where they stripped her of a $5,000 coat and $9,000 in jewelry and took the automobile.

Displaying a star, the men forced their victim's car to the curb from the busy flow of traffic on the near North Side. They ordered her to drive into a side street where one of the men produced a revolver and ordered her to stop.

The gunmen took the woman's coat and rings and drove away in her automobile.

Daily Weather Report

U. S. weather bureau statistics for the 24-hour period ending at 9 o'clock this morning follow:

Maximum temperature, 50.
Minimum temperature, 32.
No precipitation.
River stage 6.7 feet.

New U. S. Citizens Given Formal Recognition At Meeting Thursday Night

Program Is Presented In Auditorium Of Ben Franklin High

International Institute In Charge Of Affair—Large Attendance

"In becoming citizens of the United States you have attained the greatest privilege and greatest privileges that can come to any man or woman in the whole world," said Judge James A. Chambers, and "You have made a far reaching decision, when you decide to take out your citizenship papers in this wonderful country, and although you still love the land of your birth, your responsibilities are to the United States," said Dr. Walter E. McClure, Thursday evening, when they addressed the newly naturalized citizens of the United States and their friends in the Benjamin Franklin Junior high school.

This annual program is a recognition service sponsored by the International Institute of the Y. W. C. A. for welcoming all those in Lawrence county who have become naturalized citizens of the United States during the preceding year.

One was impressed with the solemnity and dignity of the occasion.

Horse Owned By Britisher C. R. Taylor Wins Famous Aintree Classic

EASTER HERO IS BADLY OUTCLASSED

By CHARLES A. SMITH, International News Service Staff

AINTREE, Eng., Mar. 27.—America's hopes in one of the greatest grand national steeplechases ever run over this historic course were dashed today when Grakle, owned by C. R. Taylor, came home first with Gregalach, winner in 1929, close behind. Annandale, owned by Lady Glenapp, finished third. All were British owned horses.

In addition to beating out one of the greatest fields any grand national has seen in recent years, Grakle hung up a new course record of 9 minutes, 32 4/5 seconds.

Eleven American entries were among the starters, but none finished in the money. High hopes had been held out for J. H. Whitney's Easter Hero, the outstanding favorite, but he was pushed back behind the pack at an early stage of the proceedings.

Favorites Outclassed

It was a day of days for the bookmakers, for none of the horses that finished in the money had been favored to any degree. Grakle was quoted before the race at 100 to 8.

Witness Positive Brothers Was Man Who Killed Lingle

Clark Louis Applegate, Close Friend Of Lingle's Was On Scene Of Slaying

ONLY WITNESS TO SEE SHOOTING

Two Other Chicago Witnesses Identify Brothers As Man Who Fled Subway

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Mar. 27.—Hitherto undiscovered details of Alfred "Jake" Lingle's big-time financial dealings on a $65 a week reporter's salary were promised today as the murder trial of Leo V. Brothers, St. Louis gunman, reconvened with the states' star witness under fire by defense attorneys.

That witness, Clark Louis Applegate, Louisville race track devotee, like Lingle, pointed out Brothers yesterday in court as the light-haired gunman who killed Lingle in the Randolph street pedestrian subway last June 9.

Positive Identification

Applegate, admittedly a close friend of the racketeer, reported before a gangster's bullet brought death, supplied the state's all-important link in identifying Brothers as the man who actually fired the shot.

The prosecution had the snubbed revolver, dropped at the scene of the murder, and they contended, they had the man in Brothers. But Applegate was the first of the five witnesses heard thus far to bridge the gap between the gun and the hand of the killer. Actually, he was the only witness who really saw the execution in the crowded pedestrian subway.

Cross-examination of Applegate, interrupted by court adjournment, brought out a startling detail of Lingle's private life, in which he came to be known as Chicago's "unofficial police chief," and banked an annual income of $60,000 on his nominal wage as a news-gatherer.

Applegate testified that Lingle, three days before he was put on the "spot" approached him and said he wanted to buy two good race horses. When informed that they would cost around $20,000 or $25,000 Lingle told Applegate to "look around" for them, according to the witness.

Further Plans For Securing Garden Plots

Committees Are Named To Make Arrangements At Round Table Meeting

MANY INQUIRIES HAVE BEEN RECEIVED

Plans to furnish free garden plots for residents of the city, who are deserving, was taken up at the meeting of the Round Table, with which all charitable organizations of the city are affiliated, Thursday afternoon.

A committee consisting of M. B. Hogue, welfare officer of the Lawrence County Poor District, Orville Potter, executive secretary of the Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross, and Miss Della Glenn, executive secretary of the Associated Charities, was named to secure finances and provide seeds.

Mrs. Will C. Kennedy of 465 Neshamock avenue will take care of the registration of grounds, which will be donated by residents of the city, and it is hoped to secure the assistance of some of the women's organizations of the city in conducting investigations of applicants. Mrs. Kennedy can be reached at phone 589.

Several additional offers of ground have been received by the

Swick's Condition Reported Serious

Word was received today from Washington, D. C., stating that Dr. J. Howard Swick, congressman from the local district, who underwent an operation in the Walter Reed hospital several days ago, is in a serious condition.

It was not believed at first that Dr. Swick would suffer any ill effects from the operation, but according to the word received today, his condition is critical.

WILL ROGERS says:

(Special To The News)
BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Mar. 27.—Well, Chicago is having the last laugh. The rest of the country rose up in wrath with pictures and editorials of Chicago killings, and its elaborate gangsters' funerals. Now if your town hasn't buried a gangster with a rose festival its rather plebeian.

Los Angeles backed by the Chamber of Commerce and the florists, are out for that trade now. They put on a trial funeral here last week that looked like a movie opening night. The flowers were only limited by the amount they could ship in. Our slogan is: "Before you shoot each other don't overlook Los Angeles."

Racketeering is America's biggest industry, and their funerals are "big business."

Plan To Abandon Hunt For Missing In Ship Disaster

Bernt Balchen And Companions Fail To Find Trace Of Varick Frissell

BELIEVE MISSING BLOWN TO PIECES

Henry J. Sargent, One Of Survivors Testifies Before Commission

(International News Service)
ST. JOHNS, N. P., Mar. 27.—Convinced that the missing members of the sealing ship Viking perished when an explosion aboard shattered its stern or that they died soon after, Bernt Balchen and his two companions decided today to abandon further search for them.

The three American aviators, commissioned by Dr. Lewis Frissell of New York to search for his son Varick and A. G. Penrod, cameraman for the ill-fated film expedition, made several long flights over Horse Island and White bay without seeing a trace of the 27 missing men.

Meanwhile Henry J. Sargent, the only one of the three Americans who escaped alive, testified before the commission of inquiry here on the events preceding the ship blast. He said that he and several members of the expedition were good humorously discussing a book on the danger of explosions on sealing vessels when the tragedy, estimated to have cost 30 lives, occurred.

Chicago Bandits Slay Young Man

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Mar. 27.—Thieves early today killed Newton Pirtle, 24, a mechanic, by smashing his skull with an eight pound sledge hammer. Pirtle had struggled desperately to prevent the robbery of the garage where he worked.

After murdering Pirtle, the bandits probably two in number, piled a heavy cash register into a sedan parked in the garage and then drove off. The slaying and robbery were discovered by a colored attendant who had been out on a call.

Pirtle was married and had two children.

WILL GO TO WORK IN JAIL FACTORY

Best Criminal Lawyer Possible Will Be Obtained To Defend Youth

(International News Service)
CRANSTON, R. I., Mar. 27.—Absolute denial that he strangled twenty-year-old Verna E. Russell, pretty student-nurse, and word that a court battle "to the last ditch" if necessary, would be made to prove his innocence today came from the cell of Elliott R. Hathaway, 28-year-old son of State Representative Louis E. Hathaway, of Fall River, Mass.

Except for the declaration of his innocence of the slaying made to relatives and officials, no other statement has been made by the young man, it was said.

Plans For Fight

That "the best criminal lawyer in Rhode Island and Massachusetts" would be engaged to aid in defending the accused young man and that a fight "to the last ditch" in the courts would be made was the word that came from relatives who had visited him. The identity of these relatives was not revealed.

Free from the terror of a hunted man, silent but calm, and even jovial with a cherry "Good morning" to his guards, young Hathaway went about the Providence county jail routine in outward excellent spirits. At his own request he was assigned work in the jail shirt factory but will not go to work until Monday.

Buffalo Man Is Winner Of Large Sum On Classic

Clayton Woods, Buffalo, N. Y. Wins Prize Of $886,360 Today

SHARES FORTUNE WITH HIS FAMILY

(International News Service)
LONDON, Mar. 27.—An American, Clayton Woods, of Buffalo, N. Y., Emilio Scala, an Italian confectionery shop proprietor of London, and George P. Diamond, Cape Town, South Africa, hotel proprietor, were the heavy winners from the Irish Sweepstake prizes on today's Grand National Steeplechase.

Woods, with a ticket on Gregalach, which finished second, won a prize of $886,360, according to the official figures of the sweep prizes posted at the time of the drawing on Tuesday.

Scala, who conducts a small shop in the southwest district of London, held the coveted ticket on Grakle, the winner. This pasteborder pays $1,772,720, but just what share of this would accrue to Scala himself was not possible to determine without a great deal of arithmetic.

Scala shared his ticket with some 40 relatives, all of whom are poor, and each contributed six or eight cents each toward the purchase price of the ticket. After the drawing Scala sold a portion of his ticket to a syndicate.

Drops Dead In Local Office

G. H. Patterson Of Blunston Avenue Is Fatally Stricken

DEATH OCCURS THIS AFTERNOON

G. Homer Patterson, aged 50 years resident of 416 Blunston avenue died suddenly of an acute dilation of the heart shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon as he was at the office of the New Castle Loan company in the Wallace block on the public square.

Physicians, summoned immediately after Mr. Patterson collapsed, pronounced him dead on arrival.

With his wife, Mr. Patterson visited the second floor office of the firm on a business call. He collapsed soon after reaching the office and died a moment later.

The deceased had been employed as a molder at the National Radiator company plant here, and had worked up until about two weeks ago. For four weeks he had been ill with heart trouble.

A daughter, Miss Anna Patterson who resides on Butler avenue, was called.

The body was removed to a local undertaking establishment.

BURKE IS WANTED IN SEVEN STATES FOR MANY CRIMES

WIFE IS PLACED UNDER ARREST

Chicago Detectives Reach St. Joseph, Mo., And Identify Burke

(International News Service)
ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Mar. 27.—Authorities of several states opened a competitive fight here today to gain the extradition of Fred Burke, charged with some of the most spectacular murders in America and upon whose head rewards totaling $101,000 have been set.

Burke, known to police in ten cities as a killer, kidnaper and bank robber, is wanted in Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Wisconsin, New York, Kentucky and Nebraska.

Chicago Has Claim

Chicago detectives and assistant state's attorneys arrived to claim priority rights to try the desperado for the murder of seven Moran gangsters in a garage there on St. Valentine's day, 1929.

New York holds him to blame for the murder of Frankie Uale, widely known gangster who was slain at the wheel of his automobile almost three years ago.

Burke was surprised and captured at the home of his father-in-law, Barney Porter, 174 miles northeast of here, yesterday without a shot being fired. He was arrested in bed at Porter's home.

The jealous struggle of authorities for his custody began as soon as his identity became known.

Amateur Detective

It was the amateur detective work of Joseph Hunsacker, 30, a truck driver in Green City, a village near the farm where Burke was captured, that brought the gunman's arrest. Hunsacker saw Burke's picture in a detective story magazine and his suspicions were aroused because Burke never worked and always had money.

Hunsacker quit his job and went to work on the case, enlisting the aid of Allen D. Morrison, a real estate dealer and fellow townsman, who communicated with department of justice agents. Both will share in the reward, it is believed, $41,500 of which has been offered by Chicago authorities.

The case was turned over to Chief of Police E. M. Mathews of St. Joseph.

March Blizzard Heads Eastward

Racing Winds Sweep Across Upper Plains States Today

WORST STORM OF WINTER SEASON

(International News Service)
OMAHA, Neb., Mar. 27.—A March blizzard driven by racing winds was moving eastward today across the upper plain states, clipping traffic and communications.

Schools in rural areas were closed, airplanes were kept on the ground and automobile and railroad traffic was tied up by the heavy fall of snow in eastern Wyoming, Oklahoma and Nebraska.

No loss of life was reported as yet, nor had the livestock suffered much damage in the grazing area. In Wyoming and Nebraska the blizzard was believed to be the worst of the winter season.

Mrs. Howard Magul, Garfield avenue, was in Pittsburgh Thursday attending a meeting of the Pittsburgh Presbyterian, held in the Bellevue Presbyterian church.

Two Prisoners Are Taken To Workhouse

Andy Marshall and Joseph Stella were taken to the Allegheny county workhouse this morning by Deputy Sheriff Russell McBride. Marshall was convicted of holding up Dominick Sankovich near Bessemer. He was sentenced a year to the workhouse, and at the expiration of this term, he will be taken to the Western penitentiary to serve a three years term.

Stella was sentenced five months to the workhouse on a liquor charge.

Fred Burke, sought for many months throughout the nation as the killer of 21 men, has been under redoubled guard in a solitary cell at St. Joseph, Mo. He was arrested as he slept at the home of his sister-in-law on a remote farm near Milan, Mo.

They do not add, not any word they say, and that is where the gyp comes in, it's 34 today.

Initiate 200 As Caliphs Of Bagdad

Fun Rampant, Followed By Vaudeville Show And Buffet Lunch, Thursday

CEREMONIAL AT LOCAL CATHEDRAL

Approximately 2000 Caliphs of Bagdad enjoyed the spring ceremonial when 200 new members were accepted into the organization last night at the Cathedral. The local Caliphs were augmented by a large number of visitors. The affair was one of the best that has been staged in years.

Promptly at eight o'clock the eligibles in custody of Caliphs were delivered into the safe keeping of "Captain" Pritchard and his band of "40 thieves" and as the axiom is "There can be no harm where the chief Caliph is", they all tried to get close to Chief Caliph Howard Richards.

And then the fun started. There was action every minute. Mystery was rampant. Howls of laughter came from all sections of the big auditorium. The initiation was replete with innovations and everything went off with a bang.

After the big class had been put through the degrees by Chief Caliph Richards, High Priest, Welby Rugh and "Captain" Pritchard and his band, a versatile vaudeville show was staged under the direction of Stanley Treiser. It was a neat show and one that pleased the big audience.

Following the vaudeville show the Caliphs enjoyed a buffet lunch, at which W. S. Teets was the caterer. Registration was in charge of Albert Street, music in charge of Judy Sypher and electrical lighting and property in charge of Robert Thompson and Russell Melvin.

Brother Of Local Woman Is Dead

William Perry Hines, aged 85, former merchant of West Liberty died at his home in West Liberty. He had been ill for several months. He had lived the greater part of his life in West Liberty and had operated a store there for many years. He retired several years ago. Mr. Hines was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church of West Liberty.

Surviving are his widow, Olive Hines, a brother, George, of Slippery Rock, and two sisters; Mrs. Jane Hay of New Castle and Mrs. Rebecca McDevitt of West Liberty. Funeral services will be held from the Methodist Episcopal church of West Liberty at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon with Rev. Earl Engle, pastor of the church, officiating. Burial will be in the West Liberty cemetery.

Shares With Family
Buffalo, N. Y., Mar. 27.—The whole Woods family—Clayton Woods, his wife, two brother-in-laws and a brother—came into a community fortune today.

The sweepstakes ticket bought by Woods on Grezalach which came in second in the Grand National Steeplechase in Great Britain pays $886,360. Clayton shared his ticket among his family, according to friends. When Clayton, who is an inspector in an industrial plant, received word that his horse had been runner-up in the turf classic, he and his wife hurried to a newspaper office to confirm the news.

His friends said that Clayton had "a hunch" that his horse would be in the running.

You're the JUDGE

For years Skinkham and Sons had been dealing with a certain jobber, buying only small lots of dry goods at a time, but buying frequently. One day Skinkham made a small purchase of goods totaling $140, but for some reason this bill remained unpaid quite a while. At last, after considerable correspondence, Skinkham sent the jobber a check for $100 with a letter stating that this check was "in full payment of all demands" and inclosing a prepared receipt reading the same way, and requiring only the signature of the jobber.

Now the jobber was no greenhorn in matters of business either, so he took the check, destroyed the prepared receipt, and made out his own which stated that the $100 had been placed to the retailer's credit. Then he demanded that Skinkham send him a check for the balance, and when no check for the balance came the jobber filed suit.

At the trial Skinkham argued that in keeping the check the jobber had recognized that it was an accord and satisfaction of the claim.

Two other witnesses identified Brothers during yesterday's session, and Applegate's climatic accusation left the iron-nerved defendant pale and apparently shaken for the first time since the trial began. The other two witnesses of the day were Patrick Campbell, plumber and truck driver and Daniel D. Mills, collegiate cab driver.

Mills was positive in his identification of the St. Louis labor slugging as the man who fled the subway scene of the murder, ducked and dodged his way through the heavy Michigan Boulevard traffic stream and disappeared in an alley. Mills said Brothers ran from the subway mouth and past his car and then across the boulevard.

Campbell, after some hesitation, pointed out Brothers, as the man whom he saw flee after he heard a shot in the subway. He said he chased the fugitive for a ways, but stopped when a police officer took up the pursuit.

Further Identification.

Criminal Court, Chicago, Mar. 27.—A priest led the witness stand in Judge Joseph Sabath's crowded courtroom today, walked to the table of the defense counsel, and placed his hand on the shoulder of Leo V. Brothers, on trial for the murder of Alfred Jake-Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter.

"This is the man," he said. "The priest, the Rev. John J. Reynolds of the faculty of Notre Dame University, was the fifth state's witness to testify, Brothers' a St. Louis hoodlum, is the man who fled after Lingle was slain in a pedestrian tunnel under Michigan avenue last June 9.

Police Get Man Wanted For Wreck

Capture Him For Constable At New Bedford As He Comes Into City

Following the receipt of a call from Constable Robert McClenahan of New Bedford last night, asking that an effort be made to apprehend a car bearing Pennsylvania license 67850, which had been involved in the wrecking of another machine at that place, Detective C. G. Logan and Officer Robert Dukes hurried toward the road leading from that place and captured a man giving the name of M. Seidman in the car. The car was badly damaged.

The constable was notified and came in and got Seidman on a warrant issued at that place. He also took the car of Seidman. According to the information given the police here, Seidman was driving his machine on the wrong side of the road and in a manner that caused suspicion. He was held on a suspicious charge pending the arrival of the constable.

STAR LORE RELATIVITY

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter
We speak of the orbital velocity of the earth around the sun, of the proper motions of the distant stars as well as the common group motion of the sun, its planets and their satellites, its meteors and its comets. However, all motions which the astronomers have to do, are but relative to some other celestial body that is in motion. There is no known heavenly body that bears evidence of being stationary (at rest). On the earth we compute the speed of an airplane by comparing it with the fixed ground under it. With the earth removed, means for determining its velocity would be entirely lost.

seph and two men were assigned to investigate. Chicago sweetheart of the desperado was said to have given authorities information concerning the fugitive when she learned that he had been married.

Two of Chief Matthews' men employed an undercover man at Chillicothe, Mo., who was to call them when he saw Burke, who had been away from the farm in recent weeks. That call came at 3 a. m. yesterday. Capt. John R. D. Detectives Melvin Swepton, E. J. and A. W. Thedinga, with Sheriff Hoover of Mercer county, hurried to the farm, heavily armed to handle the man.

Burke Frightened.

Arriving at the farm they saw a new automobile parked outside which later proved to be Burke's bedroom window. Blocking off the car with their automobiles, they surrounded the house and Kelly and Swepton burst into the bedroom and seized Burke before he could get a revolver which was in his coat pocket.

"What are you going to do, take me for a ride?" he pleaded. He seemed relieved when convinced they were officers.

Burke appeared surprised when told that every policeman in the country had been looking for him. Tracing the new car found in the farm yard, police found evidence that Burke was still working with the "Scarface Al" Capone gang with which he was reported to have broken a year ago. The car was traced to a motor sales agency which is next door to the Ralph Capone's "Cotton club" in Cicero, Ill., suburb of Chicago.

Linked With Slaying.

Burke first became definitely linked with the Chicago massacre and the Uale killing after Policeman Charles Skelly was slain at St. Joseph, Mich., early last winter. Machine guns found in Burke's residence-arsenal were traced by ballistics experts to both crimes.

Michigan authorities as well as those of Chicago raced here in an effort to gain Burke's extradition. Burke is wanted for bank robberies at Lincoln, Neb., at Jefferson, Wis., and Louisville, Ky.

Officially Identified.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Mar. 27.—Four members of the Chicago police department arrived here this morning and officially identified Fred R. Burke as the desperado wanted in connection with the slaying of seven members of the "Bugs" Moran gang in Chicago two years ago.

Efforts to extradite Burke to Chicago were to be started immediately.

Wife In Custody.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Mar. 27.—Mrs. Bonnie Burke, wife of Fred Burke, murder suspect captured near St. Joseph, was in police custody here today.

Seized last night, she said she did not know of her husband's record; she explained that she thought he had been working a salesman.

Mrs. Burke, once a nurse, said she had married Burke last summer. Police learned that Burke had divided his time between the home here and his wife had here and her father's farm near St. Joseph. Burke had completed negotiations last week to build a $20,000 home here, it was disclosed.

YOUTHS CAPTURED, CONFESS SLAYING NEW YORK TROOPER

held up Updyke, stealing the latter's automobile and fleeing to Scranton, Pa., according to the confession.

At Albany, N. Y., they stole another car. They rode freight trains from Albany to Buffalo and Scranton, Pa., and on to Canton, O., where they stole a new coupe in which they drove here.

Arrested While Asleep

Out of gasoline and their money exhausted, the youths fell asleep in the stolen automobile here Wednesday and were arrested. Police found two revolvers in the automobile, one of which was taken from the dead trooper.

In the automobile was a typewriter, a box of cigars and a small sack of lead slugs.

Both made a dash for liberty at the police station, Chero escaping down an alley. Schenmutter was caught before he got outside the jail office.

After running several blocks with police in close pursuit Chero fell with a bullet in his back and a broken leg. Police believe they were waiting until nightfall in order to rob a store to obtain funds to return to Canton, O.

Although Canton authorities advised they had sent a man to extradite the youths for the auto theft, local authorities said they would be held for New York police. Chero's wounds will not prove fatal, doctors said.

Prepare For Extradition

Albany, Mar. 27.—As soon as extradition papers have been prepared in Governor Roosevelt's office, State Police will leave here for McAlester, Okla., where Stanley Chero and William Schenmutter, confessed slayers of Sergeant John E. Frey State Police, are being held. Major John A. Warner, Superintendent of the State Police, said that Captain J. E. Kieley and Trooper Edward Updyke probably would leave for McAlester sometime today or tonight.

"Just as soon as the necessary extradition papers can be prepared, Captain Kieley and Trooper Updyke will go to McAlester," Major Warner said.

According to word received here by telephone early today Chero may not live to face trial for killing Sergeant Frey, due to gunshot wounds he suffered when McAlester police shot him down as he attempted to escape.

Warrants charging Chero and Schenmutter with first degree murder have been issued by Justice of Peace Sanford Horton at East Greenbush, a small town in Rensselaer county near where Sergeant Frey was killed.

Sergeant Frey was slain nine days ago while he and Trooper Updyke were taking Chero and Schenmutter to the Troy jail for questioning in connection with a stolen automobile which they were driving. According to word reaching here, Schenmutter when taken into custody by McAlester authorities said "Chero killed Frey."

Rensselaer county authorities said today that both men would be indicted for first degree murder, regardless of Schenmutter's statement that Chero did the shooting.

Family Night At Croton Church

This evening will be observed as Family Night in the Croton Avenue Methodist church, where a series of evangelistic meetings are under way, with Rev. Margaret Joshua as the speaker.

Thursday evening the church auditorium was well filled, with many adult Bible classes of the city being represented to hear Mrs. Joshua deliver a stirring address on "Where Art Thou?"

This evening the special musical numbers will be presented by Mrs. Richard Morris and Mrs. William P. Vogan.

and Gregalach at 40 to 1, for it is racing tradition that no horse can ever win the grand national more than once.

Putting up a magnificent fight, however, Gregalach almost sent this tradition into the discard along with the favorites' chances.

He came within an ace of nosing out Grakle at the finish, after these two horses had run almost neck and neck around the grueling four and a half mile course.

Forty-three horses, the cream of British, American and continental steeplechasers, got away from the post a few minutes after 3 o'clock. The finish of the race decided the disposition of some $5,000,000 in sweepstakes money and untold millions in bets, while the purse itself was $50,000 added.

Deaths of the Day

Wayne Livingston Dight.

Wayne Livingston Dight, the six year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Dight, Plaingrove, died at the family home Thursday afternoon, following an illness of four weeks from pneumonia.

He was born at Plaingrove April 11, 1926, and was an exceptionally bright, lovable child.

He is survived by his parents and two brothers: Kenneth and Paul Max.

Funeral services will be held from the family residence Saturday at 2:30 p. m. with Rev. A. I. Dickinson in charge. Interment will be made in Plaingrove cemetery.

Time of Funeral.

Funeral services for Letha M. Sanner, will be held this evening at 7:30 from the home of her sister, Mrs. Neal Clark, 326 Phillips street and Saturday the body will go to Rockwood for interment.

Ira McAnlis Funeral.

Funeral services for Ira McAnlis, Ellwood City, were held Thursday afternoon from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McAnlis, Main street, Wampum, with Dr. C. J. Williamson, pastor of Highland United Presbyterian church, officiating, assisted by Rev. Will Fenton, pastor of the Wampum Methodist church.

The home was so small to contain all the relatives and friends who had come to pay their last respects to one who was held in high esteem in life and the beauty and quantity of the floral tributes further tokened the popularity of the young man.

Interment was made in Oak Park cemetery and members of a club to which Mr. McAnlis had belonged, acted as pallbearers. They were Frank Robertson, George McIntosh, Cliff Colgan, Clarence Updegraff, William Koonce, Alfred Sadler and James Morgan.

Richard Basile Funeral.

Funeral services for little Richard Basile, Jr., of Chicago were held this morning from St. Vitus church with Rev. Fr. Donatelli officiating. Pallbearers were four boys: Benjamin Domenick, Joseph Bulisco, Carl Vernino and Anthony Parrott. Interment was made in St. Vitus cemetery.

Mrs. Elizabeth Phenicie, aged 61, wife of Thomas E. Phenicie, 504 1/2 Sampson street, died in the Jameson Memorial hospital Thursday morning, March 26, at 9:30 p. m. following an operation.

She was born in Butler county on April 4, 1870, the daughter of Charles and Catherine Blymiller, and had been a resident of New Castle for 37 years.

She was a member of the Sampson street mission.

She is survived by her husband; three sons, Clarence, Covert and Samuel, all of New Castle, and two sisters, Mrs. Emma Miles of Washington and Mrs. Emery Beck, Knox. Funeral services will be held Saturday at 6:30 from the residence and interment will be made in Greenwood cemetery.

David J. Samuels.

Following a brief illness, David J. Samuels, aged 48, well known officer of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, passed away at his home at 510 County Line street, at 12:50 this morning. Many of his friends did not know of his illness and the announcement of his death will come as a shock. A short time ago he contracted a severe cold which developed into pneumonia, causing death.

Mr. Samuels was born in Sharon, Pa., the son of Joshua and Elizabeth Samuels. As a lad he came to New Castle with his parents, and resided for many years on East Long avenue. For a number of years he was a tin worker, but about 20 years ago became affiliated with the Fraternal Order of Eagles as the steward, which position he held until his death.

He was prominent in fraternal circles, and in addition to his membership in the Fraternal Order of Eagles, he was a member of the Loyal Order of Moose and the Protected Home Circle.

Surviving him are his widow, one step-son, Frank Edgar; a brother, Herbert Samuels, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Stritmatter, all of New Castle. Funeral services will be held Saturday, March 28, at 4 p. m. from the family home at 510 County Line street, with Rev. P. E. Stough, pastor of the St. John's Lutheran church officiating. Interment will be made in Oak Park cemetery.

Rick's Condition Believed Serious, Reports Here Say

Reports from Meadville today expressed the doubtful recovery of B. J. Rick, Pennsylvania railroad track foreman who was hurt when a flying lump of coal struck him on the face while on duty along the company's E. & P. right-of-way, near Springboro, Pa. Wednesday morning. Rick is the father of Joe Rick, this city.

It is understood that Rick, who resides above Linesville, has suffered a fractured skull. He is in the Meadville hospital.

The coal fell off a passing freight train as Rick and a group of trackmen were at work alongside the train.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE HONORED AT PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac E. George of Albion, were surprised in their home Thursday evening when the members of Mr. George's Sunday school class of the Primitive Methodist church, with their husbands, assembled to help them celebrate their silver wedding anniversary.

A more than friendly spirit began the evening when the guests sang "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" after which there were readings by Mrs. I. W. Tate, Mrs. George Kite, Mrs. Borella, Mrs. S. Redman, Mrs. H. McMullen, Mrs. Al Bowland, and Olive Bell.

Joseph MacKenzie most beautifully sang "When Your Hair Has Turned to Silver" and a duet by Mrs. M. Bowen and Mrs. J. W. Tate. The group then sang "When You and I Were Young" after which Mrs. Joseph MacKenzie recited a poem, "Meetin' I'd With You," which she ended with a presentation speech, in which Mr. and Mrs. George were presented with a silver service for 12 by the class members.

Mr. George responded most graciously to the presentation. A delicious lunch, with appointments carried out in Easter suggestions, was served by the committee; Mrs. A. Bowland, Mrs. Harry Ashton, Mrs. George Smith, Mrs. Charles Smith and Mrs. I. W. Tate, assisted by Orla, Mildred and Hope George, Sadie Lewis and May Sands. The assemblage sang "God Be With You Till We Meet Again" at the close of the evening, after which Charles Ashton offered prayer and the celebration broke up, with each one wishing the couple many more years of married bliss.

Moonlight 500 Club.

The Moonlight 500 club met on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. M. J. Young, Hillcrest avenue, with a good number being present. Cards were enjoyed as the chief entertainment, and favors for the members were awarded to Mrs. William Lyons, Mrs. Francis H. Johnson and Mrs. J. R. Meers.

Lunch was served by the hostess at a late hour, the appointments being suggestive of the Easter season. In two weeks Mrs. Willard Shaffer of the Butler road will entertain.

ANNIVERSARY HONORED BY WRIGHT EMPLOYEES

Honoring the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wadlinger, the employees of the Wright Company gathered in their home on Lorain avenue Thursday evening for a seven o'clock tureen dinner as a means of celebration.

A sumptuous menu was served at tables beautifully decorated in keeping with the season.

Those serving included Mrs. Sidney Smith Sr., Miss Pearl Maxine Wadlinger and Mrs. C. M. Eddy. Clever favors marked places for 40 guests.

Later a period of games, music, round and square dancing were in vogue. Popular strains of music furnished by Mrs. Tillie Remley and Frank Wadlinger Sr. added to the entertainment.

When the evening was at its height Mr. and Mrs. Wadlinger were presented a handsome gift in behalf of those gathered there. The presentation speech and most appropriate to the occasion, was made in a witty manner by A. A. Flynn, manager of the Wright concern.

The sincere good wishes of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wright, who also assisted in arranging this affair, and who were unable to be present, were sent the guests of honor.

Special guests included Helen Saxton, Emor Vaughn, Pearl Maxine Wadlinger, Frank Wadlinger Jr., Mrs. Sidney Smith Sr. and Herman Wadlinger.

Jolly Twelve Club.

The Jolly Twelve club members enjoyed the hospitality of Mrs. Frank Meyers when she entertained in her home on Allen street last evening. Cards, radio music and chat were pleasant diversions of the leisure period. Prizes for contest indulged in were won by Mrs. H. B. McConnell and Mrs. Albert Perkins.

At a late hour the guests were served an appetizing lunch by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Miss Ruth Meyers. Dainty tones in keeping with the Easter season were used throughout in the appointments of the menu and table.

In two weeks they will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Charles Gardner, East Brook.

HADASSAH HOLDS BIRTHDAY PARTY

The nineteenth birthday of the founding of Hadassah was fittingly celebrated Thursday evening in the Beth Shalom Center, Boyles avenue, when the members of New Castle chapter of Hadassah met for their monthly meeting.

Mrs. L. Kohn, president, was in charge of the meeting and reports were heard from the infant welfare department, of which Mrs. A. Goldman is chairman. She gave a report of the last year's work. This year's quota, and the new work that is being taken up.

Mrs. Morris Samuels read "The Night Song" a poem by Jessie Samter; and gave the Hadassah Welfare program for the year.

Plans were announced for a meeting to be held Sunday, April 12 at 8 o'clock in the Castleton hotel, when Judge Kuhn, of Philadelphia, one of the most prominent Jews in the United States and also a noted orator, will be the speaker. This is being sponsored by B'Nai B'rith for the Jews of the vicinity, to promote goodwill between Jew and Gentile.

At the close of the program the women gathered about the long table, which had been decorated in the Jewish colors, blue and white, with a large birthday cake in the center. The nineteen lighted candles typified the nineteen years of existence of Hadassah. Each person was given a piece of the cake. Mrs. Philip Levine reported that the annual ball this year had been a big success, both from a financial and social basis.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. M. Samuels, Mrs. J. Tobin, Mrs. Harry Robins and Mrs. Abe Fisher.

X. Y. Z. CLUB MEETS AT WALMO RESIDENCE

Mrs. R. C. Glenn of Walmo provided a charming hostess Thursday afternoon when she entertained associates of the X. Y. Z. club in her home. The usual routine was carried out and a social time spent informally with chat and radio music followed away the leisure hours.

At an appropriate time the hostess served a delicious lunch, attractively arranged, carrying out the tones of the approaching season, Easter. She was assisted by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. DeWayne Glenn.

Special guests of the occasion included Mrs. W. L. Campbell and daughter Ruth, Mrs. DeWayne Glenn and daughter Betty Anne. They adjourned to meet again on April 16 with Mrs. J. R. Hunter, Highland avenue.

ALMIRA HOME IS SCENE OF PROGRAM

The ladies of the Almira Home were delightfully entertained Thursday afternoon when section 2 of the Macedonian Circle of the Second United Presbyterian church presented a program in the home.

The devotionals were led by Mrs. C. C. Campbell; a solo was given by Mrs. Joseph Rigby; and a quartet composed of Mrs. Rigby, Minnie Jackson, Mrs. William Stritmatter and Mrs. Charles Stritmatter, gave several numbers. They were accompanied by Miss Kathryn McMillin.

The ladies were more than delighted with the program then presented by Kathryn McMillin and her kindergarten pupils: Donna Lee, Bobby McCombs, Bobby and Eddie Jackson, Kathryn Duff, Bobby Calvin, Earleen Ramsey, Grace Landis, Charles Reed, Jackie Meehan, Jimmie Ludwig and Arthur Bergland. The little tots said their speeches and sang their songs in such a sweet way that they completely won the hearts of the aged ladies.

At the close of the program the ladies of the society served light refreshments to the ladies of the home.

SIN-MAR CLUB FIRST MEETING

Delightfully entertaining was the meeting of the Sin-Mar club, just newly organized, held at the home of Mrs. Clay Aubel, Winslow avenue, Thursday evening. Bridge was the feature diversion and at the conclusion of play it was discovered the success award was won by Miss Grace Sankey.

The small tables, prettily rearranged in tones of pink and green, made attractive settings for the delectable menu that was served at the close of the evening. The hostess was unassisted.

During the business transactions Miss Mabel Campbell was taken in as a new member of the club.

On Thursday, April 9, the club will be received by Miss Dorothy Boyles, Neshannock avenue.

OYSTER SUPPER FOR REUNITED LEAGUE

An oyster supper featured the meeting of the Reunited Ladies League, which was held last evening at the home of Mrs. Matthew Richards on Maryland avenue.

The menu was served at 6:30 o'clock by the hostess, assisted by her grandson and Betty Lee Clark, also Mrs. Fronie Davis, Mrs. Mary Belle Clark, Mrs. Ralph Phillips, Mrs. Carl Nolte and the hostess' daughter, Elizabeth. The season's tones prevailed throughout in the decorations.

The remaining hours were spent informally with chat and music. The next meeting will occur at the home of Mrs. Charles Strong, who now resides at 21 West North street in two weeks.

Missionary Tea.

Thursday afternoon at the Methodist church of Pulaski the Women's Home Missionary society members and guests enjoyed a delightful silver tea party.

Mrs. W. B. Mitchell, Mrs. J. R. Meek and Mrs. Henry Schilling were in charge of arrangements and the dainty spring like appointments on the tea table added attractiveness to the event.

Mrs. Reba Golder, accompanied by Mrs. Francis Taylor, delighted with a beautiful vocal selection.

Mrs. C. S. Hart and Mrs. C. G. Parr of this city spoke to the women of the necessity of mission work and urged them to enter into this work with greater zest.

Rising Star Club.

The Rising Star club held their regular meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Hawkins, Mahoning avenue, and a short business session, with the president in charge, opened the meeting.

Many interesting plans were arranged for the future, after which the meeting was brought to a close by the hostess serving a light lunch. She was assisted by Mrs. Orellia Pryer.

Mrs. Clark of Mahoning avenue will entertain the club on April 7 at 8 o'clock.

Motorist Reports Hitting Little Girl

John Fred R. D. No. 4, reported to the police Thursday afternoon that it was his machine that had struck little Kathleen Kirkland of 1323 Barbour Place, who was reported to have been severely injured by a hit and run motorist. In his statement he claimed that the girl ran from the sidewalk into his machine, while he was enroute west on Croton avenue, near Haus avenue. She was knocked to the pavement, he reported and got up and started to go away and did not appear to be hurt much.

Soon or late, America will dig a Canal through Nicaragua. The only question is what great moral principle will require it.

You can't expect much in a world that calls it a triumph of statesmanship when diplomats at last decide to be sensible.

UNIVERSAL LANGUAGE

UNTIL a few years ago there was not much of an international problem connected with the business of manufacturing motion pictures. The pictures themselves were pantomime, universally understood. The subtitles, when films were prepared for export, were reproduced in the language of their foreign audiences.

Then along came the "talkies". And the "talkies" talked Americanese. This obstacle was surmounted by leaving out the words and music and inserting subtitles for the export trade.

But eventually film fans abroad demanded the real thing—the film that talked. This demand was rather crudely met with synchronized sound records in the language of the importing country. Finally, foreign actors doubled for Hollywood voices.

And now after years of effort, expense and experimentation the film industry learns that a large proportion of film addicts in foreign countries want not the Hollywood product in their own language but the Hollywood product in the parlance of Hollywood. They want American films to teach them English.

Educators have for years tried to evolve a universal language. Esperanto and a dozen like systems have been worked out, but none has taken hold. And now the youngest child of American dramatic ingenuity is going up and down the world teaching the people of all climes to speak English.

FINANCING SCHOOLS

Surprises are very often useful because they are a spur to thought. And figures to the effect that cities are devoting more than a third of their total expenditures to public schools is in the nature of a surprise, although no taxpayer has been ignorant of the high cost of education.

School costs have multiplied at an alarming rate in the last 15 years, but it should be remembered that within the same decade wealth also has increased greatly. Granting that, it is reasonable to suppose that a number of cities have had more money to spend and have seen fit to place a large proportion of it in their school systems. Besides, it may well be in many cases that the expenditures represent efforts to improve out-of-date systems, to undertake building programs which should have been completed years before and to remedy deficiencies of long standing. This, in fact, is indicated by the large advance in school investments.

At the same time the sum involved and the size and rapidity of the increases will suggest, even to those most eager for full public support of education, that the country is near a time when such expenditures must be curbed more than they have been in the past.

Many school districts, due to the business depression and deflation of values, now find themselves with revenues unequal to their current expenses and interest payments on their bonded indebtedness.

NORMALCY ON HORIZON

Members of congress are home and relatively quiescent. President Hoover voyages serenely in tropic waters far from that mad scene. Lobbyists, agitators and reformers are on vacation. All the land is at peace and the public finds itself taking a calmer view of the events and happenings of the last three months.

The country has not been happy. The winter, for all its mildness, was long and dreary. The public had watched with some misgivings the second year of the present administration come to a close, and was uneasy while congress was in session. And business and employment conditions were such as to make the people uneasy.

Radicalism in politics had had a revival. The accumulated grievances of a stock market crash and more than a year of business depression and unemployment emptied the vials of their wrath during the winter. The country had seen the hordes of treasury-raiders, subsidy-hunters and political quacks swoop down upon the national treasury, and had heard the breast-beaters and demagogues making common cause.

Then spring came and congress adjourned and the nation raised its anxious eyes to find that it still lived, that the ship of state had come safely through the storm, that, save for the clouds of a $500,000,000 treasury deficit, the horizon was clear.

So many, who, under the spell of gloom, had held Mr. Hoover and his administration responsible for the country's woes, are now giving him credit for having steered the country through the treacherous shoals and surf of radicalism, extravagance and hysteria.

PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY FOR FIRE

The one great obstacle to fire prevention is the virtual refusal of the individual to realize his personal responsibility in regard to the common hazards that exist, to a greater or lesser degree, in almost every home and business establishment.

Perhaps the most tragic phase of fire is that it is practically wholly unnecessary. Eighty per cent or more of fires—including many of those which cause the greatest waste in both life and property—could have been prevented by the exercise of care and the sort of knowledge that is expounded during the annual Fire Prevention Week and which can be easily obtained from various private organizations, or from local fire authorities in any community.

The citizen who disregards fire risks might be termed the "unconscious arsonist," and his name is legion. It is his home that burns, or his factory. But the entire community pays for it, in the loss of taxes on destroyed property, in higher insurance rates, in lost employment or business opportunity. Fire prevention is largely a personal matter—but fire waste is of importance to the entire nation. There has never been a fire, no matter how small, that did not do its part to prevent progress.

In certain European countries the owner of property where fire originates is responsible for damage done to the property of others. We will probably never have such a law in America, nor is it generally wanted, but it would be a good thing if we reflected on the principle it exemplifies.

America likes to see her heroes get higher and higher if their hats don't.

All Of Us

You're Not Alone
You Merely Think You Are One's Own Fault

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Have you ever had the horrible feeling that you are all alone in this world? That nobody cares what you do or what happens to you? That nobody ever thinks about you and nobody ever helps you and that if you dropped out of sight, no one would even notice you had gone?

I have known a few people who live like that all the time, under a fearful weight of loneliness. And there's hardly one of us, man or woman, who does not feel at times as if he were all by himself on a remote and desert isle, doomed to unending solitude.

And once, when I was sorry for myself, I comforted myself by thinking that it must be even worse to be a radio entertainer. How terrible it must be, thought I, to stand before a microphone and sing or talk or play the violin to hundreds of thousands, perhaps millions, or people, whom you don't know and can't see and who never hiss you and never cheer you, either. That's real loneliness, I said to myself, and if I ever get a chance I'll ask some radio personage how it feels to stand up there and talk to the air.

Well, I did—and I was mistaken. He said to me, "It's not the way you think it is. I used to feel like that. It was terrible at first and I didn't believe I'd ever get used to broadcasting. I'd stand up and perspire and imagine all sorts of things. Sometimes I'd have the ghastly feeling that no one at all was listening to me—that my words went out into empty space and died away unheard. And when my time was up I'd turn away from the microphone more depressed than I can tell you and nothing my friends said could bring me out of my gloom."

"Then something happened. I changed. When I stood before the microphone I felt that something came back to me. I wasn't alone any more. I couldn't see all those people out there, but FELT them listening to me. I asked questions about this and I learned that other people have the same experience. Something comes back to them, just as it does to me. Not everyone feels this way. Some men and women of fine talent and easy personality never lose that loneliness before the microphone. They never feel the people out there, they can't get used to having their audiences so far away and at last they give up in despair because they can't learn to feel at home."

That's the secret, I suppose. We are not alone, but we think we are. Something is Coming Back to Us from the people all around us, but we are deaf and we never learn to feel at home. We are indifferent, but it's our fault that we do not receive what life is returning to us. We are insulated by pride or by fear and we know nothing about it. There is a great space between us and all the fears and joys of other people, and nothing comes to us across that abyss. But we are the foolish ones when we stand in a great crowd and complain that we are alone.

ON JEALOUSY

Unwarranted jealousy and uncontrolled imagination is the cause of much of the unhappiness of many married persons.

The wife of a good-looking man or the husband of an attractive woman too often believe that every person of the opposite sex who is courteous to their life partner is designing.

Jealousy is usually lack of confidence or lack of self-reliance. A married man or woman has too much love, interest and respect for their wives to desire undue attention from other women.

Most married women have too much pride to run the chance of marring their reputations in an entanglement and probably resultant scandal.

Family interest is too strong with most married couples to wish to bring unfavorable reflections upon any one of their family.

Yet too many men and women are not averse to a "little harmless flirtation."

You may be one of this kind. You like to try your power in interesting one of the other sex.

Dangerous practice—what seems innocent fun is likely to end disastrously.

If continued it will get you into trouble.

Bible Thought For Today

HOW TO ESCAPE FROM EVIL—Because thou hast made the Lord, which is my refuge, even the Most High, thy habitation; there shall no evil befall thee, neither shall any plague come nigh thy dwelling. For he shall give his angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways.—Psalm 91: 9-11.

PRAYER—We thank Thee, dear Father, for this promise. Our trust is only in Thee.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 6:18. Sun rises tomorrow 5:52.

Many people refuse to believe anything but the incredible, which is perhaps the reason men can get away with those whopping fish stories, and some of the tales they tell their wives.

Benefactors.

"Congratulations, my boy!" "But you just said that I flunked out of medical school."

"Ah, but think of the lives you have saved."

For the theft of 40 cents, Anthony Guilianio of New York was given a seven-year sentence. The grafting New York politicians can steal half the state, however, and little would be said about it.

Slightly delirious financier: "Nurse, what did you say my temperature is?"

Nurse: "One hundred and three, sir."

S. D. P.: "Right! When it gets to 103½ sell."

Love comes once to every woman, but that doesn't stop her from getting married two or three times.

The Good Old Daze—A college boy never worries. He knows that petter days are coming.

Some great men states that a person sometimes thinks his taste is good because it is his own, but from the kind of stuff some people drink, we would say their taste has been sadly perverted.

Disgustful Taste.

A reformer had been speaking with some feeling about the use of cosmetics by girls.

"The more experience I have with lipstick," he declared warmly, "the more distasteful I find it."

An East Side man was speaking about his wife the other day and a friend asked him if he knew when to stop talking.

"I don't know yet," he replied, "we have only been married nine years." Oh wham-de-doodle-wham.

Mayor Walker jokes about his movie acting, says a news story. He should.

Emotions of Fatherhood.

A man was discovered by his wife one night standing over his baby's crib. Silently she watched him. As he stood looking down at the sleeping infant, she saw in his face a mixture of emotions—rapture, doubt, admiration, despair, ecstasy, incredulity. Touched and wondering alike at this unusual parental attitude and the conflicting emotions, the wife with eyes glistening arose and slipped her arms around him.

"A penny for your thoughts," she said, in a voice tremulous with tenderness.

Startled into consciousness, he blurted them out: "For the life of me, I can't see how anybody can make a crib like that for three forty-nine!"

Wonder how this "lie detector" they have been using up in Mercer county would work on some of these birds who tell you what a low score they hung up when they play by themselves?

Heavy Stranger (returning to theatre between the acts): "Did I tread on your toes as I went out?"

Seated Man (grimly): "You did, sir."

Heavy Stranger (to wife): "That is right, Matilda, this is our place."

Null and Void—The fellow who thought that Edison discovered the northern lights.

Bricklayers in the Beaver valley have adopted a five-day week plan. We know a lot of bricklayers in New Castle who would be glad to get five days a week right now.

Today's Storyteller. A lad from Fops Crossing, having ambitions to become a great banker, ran away from home and succeeded in getting a job as a bank messenger. Upon his return home two weeks later, one of his old friends asked him why he didn't keep his job in the city.

"I don't like being a banker," the boy replied. "I'm sorry I learned it."

Most worthwhile things cost us an effort. Some people are so easy to get along with that we don't want to.

Poor Golfer: "Well, how do you like my game?"

Caddie: "I suppose it's all right, but I still prefer golf."

After the kid learns "expression" the only problem is to protect him until he is old enough to be a radio announcer.

Heated Words.

Farmer Govan was taking a walk through the village when he came upon the minister, who was looking very depressed.

"Sorry to hear about the fire at the parsonage," said the farmer. "Was there any serious damage?"

"Yes, Govan," replied the minister sadly, "very serious damage and loss."

"That be bad," said the farmer with a touch of sympathy. "Something destroyed that ye cannot replace?"

"Ten years' sermons burnt to a heap of ashes," was the reply.

"My, but that must have been some blaze, sir," returned the farmer, his memory going back to ten years of weary Sunday mornings. "They was all very dry."

Why go out on a borrow trouble when you can stay at home and make it yourself?

"Can we play store in here, Mammy?"

"Yes, but you must be very, very quiet."

"We will, Mammy. We'll pretend we don't advertise."

Ode To An India Rubber Man—Give 'till it hurts.

What's In a Name?—The big kleptomaniac from the Hook of Holland.

Fruit Note. "How did you enjoy your trip south, Mrs. So-and-So?"

"Not very well. During my entire visit the damp airs annoyed me terribly."

"Quite strange, I'm sure. The fruit never seemed to bother me."

I notice by the press reports that there is a shortage of $10 bills all over the United States. That's correct. I also have noticed a shortage of $1, $2 and $5 bills. Once upon a time I saw a $20 bill, but that was many years ago.

Wife: "Dear, I've got something I want to talk to you about."

Hubby: "Good! Usually you want to talk to me about something you haven't got."

Oh! My, Yes.

An American was explaining to his British visitor the construction of an electrical sign his concern was about to place on Broadway.

"It will contain," he said, "20,000 red lights, 17,000 blue lights, 10,000 white lights, and a central sunburst of orange and purple." The Englishman was impressed.

"Most extraordinary," he said. "But don't you think, old chap, that it will be just a bit conspicuous?"

McAndrews: "Hooray! The wind has changed."

Convalescent Wife: "Well, mon, what of it?"

McAndrews: "Ye ken the doctor said you needed a change of air."

Evidence.

Miss Sophia Jones tripped into a lawyer's office. "Can't As sue dat no-good Rastus Sniff fo' somepin' mister?" He promised to marry me, dat he did, an' yistiddy he 'loped wid another gal."

"Promised to marry you, eh?" mused the lawyer. "Well, have you anything in black and white to show for it?"

"No, suh," replied Sophia. "Jest black is all."

How strange that scientists in search of a serum to prevent disease haven't yet made a chemical analysis of the buzzard.

Some of the law's agents are rough, eh? Well a Ph. D. worth $10,000 a year seldom take a $40 job.

He's at Least Wise Enough Not To. The owl is odd.

He looks so solemn, You'd think he wrote A funny column.

—Jest Mee.

Momentous Moments—When a fire-eater meets an old flame.

But nature whistled with all her winds. Did as she pleased and went her way.

—Emerson.

"Children of five should be told the truth about Santa Claus." Yeah? And should girls of eighteen be warned that men are naughty?

Old Lady—"Oh, officer, I feel so funny."

Officer—"Have you vertigo, ma'am?"

Old Lady—"Yes, about a mile."

"There," said Snagsley at the club, "there is a magnate, a leader among men; a man who controls 50,000 jobs. His slightest wish is a command to millions in money. When he frowns the United States treasury trembles!"

"Gee!" Harkness exclaimed, "is he telephoning now to some bank president?"

"Naw, he's phoning his wife for permission to stay down town for dinner."

Price and Quality. The world is growing better. So kindly people say. But each man is a go-getter And prepared for any fray.

And so we're appreciative As conditions seem perverse. While the world is more expensive It appears a trifle worse.

New York has recently had under way a campaign to improve the appearance of ash cans. We suppose the next move will be for more beautiful rubbish.

Fare Exchange.

A stout woman wedged into a crowded street car was having difficulty in getting into her tightly-buttoned jacket pocket to extract her fare.

World Marvels At Triumph Of Gandhi Fight For Liberty

Importance Of Advance Made Without Armed Force Impressed On This Country, Which Studies Personality Of Great Leader Of People

The truce agreed to by Mahatma Gandhi and Lord Irwin in the struggle for independence in India is being hailed by all the world as a masterly achievement. Its far-reaching effects are already being anticipated. Although it has aroused enmity in some quarters, the joy of the people of the world is frankly glad that a basis for the cessation of India's passive-resistance war has been found.

"Mahatma Gandhi, with his ninety-odd pound frame and emaciated appearance, has proved to be one of the really strong men of the world," declares the CHARLESTON (S. C.) EVENING POST, which points out that "not only has he assumed leadership of some 200,000,000 of people, but he has retained his hold on them whether in prison or out for whatever ends he saw fit and there is a truce now because Gandhi is willing to have one." Of the man's popularity among his fellow countrymen the DAYTON DAILY NEWS says: "Mahatma Gandhi makes a political speech in Bombay and 250,000 of his countrymen crowd about adoringly to hear. The spontaneous acclaim preceding his address could not be stopped short of half an hour. People climbed trees, hung from lamp posts and clustered on telegraph poles in the effort to hear a word from the loved and trusted leader." And of his influence the SAN BERNARDINO SUN remarks: "Any action that tends to pacify 300,000,000 people is bound to be of universal interest. And to most Indians the word of Mahatma Gandhi has more effect than all the representatives of Great Britain even when backed up with troops. Gandhi has told his people to cease their disobedience campaign and return to work. They have, and India has peace again," concludes The Sun.

Though they are greatly in the minority, Gandhi has his opponents. As the KALAMAZOO GAZETTE states: "Because Gandhi saw the wisdom of conceding a few points here and there to the British—because he did not insist on a course that could have brought nothing but disaster to the whole independence cause—he is pilloried by the Reds as a 'tool of British imperialism.' On this phase of affairs the CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE also speaks: 'To the Reds Gandhi is not a patriot, liberal or liberator. They called him a tool of British imperialism and capitalism and booed him as much. The radical gentlemen of the extreme left have no horizons and conciliatory adjustments are outside their philosophy,' remarks The Tribune, pointing an American paragraph: 'Thus Washington was a traitor to the American Jacobins and Lincoln a palterer to the Americanists.'"

It might be said also that the French are temperate in the use of alcoholic drink and as one Frenchman said recently: "Americans are such pigs when they drink."

As to the method by which Gandhi gained his victory for India the TEXARKANA GAZETTE states: "Had he raised an armed force to fight the British he would have been utterly crushed. Without fighting, (Continued On Page Five)

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

THE FRENCH OF IT.

The prohibition movement is making slow progress in Europe. The Anti-Alcoholic League of France is attempting to induce school children to sign a pledge of total abstinence. However the 1-500,000 wine grape growers of France recently appealed to their representatives in Parliament to stop the employment of W. C. T. U. tactics in French rural regions.

Party lines are forgotten in the House of Deputies when such an issue is under debate. When the French minister of education was appealed to be replied: "You can count on me to put a stop to this campaign. I am from the wine country myself. Any attempt to inculcate hostility to the glorious wines of France is more than deplorable, and I, as a minister and representative of the government, disavow them. I am about to take steps, either to ban the school manuals into which such heretical doctrine has been allowed to creep, or to have the publishers amend them so as to restore to wine drinking its true character in the eyes of the school children."

It might be said also that the French are temperate in the use of alcoholic drink and as one Frenchman said recently: "Americans are such pigs when they drink."

THE LITTLE OLD WOMAN

There was a little woman whose hands were worn and red. And long ago the beauty of her youthful days had fled. For she had suffered sorrow, and she had suffered pain. But after three had left her she learned to smile again. And out she came with cookies for the children on the street. Till it seemed wherever she wandered there were young ones round her feet.

She hadn't any money; she was never gayly dressed. She had a shawl and bonnet which she called her Sunday best. And if you gave her something to a little while you'd see Some other person strutting in the bit of finery.

And she'd give this explanation if you asked the reason why: "I thought she ought to have it. She's so much worse off than I."

No one ever seemed to notice that her hands were coarse and red. That she wasn't good to look at no one ever heard it said. And the smartest of her neighbors who appeared to know it all.

Threaten Death To Missing Girl

Parents Of Missing Pittsburgh Girl Get Phone Call Threatening
Death

HAS BEEN GONE
SINCE MARCH 17

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Mar. 27.—Fear stricken after a mysterious telephone call threatening death to Anna Davis, 12-year-old schoolgirl, David and Martha Davis, her parents, this afternoon revealed that the girl had been missing since March 17, that she probably had been abducted by three men on that date, and that they had been conducting a private search for the girl.

The parents were not immediately alarmed over the girl's disappearance but called police today when they learned from Julia Demark, 12, Anna's playmate that their daughter had been spirited away in a blue automobile near her home on March 17.

Their fears were increased on receipt of a telephone call threatening the girl with death if police were notified of her disappearance.

Accepted Ride.
Julia said she and Anna were walking in the west end of Pittsburgh on the afternoon of March 17 when the automobile drew alongside. Three men in the car invited the girls for a ride. Both accepted.
Tiring of the ride, Julia insisted on leaving the machine and was permitted to do so. Anna, however, elected to stay in the car.

Mrs. Davis told police today the telephone death threat was made by a woman speaking broken English. The woman told her, Mrs.

Davis said, the child's body would be left where the parents would find it, if the police were notified.

Two Grove City Men Given
New Chance In Opinion
Filed By Lawrence
Jurist

(Special To The News)
MERCER, Pa., Mar. 27.—Judge
James A. Chambers of Lawrence county, filed an opinion at Mercer county court this morning granting to John McDowell and Earl Bolservices in the Second United Presbyterian church, which have been conducted in preparation of Holy Communion on Easter Sunday.

Dr. C. S. Gamble of the Second United Presbyterian church of Butler has been the speaker and this evening his subject will be "How Much Do You Weigh?"

He has been greeted nightly with an auditorium filling audience and it is anticipated that there will be more than usual out this evening to hear him deliver his last sermon.

Radio Owners Are Aroused

Proposal To Establish Dozens Of Small Chain Stations Rouses Ire
Of Fans

Radio owners in New Castle and Lawrence county will receive with strenuous protests the proposition of some projected corporation which proposes to establish a chain of several dozens of small radio stations in Pennsylvania.

In the proposition filed at Washington it is proposed to operate 41 stations in this state, each to have a power based upon one watt per 1,000 inhabitants in the city in which it is located. One of the cities in which it is sought to locate one of these chain stations is New Castle.

The protests against any such project as this will be long and loud in this community. There are too many stations at the present time and to clutter up the air with a lot of little stations would only add to the interference in reception.

The appeal of the corporation for the chain has not been granted.

College Debaters Win Two Contests

Westminster Teams Take Two Out Of Three Eastern Battles

With a record of two victories and a defeat out of three debates, the debating team of Westminster College is on its way home from the recent eastern trip, in charge of Dr.

C. A. Dawson, dean of the English department of the college.

On Monday night, March 23, the Westminster team lost to Juniata College at Huntington, Pa., the team consisting of Paul Quimby and David Hunter. Tuesday night the team won over Dickinson College at Carlisle, David Hunter and Frank Douds comprising the team.
On Wednesday night Lehigh University was defeated in Allentown, Paul Quimby and Frank Douds comprising the team.

The showing of the debating team is a most creditable one and reflects not alone the ability of Westminster students but the faculty of the school responsible for the training.

P. T. A. Presents Play At Union

Three Act Comedy Presented In Union Township
High School Goes
Over Big

The three act comedy, "The 18 Carat Boob" certainly made a big hit Thursday evening when it was presented in the Union Township High school, under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher Association.

The play deals with a house party that is being given in the home of Violet Fissette, when the report gets out that "the crow" a noted burglar, is at large, and each young man about the place is suspect of being the culprit. Many amusing situations are created and Mrs. Frank Mulvey, in the role of Kitty, the lispng sweetheart, took down the house with her babyish ways. Mrs. N. Walls made a hit in the character of the colored housekeeper and R. R. Peden, who did a number of female impersonations in his part of "Bud" the country cousin, brought forth roar upon roar of laughter.

Those taking part in the play are: Mrs. H. E. Barnes as Daisy Dale, who sponsors Bud

Sara Patterson—Violet Fissette, the hostess

Mrs. N. Walls—Cora, the colored housekeeper

Bert Coates—Charles the chauffeur

Frank Mulvey—Billy Korns

Mrs. F. Mulvey—Kitty, the lispng sweetheart

Mrs. John Covert—Bella Spark

R. R. Peden—Harry Carter (Bud) the country cousin

F. H. White—Lynne Fissette, the father

Walter Wilkins—Raymond Barkville, unwelcome suitor

Mrs. C. Morrison—Anna, the mysterious maid

Lynn White—Jack Merry, the preferred suitor

The play will be repeated this evening and it is expected the auditorium will be crowded to witness the performance.

National Farm Outlook

By ARTHUR H. JENKINS
Editor, The Farm Journal
Written for Central Press

What happened in 1930 to the farm population is about what we all expected.

The estimated figures show that for the first time in ten years the movement of families back to the land almost balanced the movement away from it. In other words, low prices and safety in the country looked almost as good as no jobs and starvation in the cities.

Of course that is not exactly a fair way to put it, since people move from farm to city and from city to farm for many other reasons than economic necessity. Plenty of prosperous farmers give up the business, and plenty of city workers with jobs throw them over and move out in the country.

Back to the first large increase of back-to-the-landers in ten years is certainly due to the more certain and secure living that the farming business now offers.

Plenty of people moved in both directions, but the balance of families leaving the farms is estimated at only 36,000, which is about 151,000 persons.

CRIME DOESN'T PAY

When life begins to pall and the world seems more like a cabbage leaf than a rose petal, I sit down and read crime statistics.

Wading through a wad of them the other day I learned that with an annual crime bill of more than eighteen thousand million 18,000,000,000—call it eighteen billion if you have a mind to—dollars a year the average family pays $135 annually as its own special crime tax.

In New York City alone it is estimated that between $200,000,000 and $600,000,000 a year is levied in tribute by racketeers from almost every business. The racketeer bill for the rest of the country's figured conservatively at $13,000,000,000.

And this, despite the fact that our 10,000,000 Federal State and local laws and ordinances are being augmented at the rate of 100,000 annually.

Our present total of statutes exceeds the combined laws of five great European nations.

Which would seem to bear out the contention that "The Country is Best governed that is least governed."

WHEN—

Everybody agrees that something ought to be done about racketeering, but nobody knows just what.

Gordon L. Hostetter, executive director of the Employer's Association

THE RESULT IS THAT for the first time in ten years the total farm population showed an increase in 1930.

One hundred fifty-one thousand more people moved to town than came back, but this was much more than balanced by the excess of farm births over deaths. Three hundred fifty-nine thousand more babies were born than there were deaths.

The final net increase in the farm population for the year is therefore a little more than 200,000.

That is a small increase, of course, in a total population of around 25,000,000, but it is an increase, where we have been having decreases of a million or so a year ever since the war.

What is the moral? Nothing very special, I would say, unless it is that people generally know which side their bread is buttered on.

As soon as the bad times in the cities begin to look better, it is reasonably certain that the movement away from the country will be resumed—possibly this year, certainly in 1932.

That is a god thing for agriculture, too, not a bad thing. It will continue until a point is reached where a small but highly efficient farm population produces all the food and textile materials that the towns and cities use.

If our tariff protection on imports of goods and fibers is not taken away from us in the meantime, that ought to be the beginning of the Golden Age for agriculture.

Diabetics Much Aided By Insulin

Reports Of Treatment Marvelous—Dr. Clendenening

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The actual advantage of having diabetes and the health-giving qualities of the diabetic diet for the middle-aged were pointed out yesterday. But the diabetic has been greatly favored by medical discovery in the use of insulin. The middle-aged or elderly diabetic can get on very well with little insulin or without it entirely. The young child with diabetes can hardly get along at all without insulin.

We are just beginning to learn how marvelous the benefits from the use of insulin have been. It took time to bring this out. For instance, here is report on 100 patients carefully studied. They had been on insulin five to eight years.

First, food tolerance. That is a great item. When a severe diabetic starts out on treatment the amount of sugar that can be consumed without insulin is very low. Even on dietary treatment alone, which keeps the body sugar free, this tolerance usually rises. But with the prolonged use of insulin it has been found to go up tremendously. Twenty-eight cases on diet alone before the days of insulin increased their food tolerance 200 to 1,000 calories. After five years of insulin 27 of them had increased it far beyond this. Seven patients were barely maintaining the lowest diet possible to maintain weight (not growth) without any exertion. It is hard to imagine what that means. If they ate just a little more than enough to maintain a low weight, if they ate all satisfied their appetites, they showed sugar. After insulin they could have more than enough to maintain weight and growth and keep hunger satisfied without danger.

The amount of insulin required is frequently reduced. So that the patient can look forward to taking less insulin after a certain period. This factor is somewhat complicated by the youthful age of patients for whom insulin is most valuable. Under insulin treatment they are likely to grow, and when their bodies get larger they require more food. The ability to utilize sugar does not keep pace with the body's growth. So in some of these rapidly growing patients more insulin instead of less is required. When insulin has been begun in a fully grown person with severe diabetes, the amount can almost invariably be cut down in time.

Increased weight and growth when under insulin, is remarkable. Before the use of insulin the children studied showed slight or negligible growth. With insulin treatment children grow normally and show standard increases for their ages. Thin people gain weight on insulin, where as with diabetic treatment alone severe diabetes lost weight.

The economic efficiency of diabetic patients improves on insulin treatment. Before insulin treatment a little less than half the cases were able to do some or all of their work. About a quarter of them could get about, but could do no work. About a third were helpless. With the help of insulin three-quarters of them can do full duty, and one-quarter part duty. None are helpless.

The fear that the repeated hypodermic injections necessary in giving insulin would harm the skin has proved groundless. Eight patients in four years had a total of 23,000 needle punctures with no ill effects to the skin whatever.

Such is the record of insulin in its first nine years of existence.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

Jealousy Is Source Of Trouble

Dr. Myers Says Praise "Terrible Tempered" Girl

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

A South Dakota mother writes: "Our oldest girl, 13, has such a temper, in fact she has no control of it at all. There are two other children, one girl 11, a boy 6. Maybe some little incident one of the other children does, which really doesn't amount to anything, will make her fly into a rage of temper and kick or slap them. I try to make peace by scolding, not always scolding, either; sometimes just a peaceful talk of reasoning. When she talks back to me she says such harsh things; also says the other children are my pets and that I favor them, something that makes me feel very bad as one of them is just as dear to me as the other."

"But through it all I have learned to be calm and patient and try to reason with her, but of no use, for she will have the last awful words. When I tell her she is disrespectful it is on her part she'll say she wishes herself dead; at these times I feel as though my heart will break. Then, on the other hand, when I am sick, she will give me such tender care, get meals and help me in every way she can."

"She is a very bright scholar."

Answer: I admire your patience, mother, and I know that you are very conscientious. There are two very significant statements in your letter: the one indicating that the other girl thinks you like the other children better than you like her, and the other about her tender care of you when you are ill. They are clear proofs that the source of her major problem is jealousy. When she can care for you during illness she is assured of your affection and of her worthwhileness. No matter how impartial you are, so long as she thinks you love her less, it is true for her. Your very efforts to reason with her to prove you love her just as much only exaggerates her jealousy. Never try by words to convince her of your love. Don't try to reason with her at all when she is worked up. Say nothing then. Let her talk as much as she likes. Let her have the first and last word.

The fact that she gets into trouble more and is scolded and punished more than the other children makes her think herself less secure than they are. The more she is punished the more jealous she gets and, therefore, the more bad things she does to get punished for to make her more jealous and so on ad infinitum.

Relief will come slowly but will come in keeping her out of conflicts, in helping her to enjoy more responsibilities, more successes, more approvals, more reminders of worthwhileness. When she is good go out

How to End RHEUMATISM

New Medicine Drives Rheumatic Poisons from Joints and Muscles

EASES PAIN FIRST DAY

Poisons in the blood settling in the joints and muscles cause rheumatism. You cannot get rid of rheumatic agony till every trace of these dangerous poisons is driven out of your system. That's why external remedies and pain-killing drugs only give temporary relief.

What you need is RU-MA, the new medicine that acts directly on the liver, stomach and blood, and expels through the natural channels of elimination the dangerous poisons that cause rheumatic misery.

No long waiting for your suffering to stop. RU-MA enters pain the first and is the one rheumatism remedy guaranteed to free muscles and joints from all painful stiffness, swelling and lameness.

New Castle Drug Co., Ecker's, has no much confidence in RU-MA that they warrant every rheumatic in town to try it and guarantee money-back if it does not end rheumatism.

Make the home duties very definite, never overlapping, with separate jobs for each one, never jobs together. Put emphasis upon individual ownership and see that each younger child never infringes on her rights, nor uses her property without her permission. Never force her to share. ### WRITES OF CONDITIONS

Ely, Minnesota, March 24, 1931
New Castle, Pa.

Dear Editor:
Some time ago I wrote you about conditions here in the old saloon days. As you were kind enough to give that letter space in your paper, I will now venture to tell you about conditions in recent years.

Where in the old days, front as well as backyards were ornamented with empty kegs and bottles, we now see flower beds and well kept lawns. Clean well dressed children and (their parents sober) in places where decent women and children could seldom walk the streets without being annoyed by drunks, prostitutes or so-called friends to prostitutes, you very seldom see any thing of the kind now.

Some principal employers now prefer men who use their pay for the good of their families instead of leaving it at a questionable place. We now have civic improvements and a school system that many larger towns might be proud of. The saloons and vicious dives that usually go with them are mostly replaced by respectable business places. The many hundreds of old time blind pigs and places of easy morals are now mostly replaced by decent homes occupied by decent people. No well behaved deserving man, woman or child need go hungry if their more fortunate neighbors know it.

About the same conditions prevail in the several hundred towns in northern Minnesota. Wet bought and paid for newspapers and wet propagandists are broad casting to the world that prohibition is a failure. It is true that the liquor element has spent millions of dollars trying to make the Eighteenth amendment a failure.

They do all they can to corrupt the kind of voters and public officials that can be corrupted. They have encouraged lawlessness and disrespect for all law (even the ten commandments). And then they say, Look what the Eighteenth amendment went and made us do.

Yours Truly

John Schaefer.

MORE BIRDS AND LESS BUGS

When I see the name of a rather constant contributor to the Open Forum of a newspaper attached to this article, I leave it unread for fear the readers of The News might be doing the same with my stuff. Together with noticing some acquaintances that have had a restraining influence on me lately. But it seems impossible to keep from making the annual appeal for better living conditions for our friends, the birds.

No less an authority than Neil Morrow Ladd claims in his book, "How to Make Friends With Birds" that we have but 10 per cent as many birds as we should have. And I am quite sure that some species such as quail, purple martins and barn swallows are not more than five per cent of what they were 40 years ago in this section.

And if they are to be increased any worth while (about back from the verge of extinction as far as swallows and quail are concerned) it will have to be by the united efforts of all concerned. The case of quail is more desperate than ever, judging from this community, after the mildest winter I have ever known.

Miss Douglas in the Saturday Evening Post used these words lately: "It is unbelievably difficult to combat this seemingly unplaceable destruction of our American birds. Man's delight in birds seems universal, but so is his delight in their destruction. They seem to go hand in hand. But destruction is the more active and the more lasting."

Wormy apples cause an annual loss of 80 million dollars. Swallows, purple martins and barn swallows are the most efficient and cheapest means of keeping the codling moth in check. Why not make use of them as the southern states are doing in keeping in check the cotton boll weevil with purple martins?

The schools are doing a great work in interesting the young in bird conservation. But even they are not functioning as they should in this important matter, or in any other way in proportion to their cost. It costs about 10 times as much per scholar today as it did 30 years ago, but are they turning out 14 times better citizens than they did in the days of Lincoln and Garfield? Are they not getting a little of everything and not much of anything? Are not thousands of boys of foreign-born parents in our schools dreaming of growing up to be racketeers like the great, rich and powerful Al Capone?

What we need in our schools is a better grounding essentials and more attentions to that which tends for better citizenship. And as William T. Hornaday says, we need more lectures in our schools, with a wormy apple core held between the fingers as a text.

African Program Is Enjoyed By Graders

Rose Avenue Class Presents
Clever Project As Climax To Course

The climax to the study of Africa was reached when the pupils of Grade 6A of the Rose Avenue school presented a program on Wednesday afternoon in the school auditorium under the direction of Miss Morfydd Owens, teacher of nature study and geography.

Much interest was created in the displaying of many beautiful and interesting articles from Africa. Miss Cecilia Lewis, a foreign missionary, sent the articles to school and Elizabeth Mack, a sixth grade student, gave a clever explanation of each.

Frank - Candiotta demonstrated the music of the Africans with his mandolin.

The program follows:

States Battle For Fred Burke Famous Gunman

Michigan And Illinois Both Want To Prosecute Notorious Gunman

IS CAPTURED WHILE SLEEPING IN HOME

(International News Service) CHICAGO, Mar. 27.—Fred "Killer" Burke, gangland's most wanted assassin, has been sought throughout the United States for the murders of twenty-one men.

Captured at the home of his father-in-law in a remote farm house near Milan, Mo., the killer was taken into custody while he slept and without a shot being fired.

Wanted By Michigan. BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Mar. 27.—The state of Michigan will make every effort to reclaim Fred Burke, notorious alleged killer, who was reported captured in St. Joseph, Mo., Thursday.

This was the statement by Prosecutor W. M. Cunningham when informed of the gangster's capture by International News Service.

Burke, according to the prosecutor, is wanted here for the murder of Patrolman Charles Skelly in December, 1929. Burke is alleged to have shot and killed Skelly without warning as the officer tried to give him a traffic violation ticket. The murder occurred at St. Joseph, Mich., near here, in this county.

The dapper gunman is said to be wanted in Chicago for the famous St. Valentine Day's massacre there. Cunningham insisted, however, that he would recognize no prior claim by the state of Illinois but demand that Michigan be allowed to prosecute the purported killer.

Attorneys Seek To Relieve Congestion In Allegheny Court

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Mar. 27.—Seeking to relieve congestion in the common pleas court of Allegheny county, attorneys here are circulating a petition which would require corporations, particularly public utility firms, to engage additional lawyers for trial of their cases.

Proponents of the petition state that 75 per cent of the cases now at bar are being handled by about 25 lawyers. Delays, they claim, occur regularly and much too frequently because attorneys representing the defense in one suit are often unable to attend the trial of other cases in which they represent the same company.

It is planned to present the petition to the judges of the Common Pleas court after all signatures have been secured.

Philadelphia Man Given High Award

DIPLOMATS LUNCH

ROME, Mar. 27.—A novel institution in the diplomatic world are the weekly luncheons for men at the American Embassy. Every Thursday Mr. Garrett invites from twenty to twenty-four distinguished people in various walks of life. Five tables are laid in the dining room at the Rospigliosi Palace and the guests sit informally at whatever table they like best, next to the personalities they wish to talk to. The only lady partaking of these luncheons is the wife of the Ambassador, Mrs. Garrett.

Malone Notifies Contractors Work Must Be Resumed

Secretary Malone Warns Nelson-Pedley Company That Work Must Be Started

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Mar. 27.—James P. Malone, secretary of property and supplies, Thursday notified the Nelson-Pedley Contracting company and the bonding concerns involved that work must start on the south office building at once.

Malone's letter emphasized the fact that the contract carries a penalty clause for forfeiture of $200 a day if the main part of the building is not completed by April 1 and the auditorium by May 15.

Following the supreme court decision which held that the Nelson-Pedley company and not the commonwealth was responsible for the $800,000 loss in a fire which gutted the building last fall, the contracting company went into receivership to conserve its assets. Work on the building was stopped at once.

Children Storm New Kind Of School

(International News Service) BOSTON, Mass., Mar. 27.—A week's vacation from school duties means nothing to the youth of this city who stormed the Children's Museum to obtain another education in the form of moving pictures.

It was estimated that 10,000 of the city's school children saw films at the museum depicting the life of famous Americans.

Finds Increase Of Dog Rabies

Unusual Large Number Of Rabid Dogs Running
Throughout State

HARRISBURG, Mar. 27.—An unusually large number of rabid dogs have made their appearance in several sections of the commonwealth, according to the bureau of animal industry, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Forty positive cases of rabies in dogs were found by the bureau during January and February this year. In addition, 75 dogs were killed by owners as a safeguard to rabies.

The section where rabies is most prevalent are those near large centers of population, as for example, in Chester, Delaware and Lancaster counties in the southeast, Luzerne in the east and Allegheny and Fayette in the west.

The state has been handling, so far this year, the rabies situation under the special or individual quarantine where specific premises and dogs are placed under strict control. At present, the officials are watching the situation very closely and if conditions should warrant, a general quarantine may be necessary in certain localities.

The secret to the control of rabies is the control of dogs running at large, officials state. For that reason, the department is urgently requesting dog owners to keep their animals under control at all times. Municipal authorities and civic organizations are asked to assist in protecting their citizens from rabies by insisting that dogs be kept under control, and by reporting promptly all dogs acting in a manner suspicious of rabies. Reports should be made to the local veterinarian, the nearest district office of the bureau of animal industry, or directly to the bureau's main office in Harrisburg.

Coach Harrison Uncertain Of His Work Next Year

Leaves This Morning For Iowa
Home; Returns Next Week
To Remain For Summer

Lawrence "Pops" Harrison, basketball coach of Westminster College who was the principal speaker at the second annual physical department banquet of the Y. M. C. A. last night said he was not certain about what he will do next year. He said various rumors have been heard about him for the next basketball season.

He left for his home in Iowa this morning, promising to return to Westminster in about a week. He will remain at the college until June, he said, but added he was not in a position to say about future work.

sum of five shillings, with the stipulation that rents therefrom should be applied to maintenance of three resident students during a period of years between their first and second degrees.

In another hundred years the graduate department at Yale had thrived so that 10 or a dozen students were enrolled there as candidates for the master's degree in Latin and Greek. There were some seeking work in the natural science also. In 1846 Yale set up a department of philosophy and the arts, and in 1861 Yale led all American colleges in awarding the degree of doctor of philosophy.

Prof. Arthur Twining Halsey, later president of Yale, was the first dean of the modern graduate school, with Prof. Andrew W. Phillips following him. In 1911 Dr. Hans Oertel was dean and was succeeded by Prof. Wilbur L. Cross, just inaugurated governor of Connecticut.

Salt Company Worker Establishes Record

Prizes For Best Student Radio Drama

(International News Service)
LAFAYETTE, Ind., Mar. 27.—To encourage advancement in the newest field of drama, that of presentation of plays over radio, the Indiana Association of Teachers of Speech has announced a contest in the broadcasting of plays, open to high school and college dramatic organizations.

High school and college dramatists will select a one-act play and revise it to make it suitable for presentation on the air.

The plays will be broadcast and judged by dramatic critics selected by the state committee of teachers of speech of which Captain C. C. Mather of the Culver Military Academy is chairman.

Practically all of the radio stations in the state have agreed to co-operate by broadcasting the plays, including WRAP at Laporte; WOWO at Fort Wayne; WLG at Fort Wayne; WCMA at Culver; WBAA at Purdue University here; WLBC at Muncie; WHBU at Anderson; WFBM and WKBF at Indianapolis; WBOW at Terre Haute and WGBF at Evansville.

Prizes are to be offered in both the high school and college divisions for the best plays presented. Entries are to be made to Professor A. H. Monroe of Purdue University here.

New Instrument Aids In Study Of Sun's Rays

By LYLE ABBOTT
International News Service Special
Correspondent

LA JOLLA, Calif., Mar. 27.—You feel the warmth of the sun when it shines on you through a window, but you get your skin burned by exposure to the sun's direct rays when you go bathing.

Just why this difference in the effect of sunlight on the human body is the topic of a new scientific study at the Scripps Institution of Oceanography of the University of California here.

It is all a question of light rays of different wave lengths. The study is made possible by a new instrument called a thermoelectric pyranometer, which is more sensitive than any other machine ever used to record the rapid changes in the amount of sunlight received on earth.

The changes in sunlight are due to causes within the sun and secondarily to shifting amounts of haze or cloud in the air.

The machine is set to register automatically. Like a seismograph, which is used to make records of earthquakes, the pyranometer keeps a constant check on the sunlight. Moreover, according to Dr. George F. McWane and Dr. A. F. Gorton, the scientists who are using the pyranometer, this instrument is so delicate it will record changes in light intensity so small that the human eye can detect no darkening of the sky.

Dr. Gorton explained that the reason direct sunlight tans the skin is because ultra-violet rays of short wave length, act on the skin exactly as light affects a photographic plate. The rays strike the protective layer and are converted into heat.

This heat can be so strong due to over-exposure as to set up actual burning conditions in the tissues and lead to illness and even death.

The light that passes through glass is shorn of its ultra-violet rays. This leaves the principal ingredient of this light the infra-red rays, which are closely related in wave-length to the invisible heat rays. That is why glass houses are warm, and that plants and flowers grow rapidly in hot-houses.

Allentown Airport Business Picks Up

(International News Service)
ALLENTOWN, Pa., Mar. 27.—New records for air passenger travel were set at the Allentown Airport for the year 1930, it was shown in the annual report of the Allentown Aviation Corporation.

During the year, 1,176 passengers took off from the port, 962 as sight-seeing passengers and 214 as cross-country passengers. There were 595 individual flights made and 333 visiting planes landed at the port during the year.

New Quarters For Eagles Convention

CONNELLVILLE, Pa., Mar. 27.—When the state convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles is held here during the third week of June, delegates to the sessions will assemble in new quarters in the Connellville Aerie, No. 493.

Plans for construction of a two-story brick building to cost about $50,000 have been approved and bids for the work requested. It is planned to dedicate the building during the state convention.

Inspector Held On Bribe Charge

Former Building Inspector
In New York City Arrested

RESIGNED HIS JOB ON MONDAY

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Mar. 27.—Rollin C. Bastress, formerly chief inspector of the Manhattan Building Department, who resigned Monday, was arrested early today on a charge of accepting a bribe.

He was taken into custody at his home by detectives of the district attorney's office and was taken to the Elizabeth street police station and booked for "accepting a bribe."

District Attorney Crain said that the arrest followed a conference between himself and his assistants, Charles Brady, superintendent of buildings, resigned Wednesday. At the time Brady said that his work had become too burdensome since Bastress, his assistant, had resigned.

PHELAN TO GET 1931 LAETARE MEDAL

(International News Service)
SOUTH BEND, Ind., Mar. 27.—James J. Phelan, the Boston banker and philanthropist, who rose from a page boy on the floor of the Boston Stock exchange to become one of the commanding figures in American finance and business, has been selected as the 1931 recipient of the Laetare medal awarded annually by Notre Dame University here to a Catholic layman for outstanding contribution to the welfare of the nation.

Phelan is a trustee of the university and for the past 25 years has been identified as prominently with civil and governmental affairs in the East as he has been with business and finance.

For 42 years Phelan has been directing the course of big business enterprise but in the past 25 years he has spent much time in relief work following disasters and in heading civic committees engaged in handling Liberty Bond drives during the war years.

The Laetare medal has been conferred each year since 1883 by Notre Dame University. Frederick J. Kenkel of St. Louis, Mo., was the 1930 recipient. Former Governor Al Smith of New York received the medal in 1929.

Secretary Lewis Reveals Highway Bureau Is "Flat"

Former Governor Fisher And Recent Administration Severely Scored

TOO MUCH MONEY WAS EXPENDED

First Time In Years That Highway Department Has Been Without Funds

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Mar. 27.—Launching a slashing attack on the former administration and praising the Pin-chot regime, Samuel S. Lewis, secretary of highways, today was on record with the assertion that "for the first time in years," the State Highway Department "finds itself without sufficient funds."

Speaking before the Bellevue
Board of Trade, Lewis said:
"It is not because of any action by the administration of Governor Pinchot. It is simply because the previous administration spent not only all the money collected during its four years but the major portion of the receipts for the present calendar year."

"Spent Too Much
It is not generally known that between October 15 and December 12
there were times when the balance in the motor fund was so low that contractors' estimates totalling almost $40,000 were held up by department engineers. X X X Inability of the department to pay its debts resulted solely from its unbusinesslike refusal to keep expenditures and commitments within the revenue that might reasonably be expected its four year tenure."

Lewis declared that when Pinchot took over the reins of government, the department's available funds were $22,717,822.56 lower than on the corresponding day of the previous year, "and the Governor discovered that profligates had encumbered every possible source of revenue."
Despite the asserted financial yoke, Lewis said the department is going steadily ahead with its work, devoting much of its time to plans for the maintenance and improvement of 20,000 miles of township roads. He voiced the hope that necessary legislation in regard to the township roads would be ready for presentation in the lower house next Monday night.

Careful Survey Made
Lewis stated that "cheap roads are a poor investment under heavy traffic," but made it clear that the present highway department "will not tear up good roads to put down better ones."

Citing the last administration's policy on road replacement he said:
"With the idea of ending inexcusable waste of public funds a careful survey has been made and, as a result, it is learned that replacement on only 10 miles of once-improved road is necessary this year."

Reckless Driving Alleged In Case

Testimony Before Judge Hildebrand In W. R. Stewart Case This Morning

Hearing on a reckless driving charge against W. R. Stewart of Rose Point is being held today before Judge R. L. Hildebrand. Stewart was held on the charge by Alderman L. C. Mantz and took an appeal.

The case results from an accident on the New Castle-Butler road, at the intersection of the Princeton road, on August 14th, 1930 in which Mrs. Anna F. Cecce and two children of Chicago were injured.
Mrs. Cecce according to her testimony was driving east on the Butler road. Stewart was driving west.
As he came to the road leading to Princeton he made a left hand turn and collided with the car of Mrs.
Cecce. Both cars were badly damaged, and the occupants of Mrs.
Cecce's car injured.

Mrs. Cecce, in her testimony claimed that the Stewart car made the left hand turn directly in front of her and that her car was struck by the Stewart car. She estimated that she was going at about 37 or 33 miles an hour.
State Highway Patrol J. L. Fulton formerly located here, but now at Erie, testified that there is a clear view of the road for several hundred feet on each side of the intersection of the Princeton road.
The Cecce children, who were injured are Joseph A. aged 6 years and Robert, aged 5 years. There is a civil action pending in which damages are claimed by the Cecces as a result of the injuries to the children. The reckless driving case is still on trial.

PETITION PRESENTED TO ADOPT CHILD

Herbert L. and Wava C. Harrison, his wife, presented a petition in court this morning, asking leave to adopt Jacqueline Yocobell, daughter of Mrs. Erma Yocobell. The petition was signed by the mother of the child and by the Children's Aid Society. Judge Hildebrand fixed
April 11, as a time for hearing.

Two Erie Places Ordered Closed

Temporary Injunctions Are Granted In Federal Court At Pittsburgh

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Mar. 27.—Temporary injunctions granted in federal court here, today were in force against two Erie establishments where government agents, according to their bills of complaint, found violations of the liquor laws.

Mae Steadman, alias Mrs. J. V.
Muller, was named proprietor in the bill of complaint of the premises at 1218 State street, Erie, described by government agents as a "speakeasy."
Nick Schillif was named proprietor of the premises at 101 Holland street, described in the bill of complaint as a saloon.
Pinal hearing dates were not set.

were arrested about 2 o'clock this morning at the Mechanic street residence of one of the members. All were the worse of wear because of their indulgence in bay run and canned heat. They were assessed fines of $3 or three days in jail by the mayor.

It was the first occasion in several nature of a reunion.

Young Chauffeur Wins Annuity For Heroism

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Mar. 27.—
How would you like to have the assurance that every week for the rest of your life there would be available $22.50, without any work or strings attached?

So does John T. Johnson, Jr., 24-year-old chauffeur.
But Johnson earned his reward by risking his own life six times so that six other persons might live.
He was awarded a hero medal of gold by the Carnegie Foundation, carrying with it a life-long award of $22.50 a week.

When he was 18 years old he fought his way to the side of a 14-year-old girl skater who had broken through thin ice on a Woburn pond and rescued her. He was in much worse condition than the girl when both finally reached safety.

The following year, 1926, 12-year-old James Sheehan, fell into the Charles river tank and became entangled. After diving repeatedly, Johnson freed the boy and brought him to shore, but two weeks later the boy died.

In July, 1927, while Johnson was hurry to Massachusetts General hospital to have several broken bones in his hand set, a little girl came crying that her brother had fallen into the Charles. Despite his painful injury, Johnson went to the rescue and saved the boy.

His next role of "hero" was at a pond in Cambridge when he saved a drowning 12-year-old boy who was attacked with cramps.

While driving a truck last July,
Johnson saw a sedan driven by Albert Verry, 26, of Lynn, skid into a canal in East Cambridge. Johnson stopped the truck, and after repeated dives succeeded in breaking a window and rescuing the driver by dragging him from the sedan by the hair.

Johnson was so severely injured that part of the bone in his leg had to be removed.

His latest achievement was the rescue of Anthony Chacto, 14, of East Boston, who had become caught in the mire skirting the Charles river. Johnson jumped in to the muck and extricated the boy who was caught with his head down.

Besides the Carnegie award Johnson has received silver loving cups for his heroic work from the City of Cambridge, from Revere, and from the state, through former Governor Frank G. Allen.

Seventy attended the fish fry and meeting of the Lawrence County
Cow Testing Association in Big Beaver Grange hall Thursday evening. The fish fry was followed by a program of interest to the association. State College farm experts presented papers on important subjects and members of the association lent their talent for the musical end of the program.
Vocal numbers were presented by

Thomas Gillespie and C. A. Douglas of Beaver county. A reading was given by Miss Vesta Gillespie.
"Raising Calves" was the subject of an illustrated address by Ross
Gridley, Beaver county farm agent.
Instrumental music selections followed by Dale and Helen McCurley of North Beaver township.
One of the features of the program was the talk, "Results of Cow Testing Association Work in Pennsylvania," presented by C. R. Gerhart of State College. Another college speaker, D. H. Bailey spoke of "Production of Quality Milk." A reading was also given by J. W.

Burke Once Hunted Here

Notorious Criminal Was Sought After Brady Paul Murder

FIRST SUSPECT IN LOCAL CRIME

Apprehension by Missouri police of Fred Burke, alleged killer and robber, today revived recollections of the search for Burke immediately after State Highway Patrolman Brady Paul was fatally shot and Patrolman Ernest Moore wounded along the New Castle-Butler highway, December 27, 1929.

At the time Burke was being sought on suspicion of having shot a middle-aged highway patrolman and authorities here suspected that Burke was a member of the crowd that had shot Paul and Moore.

Several days later a report was received here that Burke had been seen in Michigan and the Burke angle of the local shooting was abandoned.

Burke was captured by St. Louis policemen yesterday at a farmhouse near Milan, Mo. He surrendered without a shot being fired.

He is alleged to have been the assassin who lined up seven Moran gangsters in a Chicago garage, St. Valentine's day, 1929 and riddled their bodies with machine-gun fire.

Another crime which he is charged is the slaying of Policeman Charles Skelly, December 4, 1929, at St. Joseph, Mich.

He is also charged with a dozen or more robberies in various places.

Matched Colors Are Emphasized In Spring Gowns

By ALICE LANGELIER International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Mar. 27. — Colors for spring are going to be very exciting, because it's not only the shade that Madame will choose for her new spring gown, but a combination that must be beautiful as well as becoming.

To wear two or three different colors at the same time means that not only must one's color senses be highly developed, but that one must also possess a great deal of self-confidence. Naturally there are a great many women who have a plenty of the latter and none too much of the former so every woman must watch her step in colors this season.

A bright scarlet-red seems to be the favorite at several of the couturiers, often used with white or black. One of the designers dares to use it for skirt with a pink blouse for a charming sport costume. Molyneux uses a salmon-pink tussore printed in black and white with a plain salmon top-coat of soft monks' cloth. Geranium and American-beauty reds are also popular.

A very vivid shade of green is prominent, Nicole Groult combines it with black crepe for evening. Beiges and grays are back in profusion after a short lapse from fashionable favor. Black, which is not so much seen alone this year, is very often used with brown and is very distinguished looking. Mainbocher is showing a changeable black and brown ottoman silk worn with a short cape-coat of black velvet.

The blues too are very important, including not only soft pastel tones, but bright ones and dark ones slightly influenced by violet, together with lavender and linen-blue; while the most recently talked of is a sapphire. Midnight-blue will be worn for evening.

Yellow, sometimes in the pale tones or in darker shades, like gold, will be a favorite for brunettes.

Governor Cross Wins Political Battles

(International News Service)

HARTFORD, Conn., Mar. 27.—The retired Yale professor who since early in January has been governor of Connecticut has emerged triumphant from his greatest political battle.

Governor Wilbur L. Cross, nominated by Democrats who had revolted from their leaders in September and elected to state office alone of all Democratic candidates, nattered his opposition legislature in such a manner that all his nominations to important offices were accepted.

The result left politicians gasping. Republicans, who control the legislature beyond all possible doubt, drew a bill that would have taken all appointive offices from the governor's hands. Then Governor Cross renominated all but two state commissioners whose terms were expiring, and he gave two important posts to Democrats.

Exactly at the moment the governor's appointments were expected to be turned down by the senate, which must confirm those appointments, the senate voted unanimously to accept everything. There were no explanations. The senate had nothing to say. Neither had the governor.

Governor Cross decided the state police needed a new head. He had the appointment solely in his own power. He named one of the men who had helped him to secure his nomination.

Governor Cross thought a new labor commissioner was needed. He consulted his former opponents within the Democratic party, and they demanded a man of their own naming. The governor appointed another man who had helped his nomination.

Thus the retired Yale professor has played politics at a time when those who had not favored him expected him to be lost. And today the friends of Governor Cross are figuring how to advance him politically.

Ah, nothing comes to us too soon but sorrow.—Bailey.

Luzerne County Miners Are Idle

Every Glenn Alden Mine In Luzerne County Is Idle Today

TWENTY THOUSAND ARE OUT OF WORK

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Mar. 27.—Every Glenn Alden mine in Luzerne county was idle today as 20,000 miners stood pat on their demands with grievances against the coal company be adjusted and fair treatment be assured before they returned to work.

Feeling it useless to post work schedules, the coal company issued no operating orders to any of its collieries, and the county-wide mine strike apparently was headed for a standstill until the resolutions committee of the general grievance committee meets tomorrow to formulate an expression of the strikers' grievances and demands.

Seek Settlement

Thomas Davis, mediator of the federal department of labor who was sent here by secretary of labor Doak to offer his good offices in settling the walkout, indicated today he would make no attempt to reconcile the miners and operators.

until the resolutions committee reports.

Nub of the miners' grievance is that the coal company discharged old employees and replaced them with new men.

Serious operating difficulties and probable financial loss to the Glen Alden were foreseen today when it was learned the company had a demand for coal due to be met April 1. The drastic recession in production caused by the strike, was considered likely to place the Glen Alden serious "in the hole."

Yale Forced To Limit Freshmen

(International News Service)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Mar. 27. — Yale University, which for a long period has been spending $1,000,000 a month on new construction and has much more to spend in future months, is still unable to admit all who desire to be enrolled there.

Professor Robert N. Corwin, chairman of the Yale board of admissions has reported to President James R. Angell that many young men with good preparation have been turned away from Yale because of lack of facilities. In spite of a recent limitation of the freshman class, widely advertised, hundreds of youngsters still clamor for admission.

Yale is turning away candidates whose work at preparatory schools has been such that they have been compelled to take an extra year of study.

Police Probe Death Of Man

Death Of Man Resulting From Alleged Fight Is Investigated

(International News Service)

TARENTUM, Pa., Mar. 27.—State police today entered the investigation surrounding the death of John Fossio, 58, of Bagdad, who died in the Tarentum hospital of a fractured skull, received, according to police, during a fight in the victim's home last Sunday night.

Three men were being sought today, state police said, for questioning in the case. The trio was said to have visited Fossio's home last Sunday attacked the men after a violent argument.

Fossio was admitted to the hospital last Wednesday under the care of relatives.

Harrison Speaks On Basketball System Used At Westminster

Successful Coach Is Chief
Speaker At Y. M. C. A.
Banquet Event

Physical Department Members Gather And Enjoy Fine Program

Belief that basketball followers are increasing rapidly and that future spectators attending the sport will rival football crowds in numbers is held by Lawrence "Pop" Harrison, Westminster College basketball coach and former University of Iowa athlete who was principal speaker at the second annual Y. M. C. A. physical department banquet held in the association's dining hall last night.

Harrison traced the history of the game, pointed to its development in the West and Middle West states, and in Indiana, which he termed "the best basketball state in the Union," and painted future hopes for the sport.

The speaker, introduced by Henry T. MacNichols, director of the "Y" physical department, told of three distinct methods of play evolved in the leading collegiate play center of the country and explained how he employed all three to develop a team at Westminster College during the 1930-31 basketball season.

Westminster System
Telling about the particular system at Westminster, Harrison said: "At Westminster we used three distinct types of play. One was my defense in a five-man zone type of game similar to that tried out by Dr. 'Fog' Allen of the University of Kansas. The second type, was the offensive system, and we used the short pass, blocking game used by Dr. Meadwell of the University of Wisconsin. Then we used the fast break offense similar to that of the University of Purdue, invented by Ward Lambert."

How the game originated in 1900 when a boy swung a cat into a cistern hole was told by the speaker. At the beginning of this century James A. Neysmith, later of the University of Kansas tried to evict an infuriated cat from a backyard. He swung the feline quickly and hurled its body into the cistern.

"It was a bad day for the cat, but a great day for basketball," Harrison said. He declared a peach basket was basketball's first goal basket. And the initial basketball was very much like the volleyball ball used in the present day.

Later it was decided by Neysmith to plan on a regular court for competitive play. The game gained in interest and in 1901 the Eastern Intercollegiate Association took it up. But it was not until 1915 when a definite set of rules was in use throughout the country. In 1920 the game became so popular that the ordinary seating capacity of an ordinary court was not adequate to care for the huge crowds.

In 1924 there were only two large courts in the Western Conference. One was at the University of Iowa and the other at the University of Michigan. Since then increased seating capacity at courts has been found in practically every school in the country. And during the Western Conference games of the last few years the seating has been taxed to capacity.

The public's attitude toward basketball is exemplified by the interest in the Hoosier state, Harrison said, when 90,000 people attended a state-wide high school boys' basketball tournament recently.

"And still there are some who say the game is dying out," Harrison added.

"In spite of the dying type of game played to stall for time the game is becoming stronger. Basketball crowds will in future rival football crowds. This may be looking a little too far into the future, but I am convinced of it," Harrison said.

He declared the University of Pittsburgh has the leading eastern teams while west coast's best can be found at the University of Southern California.

In closing the visitor declared he liked the game for its keen competitive qualities and the opportunity it presents to get payers in close cooperation. The spirit of team play that will allow a five-man aggregation to work as one was praised by the speaker.

Lyon Speaks
George Lyon, member of the association's board of directors and chairman of the physical department committee spoke briefly on advantages to be found in the association and its asset to city life. He introduced Lew Harlan captain of the "Y" championship volleyball team and presented him with the Central West championship trophy. The award was won this year by the local volleyball players. It had been won by them three years straight.

R. L. Meermans, general secretary of the association, introduced by Lyon, in turn introduced the New Castle "Y" wrestlers who this season won the mat competition in the Central West district. Meermans told of the coming membership drive which begins April 7 and urged the assembled members of the physical department to help in the drive.

Richard "Dick" Johns had charge of the pep singing. Johns pleased the gathering with two vocal solos that brought applause. The invocation was delivered by Rev. G. S. Bennett of the First Christian church. Al Kane of the "Y" dormitory and Ed Taylor of the First M. E. church presented violin and piano solos.

Following the banquet the Church League teams their championship playoffs on the Y. M. C. A. floor.

FORESTRY RECORDS Show Least Rain
In Last 43 Years

Year 1930 Had Smallest Amount Of Rain For Past 43 Years

HARRISBURG, Mar. 27.—Precipitation records of Pennsylvania covering a period of 43 years show that the year 1930 had the least amount of precipitation of any year during that period, according to an investigation and survey conducted by Ralph H. Hosmer, engineer of hydrography of the Pennsylvania Water and Power Resources Board.

Secretary Lewis E. Jaley, of the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters, is chairman of the board.

Precipitation records for Pennsylvania were started in 1798, but general and systematic observations were not undertaken until 1887 under the direction of the Franklin Institute by authority of the Pennsylvania Legislature. There are at present 185 precipitation stations maintained in Pennsylvania, 120 of which are operated by the United States Weather Bureau, 45 by the Water and Power Resources Board, and 20 by private interests.

The mean annual precipitation for Pennsylvania from 1887 to 1930 inclusive was 42.3 inches. The maximum was reached in 1889, the year of the Johnstown flood, when it was 52.67 inches, and the minimum in 1930 when it was 28.82 inches. Another interesting phase of the 43-year record showed that the high and low years of precipitation were coincident with the stream flow of the Susquehanna River, as exemplified by the destructive high waters in 1889 and the unprecedented low flow in 1930.

The tendency for climatic conditions to average or adjust themselves to the same normal state is also shown. The mean annual temperature for the period from 1837 to 1910 was 49.9 degrees. This clearly shows that there is no conclusive evidence to the prevailing belief among many people that our climate is changing particularly so that our winters are not as severe as they were years ago, Hosmer said.

Yale Coaches Paid Less Than Teachers

(International News Service)
NEW HAVEN, Conn., Mar. 27.—Athletic coaches at Yale get no more pay than the university professors, according to Yale Alumni Weekly, which says:

"The present scale of Yale university salaries for full-time professors ranges from $6,500 to $9,000 with a few special cases at $10,000. No athletic coach at Yale receives over the normal professional maximum of $9,000, and only one receives that."

"The next highest is $8,000, and the other salaries scale down from that."

In the same issue Percival V. Bowden, a graduate of 1921, living in Buffalo, asks: "Why feel depressed because we bring a Michigan and a Notre Dame man into the athletic department? There was apparently none because we were bringing a Princeton and a Harvard man into the law school."

Bowden urged: "Let's drop provincialism and have our athletic policy on the basis proper for educated men."

Timely Reminders Issued By College

Timely reminders for rural residents are issued from State College school of agriculture as follows:

Exhibit Maple Syrup—Producers who wish to compete at the State Farm Show next year should save 3 or 4 gallons of their best maple syrup. Your county agent can give you the details regarding the classes for maple products.

Plant Ornamentals—Prune all broken or damaged roots before replanting trees or shrubs. Set the individual plants not more than 2 to 3 inches deeper than they originally stood in the nursery row.

Improve Apple Trees—Undesirable varieties of apples can be improved by grafting scions from good known varieties on them. Whip-grafting or tongue-grafting is recommended by Penn State fruit specialists for top-working young trees or for root or stock grafting.

Grow Early Vegetables—Proper ventilation and watering aid the growth of early vegetable plants.

Protection at night and ventilation in the daytime will keep the temperature at the right level. Watering should be done on only sunny mornings.

Protect Apiaries—Bees need protection from the cold spring winds. Locating the apiary near a woods or behind outbuildings will give natural protection. Artificial protection can be obtained by planting an evergreen hedge or by building a high board fence.

Grow Tomato Plants—The muslin-covered coldframe has provided growers of canning tomatoes an economical and satisfactory way to grow their own plants. Last year, 100,000 plants were grown this way in five demonstrations in Adams county. One grower produced his plants at a total cost of 80 cents a thousand, ready for the field on May 25.

Remember the Date—Reserve June 11 for a trip to State College. Farmers' Field Day will be held then.

chestra here to obtain finances which financed the legal studies of the couple at the University of Pittsburgh. He was graduated last June and passed his bar examination in July.

But Mrs. Wagner "flunked." So she tried again, and succeeded. She was notified of her success on Friday, the thirteenth.

Zerphey picked him up, then "took him for a ride" to a local squire, where Eckinger was arraigned for passing worthless checks, and ordered to make restitution.

Lackawanna Teachers Receiving Good Pay

(International News Service)
SCRANTON, Pa., Mar. 27.—School ma'ams in Lackawanna county are being paid regularly and the "ghost" will continue to walk at the regular time between now and June.

This was the information made public by K. H. Wendling, special agent for the Lackawanna Taxpayers' Association, after his attention had been called to the situation in Luzerne county where numerous school districts have found themselves financially embarrassed.

"Considering the present hard times and difficulty in getting taxes," said Wendling "our school districts have been doing well in the matter of paying their teachers."

Racing Champion To Visit New Castle

Billy Arnold Will Be At The Chambers Motor Co. Showroom On Monday

Billy Arnold, present world champion racing driver and winner of the last Indianapolis race, will be in New Castle, Monday, March 30th, with the Chrysler Imperial Eight roadster in which he established all open stock car records from one to five miles recognized by the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association. The speed tests were run in February on the sands of Daytona Beach.

Arnold, while in New Castle will be at the showroom of the Chambers Motor Company, local Chrysler distributors, 825 North Croton avenue.

Arnold and Harry Hartz, idol of racing fans for a decade, drove this roadster and an Imperial Eight sedan, which were selected, examined and declared strictly stock by representatives of the A. A. C. Contest Board, establishing twelve stock car records, all the recognized records from one kilometer to five miles in the Imperial Eight classification. A speed of 96½ miles per hour was attained during the runs.

Arnold's record for the five mile course stands as one of the outstanding bits of drama in the history of stock car speed trials. This record was set in the driving rain and with water covering the sands of the famous Florida racing course.

Setting out with these terrific handicaps, Arnold pounded five miles down the south course and, turning around, pounded back north over the same distance for an official record of 89.910 miles per hour, breaking the existing record by several miles per hour for the same distance, set on a board track under ideal driving conditions.

Unable to see during this gruelling dash down the beach, Arnold wandered into the incoming tide three times and, warned by the increasing spray thrown up by his car, pulled the wheel just in time to set the car back on its swirling course.

Following the record runs with the Chrysler cars at Daytona Beach, Harry Hartz returned to Los Angeles to groom his and Arnold's racing cars for the forthcoming 500 mile classic at Indianapolis Decoration Day.

Racing fans of New Castle are cordially invited by Arnold and the local Chrysler distributor to take a ride in the record-breaking roadster.

Build Model Hoover Dam For Tests

By RICHARD RANDOLPH
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

(International News Service)
DENVER, Mar. 27.—Engineers, seeking to solve the problems of stress and strain that will effect the gigantic Hoover dam across the Colorado river near Las Vegas, Nev., are building a model three feet high on which they may work out involved mathematical problems the solution of which will insure the safety of the dam.

Celluloid and plaster of paris are used in the model, which is being constructed in the engineering laboratories at the University of Colorado at Boulder. Engineers attached to the United States reclamation service are in charge of the work.

Work has been progressing on the model for several weeks. It is still far from completed. Every detail is being worked out to coincide with the concrete construction of the actual dam. Plaster and celluloid are used, according to the engineers in charge because concrete would not show a sufficient sensitivity.

The model dam is built layer by layer. Each layer of celluloid and plaster must be thoroughly hardened before the next layer is laid.

Once completed the model dam will be tested by means of mercury. The stress test is a complicated process and involves considerable mathematics. A quantity of mercury is placed in a rubber bag and set against the model. Water pressure is applied through a valve and the subsequent movements of the model are tested.

Materials used in building the model were tested six months before the model was begun. Specifications for the models are just as exacting as for the dam itself.

The celluloid and plaster model will follow the plans for the Hoover dam to the most minute detail. From its three feet in height engineers plan to judge what its 727 foot brother will do in time of flood.

"The model will not be tested to destruction," according to Ivan E. Houk, senior engineer in charge of technical studies.

A French judge decided to hold that American woman who killed her husband until she could prove she only did it in fun.—The Dayton Daily News.

Future Farmers May Win Prizes

HARRISBURG, Mar. 27.—The vocational division of the Department of Public Instruction has been advised that a Chapter Contest, open to local chartered chapters of the Future Farmers of America, will be conducted again this year. Prizes, totaling $1,000 and divided into $400, $300, $200, $100, respectively, will be awarded to the chapters finishing first, second, third, and fourth. Winning chapters will be selected on the basis of their programs of work and on accomplishment.

Each chapter must prepare a program of work and a report of accomplishments on which its ranking in the contest is to be judged. This report must be approved by the teacher of vocational agriculture in the community and sent to the State supervisor of vocational agriculture. He, in turn, will provide for the selection of the best three chapters in the State for consideration by a national committee in the final contest.

Co-operative activities, community service, leadership activities, earnings, and scholarship, are among the factors on which the chapters of the Future Farmers of America will be judged in the contest.

Competing chapters must submit their programs of work not later than April 1. The contest closes at midnight Thursday October 1.

Reward For Burke Is Placed At $101,000, Highest In History

Fred "Killer" Burke, Captured, Hunted Throughout Nation By Hundreds

Is Alleged To Have Killed Twenty-One Men—Nabbed Without Fight

(International News Service) ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Mar. 27.—Fred "Killer" Burke, sought throughout the nation as the killer of twenty-one men, was captured Thursday.

Burke, who admitted his identity, was surprised and captured without a shot being fired.

Five detectives surrounded the home of Burke's father-in-law, on a remote farm near Milan, Mo., and burst in upon him while he was fast asleep and overwhelmed him under the cover of guns.

In Solitary Cell
He was taken, handcuffed and manacled to this town and thrown into a solitary cell under redoubled guard to be held for Chicago authorities as one of the killers in the St. Valentine's Day massacre.

Burke probably was the most hunted criminal in the United States. All told rewards of $101,000 are upon his head and even the vengeance of rival gangs whose ranks his machine gun finger has riddled have sought him without avail.

He was caught "cold" by the detectives and although he made a wild spurt to grab his gun, sheathed in a holster on a bedside chair, he subsided quickly under the threat of the police saying:
"Well you got me."

In addition to being wanted as the machine gunner in the St. Valentine's Day massacre Burke, a graduate of the notorious "Egan Rats" of St. Louis, also was sought for the killing of Assistant Chief of Police Charles Skelly of St. Joseph, Michigan, for the assassination of Frankie Uale in New York and a score of others.

Hunted Many Months
The capture of Burke came about through the U. S. Secret Service in Chicago. Two months ago Chief of Police Earl M. Mathews of St. Joseph received word from the Secret Service that Burke was in the vicinity.

Chief Mathews kept detectives on the lookout for the killer and the dramatic capture early Thursday morning resulted.

Even without Burke's own admission as to his identity, there was no question about his being Burke "The Killer," B. T. Andrews, superintendent of identification of the Missouri police said.

The St. Joseph police squad which captured Burke took his fingerprints and they checked identically with the prints of the killer.

Burke carried $1,000 in cash in his clothing when arrested.

Tipped By Woman
While Secret Service men were given credit for the original tip on Burke's whereabouts it was disclosed that two women were the cause of his capture.

One of them is his wife, who has been living in Kansas City and the other a "Moll" whom he left behind in Chicago. It was the information from the "Moll" that Burke frequently visited his wife in Kansas City that led police to his remote hideout.

Two months, St. Joseph police knew Burke was using the farm as a "hideout" and had stationed a shadow there. Today the shadow reported Burke was in the house with his father-in-law Bailey Porter.

The police rushed in fast automobiles and the farm and it was 6 a. m. when they reached the hideout. Led by Chief John W. Lord, the police crept upon the farmhouse like a raiding squad going into N. Man's Land. The house was surrounded and at signal two detectives, one armed with a sub-machine gun—Burke's favorite weapon—crashed suddenly into the room where Burke was sleeping.

EVERY CONNECTICUT TOWN HAD ACCIDENT

(International News Service)

HARTFORD, Conn., Mar. 27.—For the first time in history every town in Connecticut had at least one motor vehicle accident in the year 1930 according to the annual report of the state motor vehicle department.

The little towns of Warren and Weston, which year before last, were free of accidents, had six and five accidents in 1930.

Of 169 towns in the state, 119 reported decreases in accidents, forty three had increases and seven the same totals as in 1929.

Board Plans To Plant Trout In Tested Streams

Spring Distribution Will Continue Until Opening Of Season

HARRISBURG, Mar. 27.—Numerous streams throughout the Commonwealth which are suitable for the planting of trout will be surveyed and stocked before the opening of the season, according to an announcement today by Commissioner of Fisheries O. M. Deibler.

Under the new program of distribution, the Board will distribute all of its own fish with its own equipment and personnel, and it will only stock those waters which are suitable for the species of fish requested. Commissioner Deibler has been attending on an average of four association meetings weekly throughout the Commonwealth getting acquainted with and placing before the sportsmen the new program, which was adopted some little time ago.

At the last meeting of the Board of Fish Commissioners, the Commonwealth was divided into four sections and capable men have been busily engaged in making a survey of the trout streams in every county of the Commonwealth. In this way the Board will have available information of a permanent character regarding every trout stream in Pennsylvania.

Drought Proof Streams
Only those streams which withstood the severe drought of 1930 will be considered for stocking and by confining its efforts to these streams it will be found that there will be much better fishing, Deibler believes.

The Board has shipped thousands of trout to waters in counties where surveys have been completed and it is hoped that several thousand additional can be distributed at least two weeks before the opening of the season which is April 15.

Associations and individuals have shown excellent co-operation in this work and it is hoped that when these men return to the counties to complete their surveys of the other waters that this same spirit will be manifested, Deibler said. When this survey is entirely completed covering all the waters of the Commonwealth the Board will have at its disposal a permanent list of suitable waters for stocking which will give the fishermen the information they have been seeking for many years.

Commissioner Deibler intends to compile the names of the trout streams which have been stocked under the new system of distribution as well as those stocked within the last six weeks. With this information the fishermen should be well informed as to the better known trout waters in sections where fish were planted. Deibler said.

Healthful Play Is Easiest Way To Stay Young

By ARTHUR A. MCGOVERN (Written Exclusively for and Copyright by International News Service, 1931)

NEW YORK, Mar. 27.—The one sure means of keeping from "growing up" is the modern drive of business cars leads more men and women into premature old age than any other factor, and if we would overcome this effect of our high-powered existence we must get some play into our lives.

Men who find themselves lacking the buoyancy with which they tackled problems a few years ago would do well to look into their daily schedule and see if the trouble does not lie in the fact that they are getting the "all work and no play" which made "Jack a dull boy."

I cannot, of course, tell you just what form this "play" will take, for every individual has some interest outside his business or profession which is his own pet hobby, but once you have found your particular outlet then play at it with all your might. It may be golf, perhaps it's baseball, or bridge, or even stamp collecting—but whatever it is, let it be for you a means of healthy mental stimulation.

Hobbies are important in the scheme of good health, for in them we can lose ourselves for a time at least, and in losing all thought of worry or anxiety, in shaking off the dignity which rides our shoulders during the day, we are shaking off the things that add to our depression, our grogginess and our age.

When the day's work is done, forget your troubles and seek in some form of recreation the relaxation which is so badly needed for physical and mental welfare. If you insist upon bringing your office worries home with you, you can look forward to sleepless nights, impaired appetite, nervousness, increased irritation and perhaps even a mental breakdown. If you want a long and successful life then, in addition to following your common sense rules of health, find a hobby and ride it!

NEW U. S. CITIZENS GIVEN RECOGNITION

son as he entered the auditorium of the school, and beheld at the back of the stage a large flag of the land we love, with the same flag of the United States placed most effectively about the stage; with large flags of Italy, Hungary and Greece placed in standards near the front. Across the front of the stage was a border of small flags of every nation.

At 7:30 Miss Eva Coulter, director of music at the school, and her orchestra, took their place in the pit and a half hour concert of music of varied kinds filled the auditorium as the audience gathered and took their places.

The new citizens, about thirty in number, gathered in the lobby and were greeted by members of the reception committee and registered.

Meeting Begins

At 8 p. m. the speakers took their places upon the stage, with Dr. C. C. Green, superintendent of the public schools, presiding. With the audience standing, two verses of "America" were sung, after which the invocation was asked by Rev. Oscar Woods, pastor of Bethany Lutheran church.

At this point the orchestra played a patriotic march; and down the aisle, headed by a huge silk flag of the United States, came the procession of new citizens, who were ushered to their places by the girls, who capably handled the audience as well.

The flag was presented and placed in a standard on the stage and all persons gave the salute and Dr. Green introduced Mayor William H. Coughlin, who, on behalf of the city, greeted the citizens who had so lately become one of us.

Robert Hartman, a student at Hickory Heights school, was then presented and read his essay on "Citizenship" which was the prize winner in a recent contest in the schools.

Andrew Biedka, a native of Poland, and then pleased the large audience with his rendition of "The Cossack" in the native tongue. His singing brought forth much applause and he responded to an encore.

Miss Mathilde Pizon, a native of Poland also, was then presented and gave Lincoln's Gettysburg address, and one would never have thought to hear her, that she has been in this country less than eight months. Her command of the English language was marvelous, and until coming here she knew not one word of English.

On behalf of the United Spanish War Veterans, who sponsor the Americanization school taught by Prof. James Hughes and Peter Grittle, Dr. Green welcomed the citizens.

Francis DeSanctis, a native of Italy, then gave a splendid solo, "Torna A Sorrento" accompanied by steel guitars. He responded to an encore with a second number.

Judge Chambers speaks. Judge James A. Chambers, of the Lawrence County Courts, was then presented by Dr. Green, and extended greetings to the citizens on behalf of the county court, congratulating them on the step they had taken.

"In becoming citizens of the United States you have attained the greatest privilege and greatest privileges that can come to any man or woman. Citizenship in the United States of America means more to a person than citizenship in any other nation in the world. This nation was founded upon individual liberty, freedom of rights and the pursuit of happiness for the individual, and no other nation in the world has been so dedicated; therefore all these privileges are yours," said the judge.

"This nation offers you the greatest privileges possible, but it also expects from you the greatest responsibility that rests upon any people of the world. This loyalty means more than the loyalty you have renounced; our government expects all the loyalty you gave your native country, and more; you not only are called upon for loyalty, obedience to the laws, the answer to arms, you are an integral part of the government now and the prosperity of the well being and success of the government is now upon your shoulders; you now become responsible for the kind of government we have and you become a worthy citizen only when you realize this."

Many Fail of Duty

"There are many born in this country who fail to realize this responsibility; but, this country has attained its success and ideals in proportion as its individual citizens have realized their responsibilities."

"Our country is not perfect; we have abuses and wrongs, as can daily be seen in the newspapers; the situations are not enviable; but whose fault is it? It is not altogether the fault of the persons in office, but it rests with the individual as in permitting such situations to arise and when every citizen realizes his responsibility and rights and demands rights and righteousness in the offices of the government, then right government follows."

"I want to impress upon you the greatness of your responsibilities as citizens of this great nation; but if you have become a citizen only for the advantages the country can offer you, you are not perfect citizens; but if you will now consider you are responsible for the kind of government we shall have and do your duty in all respects to try and bestow the government of which you are now a part, then you will be worthy citizens of this great republic."

He concluded by saying: "Liberty and justice for all are the dream of all true patriots and hoping and believing you will recognize your responsibilities, I congratulate you upon being citizens."

Miss Mary Przybylska, a Polish

young lady, then sang "Spring Song" which was warmly received. She responded with a short lifting encore.

Dr. McClure Speaks

Dr. Walter E. McClure, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, was then introduced and greeted the new citizens.

"You have made many far-reaching decisions in the few years just gone by; first your decision was to go to this native country, breaking the home ties, and establishing yourself in a strange land; crossing the vast ocean and settling down in a place where you were unknown. Then after a while came the decision to be one of the citizens of the country you had adopted as your home; you studied our laws, attended our Americanization school and now have become citizens of this great land of ours. Of course you will always love the country of your birth, and we want you to do this, but now your allegiance is to the land of your adoption; the country that protects you, where you earn your living and have your home."

"We are glad for this and I was thinking of what the country might offer you, but after listening to the talent you have brought to us, I feel that you might have much to offer to the United States in the way of ability, talent and training and you will make this contribution."

"You have come to the United States for various reasons, and among them are that you have recognized the natural resources of this land, which is wealthiest in the world in this respect; you have recognized that the settlers of this country came for a good purpose; you have also seen the educational advantages, where your children can receive the best in the world along this line; you have recognized the laws that make for freedom of the individual."

"In recognizing the laws that are for the freedom of the people and the individual, you as citizens of the United States must also recognize that in order to enjoy the liberty of this country, you must know how to live and obey the laws; for your liberty is liberty just insofar as you live within the laws of the country of which you are now a part."

"You have religious liberty and freedom, you can include your beliefs, build churches for those of the same faith and you are molested in no way. You must aid in the conservation of our natural resources, and must contribute something to the wealth and the life of our nation, and knowing that you will carry out to the best of your ability your part of carrying on this great nation of ours, I now welcome you into this county and community as citizens."

Skit Presented

A skit "A Friend in Need," which presented forcibly the work of the International Institute in aiding the aliens in our country to get the aid they need in looking up relatives, settling themselves, learning the language, studying the laws and finally becoming citizens, was given by Catherine Babiarz, Angelina Rizzo, Mary Kruppa, three Polish girls, and Evangelia Yialosis of Greek nativity.

Mrs. Howard M. Kirk, who has acted as general chairman in preparing the way for this demonstration, then presented each of the new citizens with a small silk American flag, after which Rev. John Ruggiero, pastor of the Italian Methodist church, pronounced the benediction.

Of the 92 citizens admitted during 1930 there were over 30 present at the Thursday evening recognition service, but letters had been received from many regretting that they could not be present. It was found that one of the men, Frank Cagnatti, a cement worker well known about the county, had died since he had been received as a citizen. Great credit is due the capable committees that worked so untiringly that this service should surpass any the institute has ever held and it was with a feeling that each one had done his share in extending the hand of fellowship to these new citizens that the audience filed out of the school building at the close of the program.

Rev. A. M. Riggio Addresses Italians

"The Way to the Father" was the subject on which Rev. A. M. D. Riggio of Newark, N. J., addressed the assemblage in the Italian Methodist church Thursday evening.

The attendance was the largest of the week and the spiritual touch was felt in the meeting and also in the prayer service, which was held in the "upper room" preceding the preaching. Before and during the song service Thursday evening prayers were made by those present and as the prayers were made, a candle was lit, symbolizing the searching of the light.

"Wise As A Serpent" will be the subject of this evening's sermon at 7:30 and at 8:30 there will be a meeting especially for the young people of the congregation. This service will be in English.

Metal clips, like hat clips, are adopted this season for dress fastenings.

Capt. R. Becker Goes To Michigan After English Trip

The congregation of St. Andrew's Episcopal church has been disappointed in that the Church Army Board has been unable to grant Bishop Ward's request that Capt. Robert Becker be allowed to remain in this parish until January, 1932.

Capt. Becker, who has been in charge of St. Andrew's church, this city, and St. Luke's Ellwood City, the past several months, will leave Monday, April 6, for Toronto, Canada, where he will attend the conference of the combined forces of the Canadian and American Church Armies.

He will then go to England, where he will attend a Church Army conference, and upon his return, some time in June, he will attend the Wellesly and Gambier Church conferences; after which he will assume duties in Michigan, taking up work in the mid-western column, working westward to Denver, Colo., where the general convention of the Episcopal church will be held this year, in the month of September.

History repeats itself. And many a man now making millions by risking jail will eventually live in the family records as an aristocratic ancestor.

Annual Concert Given Thursday At Senior High

Band And Orchestra Of New Castle High School Give Splendid Revue
Last Night

Hundred Fifty Students Take Part In Presentation Of Instrumental Department

Thursday night the orchestra and band of New Castle senior high school presented their annual concert in the school auditorium. Judging from the thunderous applause coming from the audience of several hundred people, Prof. Joe Replogle's instrumental department this year has not only measured up to expectations but has gone beyond into the realm of perfection.

Seven selections were played by the 71-piece orchestra and four selections were played by the band, which consists of 82 instruments. Each player put all he had into the concert and as a result it was in all probability the most splendid presentation of musical accomplishment ever to be given at New Castle's high school.

If the soloists had given encores in answer to the great applause of the audience, they would not have been allowed to stop for many hours. A noteworthy performance was given by Dominick Pecano, with the violin. The cello solo by Victor Rice, clarinet solo by Dante DiThomas, xylophone solo by Ruth Phillips, trombone solo by Henry Wilkison and trumpet solo by Arthur Gorman were great and these young people most certainly have a great future before them in the musical world.

Also features of the evening were the brass and string quartets. Arthur Gorman, Fred Warner, Don Anderson and Henry Wilkison composed the quartet of brass instruments, players and Dominick Pecano, Frank Noga, Victor Rice and Michael Gennaula were responsible for the success of the string quartet.

Great credit for last night's splendid concert goes to Prof. Replogle, who during the past several years has shown himself to be a director of great ability. New Castle senior high school is fortunate in having such a competent man in charge of the instrumental department.

If the band and orchestra perform in the annual spring competition of school of northwestern Pennsylvania anything like they performed last night, they will undoubtedly bring home some splendid trophies for their alma mater.

Crazy Clock Is Finally Fixed

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Mar. 27.—In the North, in the South, in the East and the West all was confusion.

For five days chaos reigned and ordinarily serene citizens were rebellious and indignant. Some of them were even outraged.

For on each face of a four-sided clock in the tower of the North Side Carnegie library, a different and inaccurate time was displayed.

Hundreds who set their timepieces daily by the library clock were thrown off schedule by the curious antics of the clock. Some of the hands raced madly about the dials in about two hours flat. They rested for indeterminate periods, exhausted by the race.

To quell the rising tide of bewilderment and indignation, library officials finally took action.

UMBRELLA LOST FOR ONE YEAR IS RETURNED

(International News Service)
NORRISTOWN, Pa., Mar. 27.—The story of the man who lost an umbrella is commonplace.

But John Seller, resident here, recovered one and that just about fills the definition of news.

To make it better, the umbrella had been missing for more than a year. Inscribed with Seller's name and address, the rain stick was found on a trolley car and returned to him.

Wins Bet, Gets Wet In Accepting Dare

(International News Service)
MILLERSBURG, Pa., Mar. 27.—Edgar Reed is no man to take a dare.

Reed and some companions were walking along the Susquehanna river bank here. Someone suggested it would make unpleasant swimming. Reed demurred. His companions dared him to the feat.

Pausing not to doff clothes, Reed plunged in, swam 110 feet upstream and back, collected $2.50 from his companions, hurried home for dry clothes.

Duray, Speed King, Enters Auto Classic

(International News Service)
INDIANAPOLIS, Mar. 27.—Leon Duray, Hercules of speed and one of the oddest driving stars in automobile racing, is returning to the track this year after a year's retirement.

Duray now is building a team of cars in Los Angeles which he will soon bring here to test for the international 500-mile race which will be held in May.

Holding the record for one whirl around the two and one-half mile speed oval and clutching the world's mark for a single loop of any speedway, Duray is rated one of the most sensational space demolishers of all time. He once turned the Indianapolis track at a gait of 124.018 miles an hour.

Urges Physical Treatment For Mental Disorder

(International News Service)
DURHAM, N. C., Mar. 27.—Treatment of the manic-depressive psychosis should be physical rather than mental or psychological, according to Professor Helge Lundholm, associate professor of psychology at Duke university.

Professor Lundholm, who has distinguished himself in research of mental and nervous diseases since he came to this country 10 years ago from Sweden, began his observations in manic-depressive psychosis several years ago at McLean hospital in Massachusetts.

The Duke professor discusses the mental disorder, its causes, symptoms and treatments in the first of a series of monographs being issued by the Duke university press.

A physiological treatment is a natural step in that the disease is caused, Professor Lundholm maintains, by a toxic disorder of the general nature of a depressant drug. The poison may be a fatigue product of metabolism, he states, or it may be a product together with some chemical, yet unknown, developing within the body.

Abundant evidence for the toxic disorder theory is found, the psychologist holds, who explains that the symptoms of the psychosis are dependent upon a general disintegration of the personality. This disintegration is, in turn, due to the general dissociation of the highest level of the nervous system by a depressant poison.

The toxin produces disorder only in persons of certain characteristics, Professor Lundholm says. He thinks the characteristics have a constitutional basis, one of which is the E-disposition, and the other the cycloid. In the case of the E-disposition the patient has pronounced egotistic as contrasted with altruistic sentiments. The other inborn disposition, the cycloid, is marked by the swinging, even during normal health, between prolonged moods of elation and depression.

PRESERVE HISTORIC FLAG
(International News Service)
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Mar. 27.—A small United States flag carried by Admiral Richard E. Byrd in the airplane "Floyd Bennett" on Nov.

28-29, 1929, when he made his historic flight over the South Pole has been received here by Charles Edward Thomas, editor of the Delta quarterly publication of the Sigma Nu College Fraternity. The flag was sent to Thomas by Dr. Francis Dana Coman, medical director of the antarctic expedition who recently has been featured in the Delta. Dr. Coman is at John Hopkins University in Baltimore doing research work as a result of his studies in the antarctic regions.

CAKE HAD 101 CANDLES
(International News Service)
NORWALK, Conn., Mar. 27.—Mrs. Dorothea Englehardt has passed her 101st birthday. She celebrated her birthday by cutting a cake to distribute among four generations of her family, and lamented that conditions were so bad outside that she couldn't get in her daily walk of at least a mile.

Costly To Cook Eggs By Radio

(International News Service)
PARIS, Mar. 27.—Now it is cooking by air—not cute kitchen concoctions from your favorite broadcaster but real wave lengths which wrap themselves around a side of beef and roast it.

Home-cooking will be a misnomer in the future for madame will have it done by wireless while she is miles away from her own stove.

It is practical but costly, today, to boil a three-minute egg by wireless. Dr. Jean Seidmann told the Academy of Science, provided, of course, you can get to the egg soon enough after it has been boiled.

A BOY'S DREAM REALIZED

WHEN I was a boy selling newspapers on the streets here in New Castle and roaming the hills, I always found time to go down to my father's market, and say, how I wished that some day I would be able to have a market which would enable me to serve my friends quality things to eat under the most sanitary conditions. Two weeks ago we opened our new market at 20 North Mill St. and our friends have given us a royal reception.

Billy Burrows says he is pleased to meet so many of his friends at our new market.

That good old home-made potato bread, pies and cakes, direct from our ovens to you.

Thursday morning at 6 a. m. I was up and on the job. I was the first at the packing house when the refrigerator car was spotted at the platform. Being first, I was able to get my pick of the finest car of corn fed steers I have seen in a long time. Come to our market tomorrow and get a piece of this choice beef. "When better meat is raised, we'll have it."

Full line of fresh fruits and vegetables and quality groceries.

Crusade Starts To Eliminate "Stuffed Flats"

HARRISBURG, Mar. 27.—Two prosecutions in Philadelphia have resulted from the Department of Labor and Industry's crusade against

"stuffed flats" in that city it was announced today by Dr. A. M. Northrup, secretary of Labor and Industry. "Stuffed flats" are described as apartments where resident dealers, operating from a number of different addresses, offer furniture under the guise of a bona fide householder sacrificing such articles under distressed circumstances.

By direction of Dr. Northrup the defendants were charged with violation of the laws of Pennsylvania in that they were offering for sale furnishings and bedding that did not have attached tags describing the filling material, also that the state stamp was not affixed to each article. Upon this information, made by an inspector of the Department of Labor and Industry Louis Ginsburg was fined $50 and David Foland was fined $50 by Magistrate Fahnestock.

SEVENTH WARD NEWS

Auxiliary Meets On Thursday Afternoon

Members Of Auxiliary To B. O. L. E. Plans Tureen Dinner For April 9

A pleasant meeting was enjoyed Thursday afternoon by members of the Grand International Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers in the City building.

Many members of the organization were present and took part in the routine business and the planning of several lodge events of the future. They discussed the school of instruction which is to be held at Hazelwood on April 16 and a number of the local women are planning to attend.

The next meeting will be preceded by a tureen dinner at noon, on Thursday, April 9. After dinner the business meeting will take place and then will follow the initiation of candidates.

Card Party Is Thursday Event

A card party was enjoyed by the members of the Mabel Wilson lodge No. 567, auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Thursday afternoon, in Malta hall, and the regular semi-monthly meeting of the lodge was conducted in the evening. Both meetings were well attended.

Prizes for 500 were awarded to Mrs. Daniel and to Mrs. Brown and bridge high scores were won by Mrs. J. J. Horan and Mrs. J. W. Wilson. Plans were made for another card party to be held April 2, in the afternoon.

The next regular meeting will take place Thursday, April 9.

Blue Star Club Meets April 11

Members of the children's Blue Star club of the Mahoningtown branch library will meet at 10 o'clock in the morning of Saturday, April 11, in the library building on Wabash avenue, according to announcement by Mrs. Ray Johnson, branch librarian.

Miss Alice Joyce, children's librarian, will be in charge of the meeting and a number of interesting things are planned. There are near 40 members in this library club.

P. R. R. FORCES

Nearly three-quarters of a million dollars a day are paid out in wages to Pennsylvania railroad employees, figures just compiled at the company's general offices in Philadelphia reveal. The January payroll of the system approximated $22,000,000.

The Pennsylvania furnishes employment to more than 61,000 persons in some 400 different occupations. Several thousand women are numbered among the employees.

AUTO HITS DOG

Officer Clarence Campbell was called to Lafayette street Thursday to shoot a dog whose back had been broken when hit by a passing automobile.

It was a German police dog and its ownership is unknown.

TO LEAVE CITY

Mrs. E. V. Broome will move in the near future from Cherry street to Buffalo, Ohio.

VISIT YOUNGSTOWN

James Piccaro, Carl Matteo and Pete Cardella, of seventh ward, spent Thursday evening in Youngstown, Ohio, where they attended a prize fight.

HOME FROM COLLEGE

MOTHER IS ILL

Millard Chwek, of Cherry street, is leaving this evening for Harland, Kentucky, where he has been called on account of the illness of his mother.

PROGRAM REHEARSAL

All who will take part in the Easter program of the Madison Avenue Christian church will meet Saturday evening at 5 o'clock for a rehearsal.

REPORTED ILL

Thomas Smith, of 24 1/2 North Liberty street, is reported confined to his home by illness.

New Books At Local Library

Several New Books For Adults And Children Brought To Branch Library Thursday

New books brought to the Mahoningtown branch of the New Castle free public library Thursday include the following:

Lamp of Fate, Moon Out of Reach, by Pedler; Everlasting Whisper, by Gregory; Two Gunman, by Seltzer; Sintram and His Companion, by La Motte; for adult readers and the following books for children: Merry Pilgrimage by Charlemagne; Son of Kai, by Beston; Tortoise and the Geese, by Bidpai; Soldier Boy by LeFevre.

These books may be borrowed from the library on the next library day, Monday.

PROGRAM TODAY

Students of Mahoning school are having an assembly program in their auditorium today. The programs for assembly are usually presented on Thursdays but was postponed until today because of this being the last day of school until after Easter.

VACATION HERE

Harold Guy, a student of Pitt University, will spend his Easter vacation period at the home of his parents, here.

AMAZON MEETING

All is ready for the big meeting of all the county Knights of Pythias lodges, to be held Monday evening at the hall of the Amazon lodge, Cherry street.

This will also be a celebration of the organization anniversary of the Amazon lodge.

Among the speakers of the evening will be H. D. Hochler. All lodges of the county will be guests, at this second county meeting.

EXAMINES TELEGRAPHERS

P. J. O'Leary, of Akron, Ohio, examiner for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, was here on Thursday for the purpose of conducting a meeting and examining telegraphers. Telegraphers were examined with the official book of rules.

EXTRA COACHES

The eleven coaches standing Thursday on the Pennsylvania railroad tracks were those used several nights ago in a special train to the basketball game from Farrell to Pittsburgh.

The coaches are being moved out of here one by one, hitched on passenger trains which need them.

Card Of Thanks

We extend our sincere thanks to all friends and neighbors for the sympathy and help rendered, also for flowers, in our recent bereavement.

MR. AND MRS. C. L. VASSEUR.

Breed Bigger Trout Under New Method

(International News Service)
BOULDER, Colo., Mar. 27.—Something new in the line of fish culture is to be tried by the Boulder Fish and Game Club this year. When the club receives its allotment of 50,000 mountain trout this spring, it will retain them in ponds for two years. They will then be released into the streams of Boulder county, having attained a size of from 13 to 16 inches by that time. It is estimated that the present method of releasing fingerling trout results in a loss of 95 per cent of the fish.

Wampum Man Adds Latest To School Book Collection

Booher Presents Ancient "Calculator" Of 1823; Contains Aphorisms, Rules

"The Western Calculator." Have you ever heard of it? It's the latest old-time school book to be added to the interesting collection sponsored by a committee from the school administration building. The volume was presented by N. H. Booher of Wampum. It belonged to Foster Booher, an uncle of N. H. Booher's father. Foster Booher attended the Erving school in Shenango township.

It was printed in 1823, 11 years before the founding of the public school system of Pennsylvania.

At the beginning of the book, one page is given to a list of aphorisms which are intended to produce in the prospective pupil the right state of mind for the successful study of arithmetic. The following are samples:

"Knowledge is the chief distinction between wise men and fools; between the philosopher and the savage."

"The common and necessary transactions of business cannot be conducted with profit or honesty, without the knowledge of arithmetic. He who is ignorant of this science must often be the dupe of knaves, and pay dear for his ignorance."

"Banish from your mind, idleness and sloth, frivolity and trifling; they are the great enemies of improvement."

"Make study your inclination and delight; set your hearts upon knowledge."

"Accustom your mind to investigation and reflection; determine to understand everything as you go along."

"Commit every rule accurately to memory, and never rest satisfied until you can apply it."

At the end of the book is a list of examination questions intended to test the pupils' knowledge of the theory of arithmetic. The following are some samples:

What is tare and tret?

What is a vulgar fraction?

What are duo-decimals?

What is meant by a single fellowship?

How many changes can be made on the 26 letters of the alphabet?

The answer is 403,291,461,126,605,635,584,000,000.

Required a number, from which if 7 be subtracted, and the remainder be divided by 8, and the quotient be multiplied by 5, and 4 added to the product, the square root of the sum extracted, and three-fourths of that root cubed, and the cube divided by 9, the last quotient be 24. The answer was 103.

On those were the good old days when pupils were really taught useful arithmetic—arithmetic that made brains grow where there were no brains before. The good old days when you could get teachers for seven dollars a month!

Largest Armored Auto To Protect Cargo Of Nickels

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Mar. 27.—The largest armored automobile ever built soon will be on the streets of New York devoted exclusively to the carting of the lowly nickel.

It is to be a two and a half ton truck operated by the Third Avenue Railway Company. It will be used to carry nickels from railway stations to banks.

The great size of the truck is necessary not for added protection to the nickels, but because a few thousand dollars worth weigh so much that an ordinary truck cannot carry them. Two and a half tons of them would amount to about $20,000.

The railway collects 300,000,000 nickels every year.

Yale Seeks Solution Of Chapel Problem

(International News Service)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Mar. 27.—The chapel problem has popped up again at Yale. Ever since various members of the class of 1926 campaigned to do away with compulsory chapel for members of Yale college, (Sheff students having been exempt from attending) chapel at Yale has been under fire from various angles. And now chapel is down to a definite test with services being held at 6:45 p. m. daily to determine if enough students will attend at that hour since they fail to show up for a morning service at 10:45.

If the vesper plan is successful, there will be no more morning services except on Sunday. If the plan fails, then it is possible Yale may restore compulsory service.

Rev. A. C. Noble, college pastor, adopted the vesper plan when a student publication assailed Yale's efforts at religious services. Promptly Yale Daily News declared the plan wouldn't work.

To Toll Bell For Lost Frisco Mariners

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 27.—The tolling of a bell on the floor of San Francisco's maritime mart in the Merchant's Exchange building will mark the passing of mariners who have left this seaport to return no more.

The bell was presented by a ship-building corporation with these words:

"And so we institute this fine custom here in this city by the Golden Gate, whose ships sail to the ports of the other world—having in our hearts a memory of those who have gone down to the grottoes of the deep in the loyal performance of their duty; and showing in this public manner that we do not forget them."

Lloyd's in London has a ship's bell that tolls only when some British ship has met disaster.

Girl's Life Filled With Number "13"

(International News Service)

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Mar. 27.—Vivian T. Snyder's life is filled with the figure "13" and a host of complicating situations in which it has involved the young miss.

Vivian celebrated her thirteenth birthday on Friday, March 13. Mathematicians claimed a record for Vivian when it was discovered that she was born on a Friday, the thirteenth, just thirteen years ago. She tips the scales at a flat 113. There are thirteen letters in Vivian's name and the same number in the name of the physician, Dr. Edgar T. Stadler, who officiated at Vivian's birth.

And Vivian's father, John A. Snyder, is principal of a high school that boasts an enrollment of 1,300 children.

EDENBURG

TEMPERANCE MEETING

The Christian Women's Temperance Union held a meeting in the Christian church on Wednesday evening with four members and two visitors present. Miss Margaret Walker of Pulaski was present and gave a very interesting talk on the work of the organization.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Laura Coates was the honor guest when her children and their families gathered at her home on Wednesday evening surprise fashion in honor of her birthday. At six o'clock a sumptuous dinner was served the center piece for the table being a large birthday cake with candles on.

EDENBURG NOTES

Bob Hammers received a message informing him that his cousin Miss Peg Kelly of New Castle was seriously ill at her home.

Mrs. Lillian Deprona and children are visiting friends in Ellwood City. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sheely and children of New Middletown, Ohio visited her sister Mrs. Bob Hammers Sunday.

J. W. Ringer of New Castle was a business caller in town Tuesday. The infant child of Bob Hammers is quite improved at this writing.

"I've Found the Right Medicine Now," Says This New Castle Man

Highly Pleased Over Results Derived Through Using Nu-Erb —"Entire Health Improved," He Says

"After suffering for two years from stomach troubles, I have at last found the right medicine," says Mr. Patrick J. McGurk, 46 Bluff St., New Castle, Pa. "My stomach was in such bad shape that gas formed in large quantities after every meal and I suffered severe pains of indigestion. I was a chronic victim to constipation. I slept poorly at night and my entire system seemed to be rundown. It was not long after I began using Nu-Erb, that I felt better and now after only a couple weeks, I am no longer troubled with indigestion or gas, although I eat just about anything I like. My appetite has improved. My bowels move regularly every day. I sleep soundly at night and I have regained my lost strength and energy. I am pleased to report this great improvement in my health and naturally I am glad to add my endorsement to Nu-Erb."

THE NU-ERB MAN

Nu-Erb is made from the pure liquid extracts of twelve herbs, roots, barks and leaves and acts on the vital organs of the human body in a natural way causing them to lay aside their sluggishness and perform their work as nature intended. It contains no narcotics, calomel, mercury or any other harmful or injurious drugs.

Eckerd's Cut Rate Store, is the only place in New Castle where Nu-Erb may be purchased. Go see the Nu-Erb man now located there and let him explain to you the merits of this remarkable medicine.

Students Start Spring Recess

Westminster College Vacation Began At Noon For More Than Week

COLLEGE CAMPUS NEARLY DESERTED

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Mar. 27.—Spring recess started today at noon at Westminster College. Many students left town by bus, taxi, and private automobile so that the college campus was practically deserted at 1:30 this afternoon. A number of students remained in town because of the Delta Phi Sigma and Theta Upsilon Omega dinner-dances scheduled for tonight.

The recess extends until Monday, April 6 at 4:30 p. m. Classes will resume on Tuesday, April 7. Thus the collegians will have almost two weeks of vacation at home. Following the return of the student body on April 6, there will be but two months of college left for the year.

Faculty members as well as students left here today for their homes. Iowa, Michigan, Texas, Indiana, and New York are some of the states where professors and instructors will spend the vacation period.

Hosanna To The Son Of David

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Whoever exalteth himself shall be abased; and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted.—Luke 14:11.

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

This Quarterly Review Lesson falling as it does on Palm Sunday, suggests the joyous shout of the crowds that attended our Lord in his triumphal entry into Jerusalem that first Palm Sunday: "Hosanna to the Son of David; blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord: hosanna in the highest." We might well listen again to each of the lessons of the past three months and then let our response be: "Hosanna to the Son of David!"

Hosanna For His Birth

Lessons 1 to 3 record the story of the wondrous events that preceded and attended the birth of our Lord; the heavenly visitants who heralded the birth of John the Baptist whose ministry was to prepare the way for our Lord's; our Lord's own miraculous birth, making him not only David's son, but also David's id's Lord; his dawning consciousness of his Messiahship, which is evident in his words to his mother in the temple at the early age of twelve. "Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business?" and John's remarkable ministry as the King's herald preparing the King's highway into repentant hearts. To all this we respond, "Hosanna to the Son of David; blessed is he that cometh."

Hosanna To His Sinlessness

Lesson 4 on his Temptation revealing his complete victory over Satan at every point brings more Hosannas from our hearts. For here we learn of his sinlessness. Where men failed he triumphed gloriously and his victory becomes ours.

Hosanna To The Good Physician

As in lesson 5, Luke the physician leads us in the steps of Jesus, the Good Physician, making his daily rounds among the sick and afflicted, and we see him rebuking all manner of disease, casting out evil spirits and cleansing lepers, we realize that his spirit still abides in every free clinic and Christian hospital throughout the world, and again we shout, "Hosanna to the Son of David."

As lesson 6 presents him as the Ideal Teacher of the ages, enunciating the marvelous truths embodied in his Sermon on the Mount, we feel the supreme authority of the truth he not only taught but lived so perfectly, and we shout, "Hosanna to the Son of David as incarnate truth."

Hosanna to the Friend Of Sinners.

As lesson 7 presents him as the Friend of Sinners and we hear his gracious words of absolution and peace to the woman that was a sinner, and realize that we, too, like that woman, are debtors who have had our debt cancelled, we cry out again, "Hosanna to this Friend of Sinners; blessed is he that cometh with such grace."

As lesson 8 presents him to us as the Sower of Good Seed of the Word and warns us again that word, or shallow and superficial or divided with the world, we learn for receptive and fruitful hearts and thus cry out our "Hosannas."

More Than Hosannas
But as the lessons go on, and we hear the Master's call for laborers for the fields white unto harvest, we realize that we must do more than shout "Hosannas." There are nations to be evangelized, and he commissions us to do it. Good Samaritans are needed to bind up the wounds of a world that needs the spirit of those who will serve God and their neighbor in love. These are the "Hosannas" that truly satisfy and glorify him that cometh in the name of the Lord this happy Palm Sunday. Such "Hosannas" embodied in life will not turn to "crucifix" between Palm Sunday and Good Friday as did those of the first Palm Sunday.

France Planning Counter-Weapon

Proposal Aiming At Economic Isolation Of Germany-Austria Made

ACTION PLANNED IF PACT IS MADE

(International News Service) PARIS, Mar. 27.—A proposal aiming at the economic isolation of Germany and Austria, in the event their trade accord is executed, was before the Chamber of Deputies today.

The French counter-weapon was received in the Chamber in the form of a resolution adopted by the tariff committee, urging the government to oppose energetically and by all means possible the consummation of the Austro-German trade agreement.

In the event negotiations against the proposed Austro-German customs union fail, the resolution suggested erection of high tariff barriers against the two nations and nullification of all economic treaties in force between France, Germany and Austria.

Expanding on its proposal for isolation of the two contracting countries, the resolution advocated a customs union of all European nations with the exception of Germany and Austria.

In the meantime it was understood that British and French officials were determined to submit the projected trade accord to the May meeting of the League of Nations to secure judgment on its legality in relation to 1922 Geneva pact under which France, Italy and Czechoslovakia guaranteed a large loan to Austria on condition that the latter nation would not surrender her sovereignty in any respect.

collapse of the dam gouted into the hillside and piled dirt three and four feet deep along the rocky banks.

Henry Inger of Glendale, who has prospected off and on for a quarter of a century, found the pay streak. He made a partner of his neighbor, Gould Pickens.

Waters of the creek are turned into a channel of their own making, at the end of which is a sluice box built with a wooden gate. On the floor of the box are cross strips of wood, a "Hungarian raffle," Henry calls it.

Into this sluice Pickens dumps a barrow-load of dirt and rock, and opens the gate. A stream of water rushes through, washing away the rock and dirt. Tiny specks of gold catch in the raffle. Pickens picks them out with tweezers and drops them into a bottle.

Horses Of Famed French Marshals Back In Service

Unable To Find Trace Of Spirited Animal Of Foch

PARIS, Mar. 27.—There is plenty of action in the life of an army horse, but very little sentiment.

Watch, the beautiful bay mare, and Spider, a nervous, fine-legged animal, which were the particular mounts of Marshals Joffre and Foch, the horses they rode under the Arc de Triomphe to celebrate victory in 1919, and which later marched behind their coffins, have been turned back to the army.

There is already no trace of Spider, although the Foch family had planned at one time to pension the fine animal and let him finish his life on their farm in Brittany. Immediately after the Foch funeral, the horse was turned back to the remount service and assigned to other army duties.

The Ministry of War admits that today no one knows exactly where the Foch mount is. The favorite mount of Joffre is still in Paris, but transferred on the books to the service of the general staff. In a short time another officer will be riding her, but soon after she will be over age and then may be sold for meat to the horse butchers of Paris, or to a drayman.

Witch is already well along toward the age of sale. When Joffre was well, he weighed over 200 pounds, and Witch shows the effect of carrying such weight. Her hind legs are shaky, but when she walked behind the coffin of the Marshal, she was a majestic animal, covered entirely with a black pall.

Horse Wins Again For Faithful Trainer

(International News Service) DONCASTER, Eng., Mar. 27.—Madcap, a veteran steeplechaser, has won his last race. He would have won it—but death came too soon.

A few years ago Madcap ran all races like a champion. His owner ordered him to be shot. The death warrant order was overheard by a trainer who begged for the horse's life.

The request was granted and as though to show his gratitude Madcap then won the majority of his races.

In his last race he collapsed at the winning post, beaten only by a short head. He was placed second.

GET PROPER TOOLS FOR SUCCESSFUL GARDENING

You can't garden easily and successfully without the proper tools. Pictured here are some of the modern implements that seed houses show for the aid of the up-to-date gardener. All sorts of cute little tools are manufactured to aid the tiller of the soil, amateur or professional. Above, 1, is a handy and very pretty basket; another basket, 2, right; 3, three medium length tools for transplanting; 4, French watering pot; 5, set of five tools with 18-inch handles, hoe, fork, rake, spade, weed puller; 6, set of three tools with heart-shaped hoe; 7, earthenware pans for starting seedlings in the house; 8, flower scissors, two strong gardening knives and wood cutting pruning shears.

Baby Dolls Frolic At Their Own Convention

Girl Reserve Club Of Franklin Junior High School Put On Baby Doll Show

It all took place in the cafeteria of the Benjamin Franklin junior high school. It was the idea of the Girl Reserve club of the school. But even they were surprised and awed at the wonderful event it turned out to be.

It isn't very often that baby dolls have a show all their own. But they performed like veterans. Didn't do much, except smile and behave. They didn't say "mama" unless spoken to. And they looked so delicately lovely in their neatly pressed Sunday duds and Easter bonnets.

No wonder their owners, the Girl Reserves, were very proud of them. No wonder the baby doll convention was one of the biggest successes ever staged by the Girl Reserve club of Benjamin Franklin junior high.

When the clock struck 3:45 Thursday afternoon the cafeteria doors were thrown open to the waiting public. The 64 babies put on their most pleasing expressions, quickly got into position, and the show was on. Up and down the aisles the public walked, stopping in front of each doll with words of admiration and delight.

The dollies blinked coquettishly, several ventured a cheerful little "mamma" and one or two actually got up and took a couple of steps!

Then the judges walked in (Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Burton, Miss Grace Lowers, Mrs. W. J. Caldwell and Miss Webster) and looked over each one carefully. They finally made their decisions on the most beautiful, cutest, oddest, etc. However, it was no easy job, because all of the dolls were so lovely, so unique and nice mannered. And they weren't jealous when the most beautiful doll was chosen. They were glad because this was their show, their day, and their recognition, after centuries of being in the background.

There was a tiny jointed doll from Russia, German dancing dolls, a balloonish doll that walked, a porcelain doll 41 years old, a little French Apache.

This afternoon during assembly period in the Benjamin Franklin junior high school, Miss Martha Coulter, president of the Girl Reserve Club, announced the decision of the judges and awarded prizes to the owners.

The most beautiful doll—a charming girl dressed in a gingham gown, modest, graceful—owned by Sue Adams.

The oddest doll—a native of old Egypt, made and dressed by Egyptian hands—owned by Jane Bryan.

The cutest doll—good disposition, nice manner—owned by Carrie Jane Roberts.

The largest doll—three feet high, dressed in French style, long curls, old fashioned—owned by Myrtle Marlar.

The smallest doll—just one half inch high, and at that she had some competition as there were several undergrown dolls present at the convention—owned by Virginia Boyd.

By popular vote, ballots cast by all of the viewers showed that the pretty infant in the carriage attracted the most interest and endeared itself to the public—owned by June Fisher.

Town Boasts Youngest U.S. Police Chief

By WALLACE K. RAWLES International News Service Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, March 27.—Lynwood, a suburb of Los Angeles, boasts the youngest chief of police in the United States.

He is J. M. Bennett and he is 21 years old.

Acting as desk sergeant for Lynwood's police department Bennett in March was surprised to learn the city council had named him to head the force.

Bennett assumed command immediately and at once started a campaign against reckless driving, which has caused several deaths in Lynwood recently.

His appointment was received with delight by hundreds of citizens, and Bennett promised an efficient police department that would cooperate with Los Angeles city police county and state officials.

Bennett went to Lynwood from Cedar Rapids, Iowa. He started his public career as a Lynwood city fireman five years ago but transferred to the police department a year later.

As soon as he joined the fire department his ability was recognized and when he switched to the police department he was named by Police Chief Thomas Millard to be desk secretary. He became the department's first desk sergeant and was thrown into contact daily with many leading citizens responsible today for his new honor.

Bennett is married and has a small daughter. The youngest man previously to hold such an honor was a Texas sheriff, age 24, and at one time Longmont, Colo. had a police chief named Ray Bennett who was in his early twenties.

(International News Service) PASADENA, Calif., Mar. 27.—The Carnegie Institution of Washington, D. C., through its seismological laboratory here was reassuring about earthquakes.

Prof. Harry O. Wood, director of the laboratory compiled his annual report which showed that the laboratory had recorded 1450 earthquakes at 247 points in southern California during the last four years and that none of these tremors had caused loss of life or costly damage.

Earthquakes, Prof. Wood said, were subterranean storms that do less damage than any rain shower that spoils a pretty dress or washes out a flower garden.

"In fact the large majority of earthquakes do no damage at all," he said.

Woman Is Found Dead In Hotel

Washington, D. C., Woman Found Pneumonia Victim At Uniontown

(International News Service) UNIONTOWN, Pa., Mar. 27.—The coroner's office today was investigating the death of Mrs. E. Dole, 65, vice president of the Congressional District Modification League, with headquarters in Washington, D. C., who was found dead in her hotel room here, the victim of pneumonia, according to police.

Mrs. Dole recently came to this section to gather signatures on a petition for presentation to congress in an effort to secure modification of the liquor laws to permit the manufacture and sale of light wines and beer.

A pleasing countenance is a silent commendation.—Syrus.

Woman Centarian Discusses Issues

(International News Service) CHESTER, Pa., Mar. 27.—Oldest woman in Delaware county is believed to be Mrs. Lydia Anna Baker, who recently celebrated her 101st birthday with strong expression of her opinions on leading issues of the day.

"Criminals are pampered at the expense of the taxpayers," said she while celebrating the start of her second century in life.

"If they would let us use the lash for ten minutes they would know what punishment means," she averred, stating she favored use of the gallows rather than the electric chair in punishing criminals and expressing the belief women should suffer equally with men for law violations.

Woman's mind, she declared is more cunning than man's in planning and executing unlawful acts. The 101 year old woman is an ardent anti-prohibitionist.

"Lots of hidden liquor is being used today," she said, "more than when I was young."

Allegheny County Lawyer Debarred

Attorney William L. Milburn Pleads Guilty To Fraudulent Conversion

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Mar. 27.—Pleading no defense to a charge of fraudulent conversion, Attorney William L. Milburn, with offices in the Grant building, today was suspended from further practice in the Allegheny county criminal and common pleas courts under an order issued by Judge James J. Gray.

Michael and Mary Danko, 50 First street, McKees Rocks, accused Milburn of retaining for his own use $2,700 of the $7,000 which they claimed was turned over to him to buy property for the couple.

Milburn promised the court that he would make restitution to Mr. and Mrs. Danko.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

GIVE HEALTHY CHICKS CLEAN BROODER HOUSES

Filthy brooder houses expose young chicks to disease carried over from the previous year. No matter how strong and healthy they are when put in such a house, some of the chicks will die and the others, hampered by disease, will make slow growth.

To provide sanitary quarters for the baby chicks, first scrape and clean all dirt out of the brooder house before it is moved to new ground. Be sure that every crack in the floor is clean. Then scrub with boiling lye water, using one pound of lye to 15 or 20 gallons of boiling water. Then, disinfect thoroughly.

Poultrymen should use litter that is light in weight and free from mold, dampness, and dust. Shavings or cut straw are satisfactory. Clean the house every week and if there is an outbreak of disease, clean twice a week.

PROTECT PLANTS WELL, AND WATER CAREFULLY

Proper ventilation and watering prevent trouble in growing early vegetable plants. Protection at night will maintain the proper temperature and ventilation in the daytime will keep the temperature from going too high.

Water the soil deeply but no often than necessary. Such a practice will produce a stout, stocky growth. The time to water is only on sunny mornings. Growing temperatures should be kept as uniform as possible by ventilation. Straw mats or blankets can be used to cover frames on very cold nights.

Home gardeners will find information on growing plants in the house and hotbeds in Circular 120, "The Family Vegetable Garden." For the commercial grower, Circular 135, "Growing Early Vegetable Plants under Glass" is more helpful. These publications may be obtained from the Agricultural Extension Office.

PROVE DAIRY SIRES TO LEARN VALUE OF HERD

Use the dairy sire until enough of his daughters come into production to prove his value is good herd management.

A study of the production records of daughters of purebred dairy sires compared with the records of dams of these daughters indicate that many purchased sires decrease production. Some sires, however, are found to be outstanding in transmitting a high level of production above that of the dams of the daughters.

Under the usual plan a sire is used for two or three years; then to avoid inbreeding, the sire is sent to the butcher before any of his daughters are in production. Any sire worth using at all should be kept in service until sufficient of his daughters have made production records to prove his ability in transmitting high qualities.

To solve the problem of dairy herd improvement, individually owned registered sires of merit—breeding should be kept in service, through a cooperative plan of exchange, until proved. When their values are known, the undesirable sires should be discarded and the good sires be kept in service as long as possible.

IMPROVE APPLE TREES BY USE OF GRAFTING

Fruit growers of Lawrence County who have undesirable varieties of apples in their orchards through no fault of their own may graft these trees to more desirable and profitable varieties.

Carefully select one-year-old scion wood from known varieties. Whip-grafting or tongue-grafting is recommended for topworking young trees or for root and stock grafting. Clasp-grafting is used when the stock wood is from 1 to 3 inches in diameter. Two scions should be used, one on each side of the cleft. Both should be left to grow for a year or two and then the less vigorous one may be cut back somewhat to induce growth in the larger one. After 3 or 4 years the lesser graft should be cut back entirely.

On large trees one-half of the tree should be grafted during one year and the other half the year following. By this means, the tree will not receive the extreme shock of the cutting back incident to grafting all in one year.

Bridge-grafting is employed where trees have been girdled or injured by mice or rabbits.

PROTECT BEES FROM WIND DURING SPRING

Protection from the wind is needed by bees this month and in April and May. During these months the colonies are the weakest and the winds are the coldest and most severe.

Windbreakers may be either natural or artificial, and their value extends throughout the year. A location for an apiary often may be selected where natural windbreaks give the bees ideal protection. A forest or woods, or the surrounding hills will protect the bees from the prevailing winds. A location with natural windbreaks is preferable as this type of protection is effective and requires no expense of construction. Small apiaries sometimes may be located behind outbuildings in such manner that protection is secured.

Where natural protection is not available artificial windbreaks are necessary. The most attractive is a planting of evergreen trees 10 or 15 feet from the apiary. One or two rows planted so that they will grow together and form a hedge will furnish maximum protection.

Artificial windbreaks most commonly are built from waste lumber. They are built like a picket fence with boards placed vertically 7 or 8 feet high. This fence may be placed on one, two or all four sides of the apiary if local conditions demand such protection. A space of one and a half inches should be left between the boards so that the air will sift through instead of blowing over the top or whirling around on the opposite side among the hives.

Place the hives about five feet from the windbreak. This will leave ample space so the beekeeper can work around the colonies conveniently.

If for any reason a temporary windbreak is desired it may be built with cornstocks.

POULTRY MEETINGS TO BE HELD

H. H. Kauffman, Poultry Specialist from State College, will be the speaker at two Poultry Meetings to be held next week. The first of these meetings will be held Wednesday evening April 1st at Pleasant Hill Grange Hall at 8:30 p. m. The second meeting will be held at the Poultry Farm of Homer Hilly, north of the New Bedford, Pulaski Township, Thursday April 2nd at 2:00 p. m.

Problems of "Brooding Chicks" will be the topic of discussion by Mr. Kauffman.

Dinner-Dances For Fraternities

Westminster College Students To Enjoy Social Events Tonight

(Special To The News) NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Mar. 27.—Theta Upsilon Omega and Delta Phi Sigma fraternities at Westminster College will hold their annual formal dinner dances tonight. The T. U. O. affair will be held in the New Castle Field Club, while the Deltas will have their party in the Sharon Country Club. Jack Lewis, New Wilmington, chairman of the committee in charge of the Delta Phi Sigma party announced yesterday that in addition to the chaperones and guests of honor there will be a delegation of members of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity chapters of Carnegie Tech, Penn State, and West Virginia present.

Chaperones for this affair, which starts at 7:30 in the Sharon Country Club, are: Dr. and Mrs. Charles Freeman, Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Dawson, Miss Eleanor Warner, New Castle, and Prof. R. X. Graham. Kenneth Hemer, New Kensington, chairman of the committee in charge of the Theta Upsilon Omega party in the New Castle Field Club, has completed all arrangements for the important social event. Fred Blaha, New Castle, newly elected president of T. U. O., will assist Mr. Hemer in directing the party. Chaperones at the Theta Upsilon Omega party include: Dr. and Mrs.

W. Charles Wallace, Miss Elizabeth Stewart, and Dr. G. H. Taylor.

Active members of the two fraternities and alumni members will attend these two important social functions of the year. It is thought that about 30 couples will be in attendance at each party.

Seven Women Sunning Themselves On Fence Flee Police Spray

NELSON, B. C., Mar. 27.—Itch powder has come to vex the Doukhobors. Seven Doukhobor women sat sunning themselves on a fence near Thrum. The sunning was thorough for the Doukhobors, a religious sect are champions of the nude. Police told the two women to seek shelter and put on some clothes. The law met resistance, whereupon the police unlimbered a unique contraption and sprayed the women with itch powder. Several male Doukhobors stood by. One of them thought himself of a garden hose which he turned upon the police and the women. "Finally," says the police report, "after much dusting of itch powder and by force, the women were sent into their homes."

"Whistle Goose" Soon Will Die

(International News Service) CHARLESTON, Pa., Mar. 27.—The "Whistle Goose" of Speers borough which meets all trains will be numbered among the missing soon. The goose, owned by Van Speers, came to be known to every trainman who passes through Speers from its habit of greeting every train whistle or street car bell with a resonant "Koonk!" The goose-greeting has become almost legendary among trainmen.

But Speers has indicated that roast goose is his idea of a well-nigh perfect Easter menu. And from all indications, the "whistle goose" is due to "konk off" about that season, to grace the Speers board.

Apple Marketing Association Will Aid Orchardists

(International News Service) ALLENTOWN, Pa., Mar. 27.—Orchardists of Lehigh county are planning organization of a cooperative apple marketing association which, they hope, will eventually become one of the largest of its kind in the United States. Started by individuals and companies who have begun marketing of apples on a sizable scale in recent years, the movement has spread through the county and apple growers of Bucks, Berks and Northampton counties have been invited to join in the move. First move contemplated by organizers of the association is erection of a central packing plant easily accessible to all orchards and on a main highway. Bethlehem has been suggested as a likely choice.

Plans of the leaders in the movement include grading of all apples according to federal government standards, packing in a standard container and selection of a trade name.

Although apple raising on a large scale has not been long-lived in this region, more orchards are being started yearly and proponents of the cooperative believe that with increased membership and with the territory to be included in the association, it has an opportunity to rival similar nationally-known groups in the northwest, as well as those of the famed Shenandoah valley.

Says Educated Criminals Are Most Rebellious

Spirited Youngsters Of Today Flare Up On Slight Provocation

BLAMED FOR MOST OF PRISON RIOTS

Differ From Hardened Criminals Of Former Days, Authorities Find

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer.
JOLIET, Ill., Mar. 27.—Convicts of today simply will not endure the treatment that the tough old characters of the pre-war era submitted to. They prefer to be killed.

This is the conclusion I draw from talks with folk best acquainted with the recent prison riots here and at Stateville, and with the causes leading up to them. It fortifies the impression I already had gathered from persons in a position best to understand outbreaks in New York's, Colorado's and other states' penitentiaries, as well as the Columbus, O., insurrection and fire, resulting in the cremation in their cells of several hundred inmates of the Buckeye institution some months ago.

Penitentiary rebellions on a large scale are a new thing. Having started, however, there are plenty of them. It is impossible not to wonder, since they are so common now, why there were none of them formerly.

The obvious answer is that we have a new kind of convict.

I hear the same thing said at Joliet that I heard reported from the New York, Colorado and Columbus prisons—namely, that the captives responsible for most of the trouble were the best type of human material; that is to say, the better educated, comparatively clean-cut young fellows, not the hardened old ruffians of the Bill Sikes pattern.

In olden days the Bill Sikes' predominated. Now the prevailing element would pass for tolerably decent chaps if they were at large.

These spirited youngsters are not so easy to keep knocked over the nose as the Bill Sikes' were. The Bill Sikes' were ugly and sullen, and yet they were accustomed to being treated like criminals and accepted such treatment accordingly. The present generation flares up on small provocation.

Overcrowding has a deal to do with prison discontent. It has been mentioned as a factor in all the recent outbreaks. Illinois' prisons are filled to about twice their originally-intended capacities, compelling the quartering of the men two to a cell at least.

Unduly close contact between human beings is trying under the most favorable conditions, as anyone knows who has tried it in an over-crowded hotel for only a night or two. Enforced, as in a prison, perhaps for a long term of years, it becomes almost intolerable. Especially is this the case with a convict of the higher type, decent upbringing and cleanly habits, who happens to be bunked with some foul thug, bestial in his every instinct.

Taking into consideration the twin facts that more men are being committed to penitentiaries than ever before, and that they are not being released nearly as rapidly, the overcrowding evil is easy to account for.

It may not be, of course, that too many new crimps have been created, but there can be no question that new ones HAVE been created.

In turn, they appear to have caused an increase in the older forms of criminality. Illustratively, during the recent legislative investigation in Joliet, James Peirce, one of the convict witnesses, mentioning that he was "doing time" for stealing 1,200 pounds of sugar, added explanatorily, "I was doing a little moonshining."

"Which" makes," commented State Representative M. L. Igoe, "another case of an inmate who is here solely because of prohibition."

At any rate, in one way and another, it is notorious that crime is heavily on the increase, with such resulting alarm on the part of the law-abiding population that penalties have been made much severer in the hope of checking it—still further stuffing the prisons.

The stuffing is done, too, with the sort of material already referred to—intrinsically pretty decent, if adventurous young men who do not consider themselves in any proper sense criminals and will not stand being handled as if they were.

Prison authorities, on the other hand (naturally in the main a low

PAIN ACROSS KIDNEYS, DIZZY

Mrs. J. E. SPAYDE
Meadville (Kerrtown) Pa.—"I was suffering with severe pains across my back in the region of the kidneys. At times I was very dizzy and noticed my vision blurred. I was rundown, felt all gone—not much pep. I noticed my blood was not circulating as it should, causing a numbness in my limbs. A friend recommended Dr. Pierce's A-nuric Tablets to me as one of the finest kidney remedies. After taking part of a bottle I noticed a great improvement and when I had finished two bottles this weakness had left me."

Mrs. J. E. Spayde, 14 Hope St., Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice. For 10¢ Dr. Pierce will send you a trial package.

class, for the work is not calculated to attract any other, stick as closely as they can to old methods.

Much emphasis was laid, for example, during the Joliet investigation, upon the case of Joseph Coakley, a convict who, for throwing food at a fellow prisoner in the penitentiary mess room, was handcuffed to the bars in a solitary cell, collapsed thus and was dead when the doctor arrived. It was explained, to be sure, that he was suffering from heart disease, unknown to the authorities, or he would not have died so easily. But what of it?—asks the insurrectionary younger element among the convicts. Ought any man to be subjected to physical torture which only a vigorous one can endure without killing him? The youngsters think not, and the general verdict is that the Coakley incident had its considerable part in causing the subsequent riot.

Complaints of the working of the indeterminate sentence and parole regulations were made rather by Father Eligius S. Weir, the prison chaplain, and by ex-Chaplain George L. Whitmeyer, than by any of the convicts who testified at the investigation.

Those regulations undoubtedly do retard the release of prisoners, and in this way contribute to overcrowding, but personally I question, judging from my own inquiries, whether they have much to do, except perhaps indirectly, toward provoking actual convict outbreaks. The out-breaks seem to me to result rather from the continual chafing of discomfort interspersed with occasional acts of brutality like the Coakley affair, than from the more abstract operation of the men's various terms of confinement.

Father Weir, indeed, did not dwell so strongly upon parole injustices as responsible for prison disorders; he did give it as his opinion that delay frequently lessens the chances of a convict's reformation.

Warden Henry C. Hill evidently is very popular (for a warden) among the Joliet and Stateville inmates. His underlings are complained of bitterly, and so are the parole board members and Public Welfare Superintendent R. H. Brandon, but Hill is described as a "square shooter."

The prisoners themselves agree that the food is pretty good.

The essential cause of trouble at Joliet and Stateville appears to have been that Illinois, like most other states, has entirely too good a class of convicts and altogether too many of them.

Imprisons Prisoner In Jail Dumbwaiter

(International News Service).
PASCO, Wash., Mar. 27.—Mrs. N. J. Baile was at work in her kitchen when she heard the dumbwaiter descending from the upper floor, where her husband, the sheriff of Franklin County, keeps such prisoners as run afoul of the law in this little community.

Supposing that the sheriff had sent a load of dishes down to be washed, she opened the door and looked into the visage of one Howard McMahers, burglar, who had wedged himself in so tight that he could not immediately escape.

Mrs. Baile acted as sheriff's wife should and slammed the door on the enterprising jail breaker, keeping him a prisoner until help arrived.

Engineers Test New Fool-Proof Monoplane; Find It Practical

By JAMES C. SIMONS
International News Service Staff Correspondent
LOS ANGELES 2nd, Mar. 27.—The secret construction of a new fool-proof high-winged monoplane that cost $41,000 has been revealed by its designer, G. Wilbur Cornelius.

Pilots that flew the Cornelius ship said that it was practical. Tests showed that the ship powered with a ninety-horsepower engine, has a speed of 110 miles an hour and a landing speed of 50 miles an hour. The total wing spread is 30 feet in length.

According to the designer, the ship is capable of taking off and landing without the aid of a pilot and will not stall, go into a tailspin, sideslip or stunt. Another feature of the ship is that it will maintain a true compass course and its correct level position in foggy weather without the aid of blind-flying instruments.

allows the pilot to adjust his climbing or gliding angle and to maintain the angle he chooses without the aid of the stick in the cockpit.

Another safety factor of the ship is that it has the center of gravity so placed that it is impossible for the ship to remain off an even keel while flying, unless it is desired to turn, glide downward or to climb.

Cornelius said, "We haven't anything practically new in our plane, but we have combined all the known safety principles under a new arrangement."

"The ship flies easily, you can not loop, or fly it on its back. The safety requirements in this new ship is greater than that required by military authorities for their pursuit planes."

"The plane has been landed with the pilot's hands held up in the air after the stabilizers had been set," Cornelius said.

"We have been sixteen years working out our plans for this ship, and have spent lots of time and a lot of money constructing it, but it has been worth it, and we are more than pleased with the ship's performance during our tests."

perimental flights have been completed we plan to produce the craft here on a large scale," he declared.

C. M. T. C. Camps Reach Quota And All Are Closed

Applications From Lawrence County Greatly Exceed Number Accepted

RECORD NUMBER SEEK TRAINING

No more applications will be available in the Lawrence county district and in fact in the entire third corps area for training in the Citizens' Military Training Corps the area this summer, according to the letter received by Major W. Fulton Jackson, in charge of C. M. T. C. activities in Lawrence county from Colonel Allen Smith, who is in charge of the C. M. T. C. camps of the third corps area.

More than 6,900 applications have been received from the third corps area, which is many more than can be accommodated in the various camps and assignments for training this summer at these camps have been completely filled with few exceptions. Fort Washington, where the basic and infantry courses are taught is completely filled up. Not another application will be accepted at any place.

According to the communication received by Major Jackson, Lawrence county young men anxious to secure the training afforded in the C. M. T. C. camps exceeded all former records, there having been 92 applications from the county on March 20.

Of this number fifty-five had been accepted on the same date, in spite of the fact that the quota of the county was but 39. The young men of the county have been showing a deep appreciation of the opportunities afforded by this training for several years and the record made this year is an indication of the continued interest in the effort being made to make this country better able to take care of itself in the time of an emergency.

Tractor Dredge Supplants Old Mining Method

International News Service Staff
Correspondent

DENVER, Col., Mar. 27.—Supplanting the time-honored pan, cradle and rocker as a means of extracting the precious yellow metal from its native sands, the modern tractor is about to enter the placer mining industry.

Breckenridge, Colo., scene of gold dredging operations for a half century, is to be the scene of operations for the novel development, according to word received here recently.

A company has been formed for carrying on the operations, and a contract has been let to a Milwaukee concern for the construction of a dredge mounted on a large tractor of the caterpillar type. The machine will cost about $100,000, according to present estimates.

Boat dredges of the old type worked the sands of the Blue River near Breckenridge for many years, leaving hundreds of acres of valley lands covered with rocks dug up from beneath the soil.

The tractor dredge is intended to make possible working of the higher levels along the Blue River, which the late Benjamin Bevel, known as the father of placer mining, always contended contained more gold than the river bottoms.

The new company is composed of Denver, Omaha, Amarillo and Milwaukee men. The tractor dredge will handle 5,000 cubic yards a day at an estimated cost of 10 cents a yard. The company has about 1,000 acres along the Blue River.

The idea of a dredge operating on the tractor principle is credited to A. H. McDougall, a veteran dredge man and J. D. Calloway of Breckenridge, an engineer well versed in placer mining.

Also associated in the new company are Dexter T. Barrett, former deputy attorney general of Nebraska; W. R. Gibson, former district judge of Amarillo, Tex.; A. R. Ritz, railroad contractor of Omaha, and J. A. Theobald, formerly of Breckenridge and now editor of the Mining Age, Denver. Others interested are Milwaukee men with capital.

The process used in the new style dredge will be approximately the same as that previously used in the boat dredges. The boat dredges handled the sands at a cost of about 12 cents per yard and returned a substantial profit to the operators until the big boat burned about three years ago.

The tractor dredge will use the same power in operating which is used to move the machinery. Water will be piped from higher levels pictures in the auditorium of the church Wednesday evening.

Have Difficulty In Holding Youth

(International News Service)

VALLEY JUNCTION, Ia., Mar. 27.—Bennie Ketyurokis, Valley Junction's 16-year-old "Houdini" has proved a vexing problem for law enforcement officers in Iowa.

Bennie broke out of jail at Valley Junction some time ago with the aid of a pocket knife. He was later arrested by Deputy Sheriff Robert E. O'Brien for violating his parole.

The arresting officer took the prisoner to Polk county jail. Under the jail rules however, Bennie was too young to be confined there.

On the other hand, Deputy O'Brien decided that the bars of the juvenile home were not substantial enough to prevent the lad from escaping.

It was finally decided at the jail office to place the youth in a ward over night.

TO ERECT STATUE FOR CHICAGO MAYOR

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Ill., Mar. 27.—Discussion of plans for erecting a statue in memory of William B. Ogden, Chicago's first mayor, has brought attention to his pioneer administration and conditions existing here at that time.

In 1837, it was recalled, Ogden was ridiculed for asserting that "some day Chicago will have a population of 100,000." Chicago then had a population of 4,000.

Ogden was elected mayor in 1836, two years after he arrived here from Wallon, N. Y. His salary was $500 a year, compared to the $19,000 now received annually by the mayor. Only 709 votes were cast in the first election and Ogden, a Democrat, received twice as many as his opponent.

Ellwood High Athletes Are Feted At School

ELLWOOD CITY, Mar. 27.—The Ellwood City High athletes, with due ceremony were feted to their annual banquet by the board of education last night in the domestic science rooms of the school.

Assisted by student cooks and aides, Miss Jackson prepared a very much appreciated dinner. After dinner the events of the evening were introduced by R. J. Hawke, master of ceremonies and former cheer leader of Carnegie Tech. Mr. Hawke was exceptionally clever in his roll. His introductions of the speakers were humorous and yet contained true facts about the person. He kept every one in a merry mood until the close of the evening's affair.

A song by the assemblage put things in full swing. Sam Neff, captain of the football team commented on the bright outlook for next season on the gridiron. He stated that there were 17 letters left and being better acquainted with the new coach's system they will do much better.

Don Cloak, captain of the basketball team gave a toast to the girls, and complimented them on their successful season.

Miss Bertha Caplan responded and was very grateful for the fine spirit shown by the boys during the season.

Coach Ingle was next called upon who spoke on the subjects of "Reveries". He stated that the greatest factors derived from sports are perseverance, self control, square game, and appreciation, each an important lesson in the game of life.

Coach Helen Cooper chose as her subject "Playing the Game" in which she stated that athletes are much better fit to go out into the world than others, because of lessons learned in active competition.

Prof. J. Ellie Bell was the last speaker on the program and spoke on the subject "You". He pointed out that what you make of yourself in the future counts upon the training received and your own preparation.

P. L. Ueber, faculty manager closed the events of the day by awarding letters, as noted elsewhere on this page.

Bowlers Banquet Before Departure For Big Tourney

ELLWOOD CITY, Mar. 27.—Joe Smith, sponsor of the team to compete in the A. B. C. tournament this evening at Buffalo, New York was host to these members at a splendid banquet last night. There were 10 men present on this occasion.

After the menu was served Mr. Smith complimented the members of the team for the fine showing made in the Beaver County league and he appreciated their fine efforts to come out on top, and their good fellowship. He wished "the team great success at the tournament."

Those that were present are Joe Smith, M. J. Cable, C. Anderson, Jess Brown, C. MacDonald, Harry Turner, Rollo Smith, M. J. Bauer, N. Rubino and Charles Cox. All but the last one left for Buffalo last night at 11:30.

Class Members Evening Guests

ELLWOOD CITY, Mar. 27.—Mrs. Kathryn Hainer with delightful hospitality entertained the members of the Margaret H. Pugh Class on Thursday evening at her home in Second street. There were 25 guests present.

Auto Fatalities Reveal Decrease

Show 3 Per Cent Decrease In Fatal Auto Accidents In Period Of Year

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Mar. 27—A decrease of 3 percent in number of persons killed and fatally injured in automobile accidents in Pennsylvania was shown during the last year, according to preliminary figures computed by officials of the state government in cooperation with the Travelers Insurance Company here.

Death and fatal auto accidents last year took a toll of 1932 in the state, the survey shows, 60 less than loss of life from motor vehicles in 1929.

As a group, the Middle Atlantic States, comprising Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey, reported a decrease of 2.5 per cent in motor vehicle deaths for the last year. Pennsylvania's percentage of decrease was more than New Jersey and virtually the same as New York.

New York reported 3074 motor deaths for the year and New Jersey had 1269, with percentage of decrease being respectively 3.1 and one half of one percent. Total deaths for the three states last year were 6275 against 6438 in 1929.

More than 17,000 persons have been killed and fatally injured in automobile accidents in Pennsylvania in the last 11 years, the records show. Fatality toll exacted by use of the automobile in the three Middle Atlantic states during that period, with figures for eight years only available in New Jersey, has exceeded 50,000.

Throughout the entire country last year more than 835,000 motor accidents occurred, bringing death to 32,500 persons and injuries to 962,000 others.

Election Costs

Mount Rapidly

(International News Service)
SCRANTON, Pa., Mar. 27—Cost of elections in the United States, Dr. Miller D. Steever, Lafayette college professor told an audience there is little cause for alarm in here, is constantly mounting but that.

It is perfectly proper to pay for elections, Dr. Steever inferred, and he reminded his auditors that the "high pressure" political campaigns of these days must be expensive and must be paid for. A careful watch of the source of moneys used in paying election costs was advocated by the Lafayette savant, however, together with a check on the way in which it is spent.

Dr. Steever took a fling at the direct primary, one-time panacea for all election ills. The direct primary, he said, does not bring elections back to the people but results in a double election and permits candidates who are not vouched for by party to run for office.

Allentown Riders Get Bridle Path

(International News Service)
ALLENTOWN, Pa., Mar. 27—Equestrians here, long desirous of a bridle path, have had their wishes gratified.

A ten-mile riding and driving path, stretching along the bank of the Little Lehigh river through one of the most picturesque sections of the county has been improved and turned over to riders and driving enthusiasts here. Although laid out on city property, the bridle path was built by private funds, donated by equitation fans.

Open to riders, drivers and pedestrians, automobile traffic is forbidden use of the path.

Finds Music Makes Contented Cows

(International News Service)
MERCED, Cal., Mar. 27—Many methods have been tried to insure milk from contented cows, but milking to music as the latest successful method was announced today by Glen Sheesley, Livingston rancher, after a week's trial. Sheesley has installed a radio loud speaker in his dairy barn.

"Classical music seems to be the best for making the cows contented," Sheesley said, "but jazz music makes my men work faster."

A Maine sheriff wore so much flannel underwear that when he was hit by a bullet it did him no harm. The old-fashioned sheriffs still have some advantages.—The Albany Evening News.

Man Made Lake To Cover Scene Of Famous Feud

(International News Service)
GAINESVILLE, Mo., Mar. 27—Land that once was the battle ground of the Alsup-Fleetwood clans soon may be flooded by a lake that will be formed by a hydro-electric dam to be built by a Chicago utility firm.

The feud, the longest and most bitter of any in the Ozark region, began in 1820 and ended after the close of the Civil war. More than 200 lives were sacrificed to the lust of these two clans for each other's blood.

In an old cemetery near the forks of Bryant and Fox creeks, which will furnish water for the project, lie the bodies of many members of opposing clans.

The Alsup clan, composed of twelve families, came to the Ozarks in 1812 from Eastern Tennessee. A few years later the Fleetwoods, equally numerous, came from Kentucky. One clan settled on Bryant creek and the other on Fox creek.

Trouble started between the clans when a group of Fleetwood boys gave an Alsup boy a thrashing while he was on his way home from church with his girl.

A quarrel followed between parents, and an Alsup killed a Fleetwood. Years of battle and bloodshed followed, occasionally being broken for a short period by armed truce.

In 1860 it was decided to fight a decisive battle. Thus clans met on the plateau between the creeks with about 100 men to the side. The battle was a draw, but about twenty men were killed.

A circuit judge and special prosecutor brought the case before a grand jury and fifty men were indicted, but the trial was never held, due to the outbreak of the civil war. One clan joined the Union army and the other went with the Confederates.

The last man to meet death in the feud was Shet Alsup, who was shot from ambush while serving as sheriff in 1875. His relatives did not take up the task of punishing the slayers and in time the feud was forgotten.

In all probability, even the last physical trace of the fifty-year battle of the hillmen will be obliterated when the large dam backs up the water of the two creeks in Southern Douglas county.

You may need a bigger field to win your fill of praise, but you can find work enough right where you are.

Did Not Think Would Ever Be Well Again

Workman Tells How World's Tonic Brought Him Back To Health And Strength

CATARH OF THE STOMACH OVERCOME

To be well and strong is the one great ambition of a working man's life, as he has to earn his living by the sweat of his brow, and he may have many that are dependent upon his daily labors to keep the wolf from the door. Such was the case of John Herott, 420 E. Washington St., Rochester, Penna. He said in a recent interview with the World's Tonic man: "I never thought I would be well again and to think I can do as hard day's work as any man in the city after suffering for years seems unreasonable, but is a fact. For the past eight years my stomach had given me much trouble. I first had catarrh of the head and throat and they say the dripping of mucus had gone into my stomach, causing catarrh. Well, I got so bad off I was hardly able to get around, as nothing I ate seemed to do me any good or give me strength. Sometimes I would have a ravenous appetite and again would care for scarcely anything, and when I did eat, inside of an hour, would belch up my food and could taste it for hours afterwards. It was a sickening sensation and could find nothing that would give me relief. I began to decline until I fell away to nothing you might say, but—straightening up, he continued—"look at me today! I am in better health than I have been for years. I sleep well and get up in the morning feeling like I could do a hard day's work. I have used only three bottles and if it does everyone as much good as it did me, it is a God-send to the community and especially to the working man who has to dig for his daily bread." World's Tonic, the new systemic treatment, helps to stop the flow of mucus of the head into the throat, helps to heal the mucus membranes of the stomach, and helps to overcome most forms of catarrh. Sold by Eckerd's, McKee's, Paisley, Smith's and all other good druggists. (A-131).

Decide Old Fire Whistle Will Do

(International News Service)
DANVILLE, Pa., Mar. 27—Danville has decided to get along with its old fire whistle.

At a meeting of borough council here, a flock of complaints were received regarding inefficiency of a new fire siren purchased and installed recently and after considering the matter at length, council voted to go back to the old whistle at the water plant.

Get Ready For Spring Forest Fire Hazards

Department Hopes To Prevent Recurrence Of Disastrous Blazes

HARRISBURG, Mar. 27.—Safeguarding against a repetition of the State-wide destruction of forests by fire in 1930, the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters is putting forth every effort to prepare for the prompt detection and extinction of forest fires this spring.

Telephone lines to observation towers have been placed in serviceable condition and trails have been brushed throughout the State forests, fire hazards removed, and forest fire fighting equipment overhauled. Schools of instruction for wardens and towermen were held throughout the State during the past two months. The most efficient methods of combating forest fires were discussed at these meetings.

"Forests cannot grow as long as fires burn, and the progress we make in forestry will be determined to a large extent upon the control of forest fires," said Secretary Staley. "The purpose is, not only to extinguish forest fires promptly but also to eliminate the cause of having hazards cleaned up, and by educating the people to be careful with fire while in or near the woods. Much depends of course, on the extent to which the public cooperates."

There are 4396 forest fire wardens in the State, 1400 of whom have organized fire fighting crews. One hundred and eighteen steel fire observation towers have been erected by the Commonwealth so that practically the entire forest area of the State is under constant observation during fire seasons. Thirty-six of these towers are on the State forests and eighty are located upon private lands.

Carelessness is the cause of 99 per cent of the forest fires in Pennsylvania, Secretary Staley pointed out. Every citizen can help in forest fire prevention. Perhaps the most fires are caused by transients and a large number of the transient fires are doubtless due to careless smokers. Smokers can assist in reducing forest fires by using every precaution to extinguish matches and cigarettes before dropping them on the ground. Those who use camp fires should be careful to stamp out the embers left in the ashes when they build fires near the woods. In addition it is a good plan to pour water on the fire to be sure that it is really out.

LOOKING BACK

IN NEW CASTLE

Skating, back in the late sixties and early seventies of the past century, was one of the chief diversions of the young people of this district. It was natural that there should be developed some very fast and fancy skaters.

The finest skater of those days was James Book, who had the reputation of being just a little better than any other person in this section of the country. He was often called upon to demonstrate his ability as an ice skater and did it to the satisfaction of himself and the entire community.

Fix Standards For Milk Tests

HARRISBURG, Mar. 27.—Ralph E. Irwin, director of the bureau of milk control, in the State Department of Health today announced that he has just completed a co-operative agreement with milk inspectors in Cleveland, New York City, Buffalo, Pittsburgh and Erie with reference to a standardized inspection program for farms in Pennsylvania producing milk distributed by several large plants to those localities.

This unification for farm requirements in connection with milk production will raise the general standard of sanitation and cleanliness and at the same time will eliminate a duplication of effort on the part of the cities involved, said Irwin. "A standardized form of sanitary requirements and cleanliness methods has been prepared by Cleveland, New York City, Buffalo,

BABY SUFFERING FROM ECZEMA

Quickly healed by Resinol

"I want you to know how much your wonderful Resinol Ointment has helped my baby. At the age of eight months he developed a case of eczema on his forehead. The skin became so red and sore that people even remarked about it and I hated to take him out. I tried other ointments but none were successful until I tried your Resinol Ointment. After using the contents of one jar and a small amount of the second, his skin was completely healed. I am never without this product." (Signed) — Mrs. Catherine Keeler, Bethlehem, Pa. Pittsburgh and Erie which will cover inspection requirements for these municipalities. This plan was suggested by the Pennsylvania Health Department for the purpose of developing a closer co-operation in interstate milk service which has its origin within the confines of Pennsylvania.

It is planned to enlarge this program as rapidly as possible to cover other sections of Pennsylvania and contiguous states, the milk supplies of which originate from local points in Pennsylvania," Irwin said.

Finds Parents To Blame For Bad Children

By WALLACE S. HULLETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Mar. 27.—Hereditry and environment are two chief causes leading to crimes committed by young people and the parents are mostly to blame in the opinion of Dr. W. A. Potts, psychological adviser to the Birmingham law justices.

The first cause for youth turning to crime, he said, was something unsatisfactory in the offender's make-up. This was obviously due to heredity, and the parents, therefore, were to blame. The second cause was environment, and for this also parents were to blame.

Treatment rather than punishment, is required in dealing with young delinquents, Dr. Potts declared, though punishment is necessary on certain occasions. The attitude of the magistrates toward the offender should be an attempt to get an explanation for the delinquency.

"Many magistrates will ask the boy for an explanation in court—a public place, before his mother and father. Naturally, he is not going to say that his father is a drunkard, that there is constant bickering between his parents and that his mother is always nagging. Family loyalty forbids him."

A list of offences which he recommended for treatment rather than punishment was given by Dr. Potts. They were:

Stealing $4 or more or goods to that value; sex offences; offences committed by delinquents who look ill or are suspected of illness or mental disorder; offences injurious to the public, like putting sleepers across a railroad line and cases that are difficult to understand.

"How many times," concluded Dr. Potts, "you read of a magistrate who says to a young offender: 'I cannot understand your case, but I am going to deal with you all the same!'"

Youths Find Big Sack Of Pennies

(International News Service)
ALLENTOWN, Pa., Mar. 27.—Hope springs eternal.

And it took a decided leap in the breasts of James Lewis, 13, and LeRoy Carr, 12, here when they picked up a money bag labelled $10,000 cash.

The boys had been reading of a Philadelphia bank holdup. "The loot—" gasped they. But they took it to the police station, to find the bag contained 1,143 pennies, lost by a vending machine collector.

Urges Pedestrians To Use Sidewalks

(International News Service)
AMBRIDGE, Pa. Mar. 26.—A great believer in Police Chief Daniel Mitchell, of South Heights, in use of sidewalks when they are built.

So, when a sidewalk was built recently on Jordan street, the chief issued a polite manifesto against jay-walking in the road. For the safety of pedestrian and motorist alike, the police head urged his fellow-citizens:

Use the walk. That's what it was built for.

PREFERS WALTZ TUNES
(International News Service)
MEXICO CITY, Mar. 27.—President Ortiz Rubio prefers waltz tunes to any other. The president with Mrs. Ortiz Rubio and a small body appeared at one of the popular downtown restaurants for supper. When the orchestra requested the president to name his favorite selections, he asked for "Nelly," and "Ann Harding," the latter a waltz written by a Mexican composer recently and named for the movie star of the same name.

College Housing Facilities Short

Land-Grant College Show Shortages Says Interior Dept. Report

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 27.—An unusual shortage of housing facilities for students exists on many campuses of the 52 land-grant colleges in the United States, this condition being only slightly better at Pennsylvania State College than in the country as a whole, according to a survey of land-grant colleges and universities, conducted by the Office of Education, just made public by the Department of the Interior.

Capital investments of the institutions throughout the country during 1928, with special reference to dormitories for men and women students, were appraised in the survey requested by the colleges with the discovery that only 4.8 per cent of the colleges' total outlay of $427,055,366 was invested in dormitories. In 44 of the institutions examined with a total enrollment of 136,000 students, the number living in dormitories was 21,000, or 15 per cent of the entire student body.

Similar investments of Pennsylvania State College amounted to nine per cent of the college's total outlay of $10,060,923, or $1,050,000 invested in dormitories. Of the total enrollment of 4,037 students during 1927-28, it was found that 424 were housed in dormitories, or only 10.5 per cent of the entire student body, which was considerably below the 15 per cent for the country as a whole.

Of the total number of students living in the dormitories of Pennsylvania State College, only 183 were male and 241 female, it was pointed out in the report.

Pennsylvanians Eat Lot Of Candy

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Mar. 27.—Pennsylvania will consume ten per cent of all candy eaten in the United States in 1931, according to a forecast compiled by candy manufacturers.

Advance dope indicates the state will be outranked only by New York in consumption of sweets during the year, with Illinois third. Pennsylvanians eat an average of 15.4 pounds of candy apiece every year, according to manufacturers.

Bridge Building Work Is Resumed

(International News Service)

COLUMBIA, Pa., Mar. 27.—Construction on a new bridge on the Lincoln highway at Mountville, near here, has been resumed after a prolonged period of unfavorable weather. Built to replace a span condemned by the state highway department, the new bridge is expected to be ready for use about May 15.

Woman's Dinner Coat Causes Sensation

(International News Service)

LONDON, Mar. 27.—A woman's masculine dinner suit has been the sensation of a great dress parade just held here.

The dress coat was of broadcloth and had swallowtails reaching to the ankles, with heavy white satin trousers, the legs of which were very wide at the hem, and a vest of the exact replica of a man's dress waistcoat.

It was worn by the tallest mannequin in the world. A mannequin from Teheran, Persia, who was one of the first girls of Northern Persia to eat and smoke in public, was a feature of the same parade.

She made a spectacular appearance in a green gown almost black called "Passion Flower." Women applauded when they noticed that she had painted her eyebrows right across her face from ear to ear and over the bridge of her nose.

Man Captured While Sending Telegram

(International News Service)

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Mar. 27.—There's one man here who no longer believes in the well-known slogan of a telegraph company regarding relative value of writing versus telegraphing.

William W. Cooper escaped from the New Jersey state hospital at Trenton and managed to get as far as Allentown. Here, he wired a brother in Rutherford, N. J. for money.

Scarcely had Cooper time to begin looking for funds when police arrived, arrested him. His message was reported to New Jersey authorities who asked local police to take Cooper into custody. He will be returned to Trenton.

Governor Signs Richards' Bill

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Mar. 27.—Five more bills passed by both houses of the legislature today bore the signature of Gov. Gifford Pinchot. Bills signed included one ceding title to a federal prison site in Union county to the federal government and one by Rep. Richards, Lawrence, empowering courts to release criminally insane persons for deportation from the United States.

December Death Rate Remarkable

New Castle Stands Fourth In State In Death Rate For Last Month Of Year

In addition to having a healthy birth rate during the month of December, New Castle stood fourth in the state for the lowest death rate, figures just released by the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the Pennsylvania Department of Health show. There were 39 deaths reported during the month, giving New Castle a death rate of 9.4 per thousand. Alliquippa, Bethlehem, and Easton were the only other third class cities which bettered this record. A healthy birth rate for the month was also shown, there being 95 births during December for an average of 22.9. Hazelton, Johnstown, McKeesport, and Nanticoke, slightly exceeded this rate.

Give Figures On December Health

December health was remarkably good in Lawrence county according to the figures just released by the Bureau of Vital Statistics, Pennsylvania Department of Health. There were two deaths during the month of December from tuberculosis, two from pneumonia, and four from cerebral hemorrhage. In January, there was a mild epidemic of scarlet fever, ten cases being recorded. Other contagious diseases listed were: Measles, 5; diphtheria 1; typhoid fever, 1; and whooping cough, 1.

CRASH VICTIM IS IN CRITICAL CONDITION TODAY

No Improvement Is Shown In Condition Of Volant Man At Jameson Hospital

Harry Barkley, of R. D. 3 Volant, who was critically injured in an automobile crash Thursday morning, is no better today, according to report this morning from the Jameson Memorial hospital, where Mr. Barkley was taken following the collision on the Harlansburg-Slippery Rock road. Mr. Barkley received a fractured skull at the base of the brain when he was thrown from his car by the force of the crash. Mr. Barkley's machine had been struck by the automobile of John McClung of Plainsboro when he was in the act of turning his car out of a gasoline station onto the highway after having purchased some gasoline.

HIGHLIGHTS OF HISTOR

By J. Carroll Mansfield

41. Benedict Arnold—The Capture Of Andre

SEPTEMBER 23, 1780, FOUND MAJOR ANDRE DISGUISED IN CIVILIAN CLOTHES AND RIDING A HORSE OBTAINED FOR HIM BY HIS TORY ACCOMPLICE, GALLOPING ALONG THE ROAD TO NEW YORK, CONFIDENT THAT HE HAD SAFELY SLIPPED THROUGH THE AMERICAN LINES. —

AT SLEEPY HOLLOW NEAR THE VILLAGE OF TARRYTOWN THREE AMERICAN "SKINNERS" (IRREGULAR SOLDIERS) SPRANG OUT FROM THE ROADSIDE AND HALTED THE RIDER. IN ANSWER TO THEIR QUESTIONS, ANDRE GAVE HIS NAME AS "JOHN ANDERSON" AND DISPLAYED THE PASS SIGNED BY GENERAL ARNOLD. —

ANDRE'S AGITATION AROUSED THE SUSPICIONS OF THE SKINNERS, AND THEY PROCEEDED TO SEARCH HIM CAREFULLY FROM HEAD TO FOOT. THE SEARCH REVEALED THE TELLTALE PAPERS HIDDEN IN HIS STOCKING, AND CONVINCED THE TRIO THAT THEY HAD BAGGED A SPY. —

THE UNLUCKY ANDRE PROMISED TO PAY HIS CAPTORS A LARGE SUM OF MONEY IF THEY WOULD LET HIM GO, BUT THE LOYAL FELLOWS SPURNED HIS OFFER AND CARRIED HIM OFF TO THE AMERICAN CAMP. ANDRE HAD PLAYED A DESPERATE GAME AND LOST! —

Bottomley Has Fight For First-Base Job—Hafey
Not Yet Signed Up

By SID KEENER
International News Service Special
Correspondent
BRADENTON, Fla., Mar. 27.—A ball club that has won a pennant naturally expects to repeat the trick, that is the story of the Cardinals and they will stick to it to the bitter end.

They see a general improvement in their play, a pitching staff that is stronger with Burleigh Grimes toting the mark at the start of the season and the prospects of two phenoms coming through in Paul Derringer and Jerome Dean, alias "Dizzy the Great."

Pitchers Are Good
Other pitchers include Jesse Haines, Bill Hallahan, Sylvester Johnson, Flint Rhem, Al Grabowski and Jim Lindsey, holdovers and Tony Kaufmann and Allyn Stout, graduates of Houston.

Gabby Street has announced he will retain nine pitchers which means two, as yet unidentified will be dropped.

The catching staff has one new member. He is Miguel Gonzales, ancient receiver who has been added to Jimmy Wilson and Gus Mancuso to fill in occasionally.

The only position open to competition is at first base where Jim Bottomley, a veteran of nine seasons in the National League is trying to hold his job in a battle with Jimmy Collins, a frisky kid who was a sensation with Rochester in the International League last season.

Frisch At Second
Frankie Frisch will be at second with Charley Gelbert at shortstop and Sparky Adams at third base. Eddie Delker, a broad-shouldered youth who smacks a long ball, is a candidate at third base but he is not regarded as a serious threat owing to a strained muscle in his right leg.

The outfield presents a complicated tangle owing to the holdout tactics of Charles Chick Hafey who rejected a contract calling for $12,500 holding out for $15,000 and returned to St. Louis.

Taylor Douthett, is set as the center fielder while George Watkins, a juvenile has won the job in right field. If Hafey does not return to the club and if no trade is engineered then left field will be thrown over to Ernie Osetti of last year's squad. Pepper Martin, Al Moore, and Joel Hunt.

Street's biggest problem centers around his pitching staff in selecting his five regular starters. Grimes, Haines and Hallahan naturally are starters. Rhem insists he is going to win twenty games this season. Then Derringer and Dean are regarded as pitchers who are destined by Street to become stars.

Loughran-Griffiths Will Battle Tonight

CHICAGO, Mar. 27.—Tommy Loughran, the retired light heavyweight champion, carries his campaign for the big heavyweight stakes into the first flight of contenders tonight when he meets Tuffy Griffiths, leading middle western con-

N. Y. SCHOOLS DROP CAGERS AS PROS

Charging professionalism two New York City schools—St. John's college of Brooklyn and New York university—have each dropped five basketball players from further athletic activity. An investigation is under way in each tender, in a ten round bout at the stadium.

The contest between Loughran and Griffiths is regarded as one of the most important heavyweight battles of the year. Loughran is a 7 to 5 favorite to win.
Sharkey has agreed to meet the winner here in an outdoor show in June. It was reported. No articles have been signed, however.

The recent anointing of Captain Malcolm Campbell with the title of knighthood must stir many an American athlete with the twinges of envy. That's one honor which an indulgent United States is unable to confer on its muscular young men.

What an edge it would give a holdout home run king if his boss had to address him as "Sir"! You can imagine the conversation:

Ball player: "Listen, you little squirt, either I get to ump-ump grand or I don't win no pennant for ya cheap ball club is season. Get at? Whaddaya say, Useless?"
Magnate: "If your honor would permit might I venture to say that our organization is unable to pay such large sums for, begging your pardon Sir Gus, such service as you may render, and, er—"

Ball player: "Aw, nerfs!"
Knighthood has been conferred on famous sport figures before. Sir Malcolm Campbell, but only following some signal service in behalf of the British empire, such as Sir Malcolm's setting a new world's speed record with a British car, no small item when one considers how the world has been flooded with Yankee gas buggies during the last generation.

As far as this department's knowledge goes there have been no cricket players or athletes engaged in any purely British sport who has won the accolade of knighthood. Only those whose triumph has been international have been so honored.
If knighthood existed in America the same system would undoubtedly prevail. Thus such athletes as Lefty Grove, Frank Carideo and others whose sports are almost solely played in these United States would be ineligible for a baronetcy.

George Washington did not know what great effect his efforts had on modern sports when he won the final game of the 1776 world series at Yorktown. Had our colonial troops suffered defeat and surrendered, today our sport pages might bristle with references to Sir James Tunney, Sir Robert Jones, Sir William Tilden, Sir Strangler Lewis, Sir John Weissmuller, Sir Sabin Carr and so on.
Putting patriotic enthusiasm aside for the moment it seems that knighthood for American athletes might not be such a bad idea. Perhaps the awesome dignity of the title would have kept a lot of nose bangers and toe biters out of Hollywood and off our favorite movie theater's screen.

BOWLING COLUMN

NEW CASTLE BOWLERS WIN

The New Castle Works duckpin bowlers defeated the General Office bowlers of Pittsburgh by 124 pins in the first of the inter-city matches rolled here on Thursday. The New Castle men had a grand total of 6,248 pins against 6,124 for the Pittsburghers in the three matches rolled. High score for the evening went to Ernie Smith of the New Castle Works with a fine mark of 221.

The Pittsburgh men came to New Castle yesterday morning and were tendered a fine dinner at the Elks Club at noon, and spent the afternoon and evening in bowling. The arrangements were in charge of Mr. Cartwright of the local plant of the American Sheet & Tin Plate company.

On Saturday the New Castle men will go to Pittsburgh for an exchange of courtesies, and a bowling match. The event here yesterday was a delightful one.

The results of the bowling matches:

Wesley M. E. Girls Trim Union High

The Wesley M. E. girls basketball team gained a 15 to 12 decision over the Union high school maidens in a game played at the Y. W. C. A. floor. The score at the end of the regular game was 12-12 and it was necessary to play an extra period to determine the victor.

Both teams were weakened by the loss of regular players from the lineup. This is the game that is looked forward to with enthusiasm each year as most of the Wesley girls were former Union high stars. The Wesley maidens, Bacon and Hayes, featured for the Wesley team, while Rech with five field goals was the high point scorer. For the Union team the playing of Carr and Raymond was the best.

Jack Dempsey Hurls Challenge At Wills

Jack Dempsey Signifies Intentions Of Battling Wills

Would Stage Big Battle At Chicago In September—Court Fight Goes On

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Mar. 27.—Negotiations for a bout between Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, and Harry Wills next September were presumably under way today following Dempsey's courtroom challenge to the one time negro contender.

The former champion made his offer in Circuit Judge Sterling Pomeroy's courtroom where Dempsey is contesting a suit to collect $500,000 for his alleged failure to meet Wills under a contract signed with the Coliseum club in 1926.

Dempsey insisted that he be paid $125,000 in cash for the bout, a sum which he said was due him under the contract which the Coliseum club charges was violated. Payment of this sum in 1926 would have made the Wills fight possible, he claimed.

Challenge Accepted.
The challenge, issued to Paddy Mullins, one-time manager of Wills, was accepted by the plaintiffs, but the trial went forward pending negotiations.

B. E. Clements, president of the Coliseum club, said he was prepared to live up to the club's part of the contract and stage the bout in Chicago next September. He said he was prepared to pay the former champion $300,000 by Aug. 1.

Should the fight be agreed upon the suit will continue, it was indicated, until all legal transactions for the bout have been completed, should it materialize.

New Yorker Leads Ping Pong Tourney

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Mar. 27.—Marcus Schusheim, New York, seeded No. 1 player and winner of the Metropolitan Ping Pong championship last year continued the favorite today in the M.A.'s National Ping Pong singles championship tournament.

He defeated Robert M. Lawton, 21-10, 21-14, last night in the second round.

Other seeded players who advanced to the third round, included Joseph Preminger, New York, seeded No. 7, and J. R. Leininger of Chicago, seeded No. 5. Preminger vanquished G. P. Cozzens, 21-6, 21-12, and Leininger turned back Jack Turgenhaft, 21-7, 21-14.

WINTER FEEDING MADE RABBIT PET

(International News Service)
HIGHLAND LAKE, Conn., Mar. 27.—Folks at Highland lake road had been feeding a wild rabbit all winter long and as spring approached found they had a tame rabbit on hand.

A box full of rations was put in a suitable place and the rabbit made daily calls.

Finally someone delayed one day and the rabbit jumped onto a wheelbarrow full of wood and went asleep. When the food came the rabbit woke up and sprang to the box to eat while the caterer looked on from a point so close the rabbit could have been petted.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, Office of the Secretary, Washington, D. C., March 16, 1931.—Proposals are hereby solicited to be opened in the Office of the Supervising Architect, Treasury Department, Washington, D. C., at 9 o'clock on April 21, 1931, for the sale or donation to the United States of approximately 47,500 square feet, with a dimension of approximately 220 linear feet, on the more important of the two street frontages, centrally and conveniently located and suitable for a Federal Building, site at New Castle, Pa. Upon application, the Postmaster will supply prospective bidders with a circular giving particulars as to requirements and instructions for preparation of bids and data to accompany same. E. Lowman, Assistant Secretary. Legal—News—Mar. 21-23-24-25-26-27-28-29-31, Apr. 1-2-3-4, 1931.

The Decision

The court held for the jobber. The judges reasoned thus: Accord and satisfaction imply an agreement to take the money in satisfaction of the claim, but if accord is a kind of agreement, there must be two minds agreeing. Here, however, one of the minds, that of the jobber, did not agree. There could not, therefore, have been the accord of which the retailer spoke.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Mild Selling Wave In Early Trading

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Mar. 27.—A mild selling wave carried most of the active stocks to lower price levels this morning. Though not unexpected, the announcement of the passing of the National Cash Register dividend was greeted with an outpouring of selling orders which carried that stock down nearly 4 points to 27 1/2. McKeesport Tinplate dipped under 96, on profit taking for a loss of about 7 points from the peak of the week and Westinghouse dropped under 90.

Price changes in the Grain and Cotton markets were narrow, leading to the hope that Wheat has "found itself" in relation to the Farm Board's decision to remove the peg from the market. Cotton prices rallied about 35 cents a bale and Silver again dipped fractionally lower. The bond market was quiet, with Australian government issues recovering some of the ground lost yesterday. Call money was in good supply at 1 1/2 per cent.

ulation of outside selling orders, but the stock quickly rallied. Only slight losses were sustained by the Utility stocks and the good grade Industrials. U. S. Steel in the second hour rallied to 145, only 1/4 below yesterday's closing price, and Westinghouse held firmly around 90.

Write Books, Too

Two more Central Press writers have turned out books—again.

This time, it's Charles Samuels, top of the New York office, whose "Rather a Simple Fellow" is full of humor; and Joseph Van Raalte, below, whose "The Vice Squad" is creating a sensation in New York, where the vice squad has been in trouble. Van Raalte, whose "Bo-Bo-Bo" column gives readers much interesting New York gossip, is a veteran writer. And even though Samuels is very young, his present book is his second.

Alimony drove Cecil Brintnell, 25, of Vanderbilt, Mich., to rob a bank at Petoskey, Mich., according to his story. He confessed to robbing the bank in order to get funds to pay his alimony in order to avoid a jail sentence, police said. This was Petoskey's first bank robbery in nearly 75 years. Brintnell took $1,015, but within a day he was in a cell and $965 had been recovered.

Charges Girl Slavery Plied In Holy Land

Young Girls Are Even Hired Out At Small Rate Of Pay

JERUSALEM, Mar. 27.—The Arab newspaper Al Hayat charged recently that the practice of young girls being sold into virtual slavery is in operation in Palestine.

This, says the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, follows the sensational allegation made in Arab circles last December that about thirty girls of the Gazawieh Tribe, of Transjordan, sojourning near Beisan, in the Jordan valley had been sold by their fathers to masters and "husbands" in a number of towns.

Al Hayat's story is in the form of an open letter to the high commissioners from Hassan Sikky el Dajain, who charges it is not unusual for Arab girls of 16 years of age and even under to be "hired out" for as long as twenty five years at the rate of $5 a year.

The letter, in part follows:

"The Fellah sometimes has to sell his daughters as slaves at the cheapest price in order to use the money to keep body and soul together and to keep his wife alive. I have seen with my own eyes a thing of which I will tell you.

"A man stopped us as we were motoring to Halifa and said to the driver, 'I have a little girl with me. We want to go to Bireh, near Ramallah. Have you any room?' The driver said he had room and the young man brought back a young peasant child, not more than 8 years old. Her clothes were ragged and she was weeping. I asked the man where he had gotten the child, and he told me he had 'hired' her and was sending her to his brother in Bireh.

"Her parents," he explained, "have let me take her for 25 years for the sum of $25. There is nothing to be surprised about, for there are persons who make worse bargains and buy girls outright—forever."

"Another passenger said 'It is true. I have bought a little girl for myself and another for a cousin of mine. Many of my friends have bought girls. Prices six months ago were much higher. I had to pay $149 for my child, to say nothing of $10 for the agent who managed the business for me. Now prices have fallen. We train these children, and so do not have to hire servants."

"I asked the man what the government had to say about such a practice and the reply was, 'many of the governmental officials buy such girls themselves.'

Tarentum Police Quite Skeptical

Fail To Become Enthused By 'Blonde Gun-Girls' Capture In Philadelphia

(International News Service) TARENTUM, Pa., Mar. 27.—Lifted eyebrows and general skepticism on the part of police officials greeted reports from Philadelphia that the "blonde gun-girl" wanted in connection with numerous store holdups, had surrendered and had identified herself as Mary Balogh, 17, of Creighton, Pa.

They recalled especially the hoax which, they said, Mary, then a brunette, perpetrated in October, 1930, when she told police she knew and was associated with a "lone bandit" who had committed a series of robberies here.

Lending credence to the story, police arranged with Mary to trap the bandit. The trap was set, and Mary waited with police for the bandit to appear. They waited nearly two hours.

He didn't appear. Later, police said, Mary admitted she had hoaxed the officers. She is understood to be estranged from her husband, known as "Kovach," in Aliquippa.
